Mercy Hospital at Auburn Ground Broken by Bishop, Assisted by Mayor of City side as he removed a limb from a man, the victim of unfortunate accident.

"I doff my hat to the members of the medical profession—concerning their self-sacrificing men that they are. It only a public, so often prone to criticize and scoff, could only realize what and—limits—and long years of preparation and their many sacrifices how the name of our physicians would be extolled. To a certain extent they are worthy of the same reverence paid to your spiritual leaders for they perform a work in the physical order analogous to that performed by the clergy for you in the spiritual order.

Dedicate and Consecrate

"Today we dedicate and consecrate this hill as a mountain of health and hygiene and mercy to humanity and at the same time, as Bishop we dedicate and consecrate to your service the lives of the noble women who will minister to you here. They belong to an order that extends back ot the twelfth century. They will serve you faithfully because they serve you for the love of God. As sure as God is above and as sure as we stand here beneath his azure sky this morning their service shall be blessed and one day we shall have the joy of standing here to behold in its perfection, Mercy Hospital."

Bishop O'Hern was assisted in the breaking of the ground by Mrs. M. J. Foley, Mrs. F. K. Rich, Mrs. S. J. Louis and Miss Isabel T. Goss in addition to Mayor Osborne.
