

Knights, Masons, Jews To Serve With Catholic Bishop On Board Of College Provided For By Will

Mayor of Atlantic City, Killed in Recent Crossing Accident, Provides For Non-Sectarian Institution—Requests to Churches.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 25.—Representatives of the Knights of Columbus, Masons, Allied Veterans, Legion of Honor and of the Federation of Jewish Charities of Atlantic City are to serve on the board with the Rt. Rev. John J. McMahon, D.D., Bishop of Trenton, of a new college to be founded under the terms of the will of the late Anthony M. Huff, Mayor of Atlantic City, who was killed at a grade crossing accident a few weeks ago.

The will provides for the college, the nature of which is not specified in detail, but is to be determined by the Board of Trustees of the prospective institution. The college will be financed by a trust fund created by the will, and it is estimated to be in form and administration, strictly non-sectarian.

Rare Collection Is Given to Yale By Francis Garvan

New York, July 25.—One of the outstanding collections of prints in this country and in some respects, unique, has been given to the American people through Yale University in a recent gift by Francis P. Garvan, well-known Catholic of this city. More than 5,000 pieces are included in Mr. Garvan's collection, assembled in the past eight years.

500 Californians Received by Pope

Vatican City, July 25.—The Pope last week gave an audience to 500 pilgrims from California, who were introduced by the Jesuit father, Rev. Joseph R. Stack. The callers presented the Pontiff with a gift of money and a spiritual bouquet book containing 50,000 signatures.

Baby Parade Was Feature Of Annual Picnic

Catholic Women's Club Had More Than Two Thousand At Lakeside Outing—Bishop Reviewed Parade.

More than 2,000 women and children attended the annual picnic and outing of the Catholic Women's Club at Ontario Beach Park Saturday afternoon and evening. The event was one of the most successful ever held by the club. It was featured by a "Baby Parade" with the Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, reviewing the parade and handing out toys to the youngsters. The Bishop enjoyed his part to the utmost.

The parade was a delightful feature, the tiny tots seeming to enter into the spirit of the occasion in a happy manner. The Rev. Charles H. Reynolds, vice chancellor of the Diocese, took motion pictures of the parade and of the other activities at the grounds.

H. M. Pasini, director of athletics at the Columbia Civic Center, and Wilbur Quinn, assistant director, had charge of the program of sports. There were games and races for all ages. For the older girls, a baseball game was staged late in the day, with such crack players as the versatile Edna "Pat" O'Brien and Anita Rauber representing one team.

In the evening an entertainment was given in the auditorium at the park, one of the features of which was a dance by 12-year-old Howard Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Ward. This performance, given by children was keenly enjoyed by a large audience of children and adults.

Mrs. Edward J. Rooney was general chairman of the picnic committee and Mrs. Louis A. Whalen and Miss Gertrude M. Harnett were marshal and assistant marshal of the baby parade.

Central Verein Convention In Baltimore Soon

Diamond Jubilee Gathering Will Be Held August 17th to 20th—Historic Places Will Be Visited by Delegates.

Baltimore, Md., July 25.—The 1,100 delegates from all parts of the United States who will attend the diamond jubilee convention in this city of the Catholic Central Verein of America, August 17 to 20, will be shown many places of special historic interest of them, beginning with the Cathedral, where a Pontifical High Mass will open the big meeting.

The Cathedral of Baltimore, where lies buried Cardinal Gibbons, is the Mother Cathedral of the American Church. The great dome is 297 feet in circumference internally and 231 feet externally. The edifice contains a large number of fine paintings, gifts of Cardinal Fesch, uncle of the great Napoleon, and from two Kings of France.

The tiny house on Poca Street where was established the American Branch of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul—the Sisters of Charity—and St. Alphonsus Church, in the heart of the shopping center, where the famous Bishop John Neumann was stationed, and which had for many decades the leading German Catholic congregation of the country, are among the many places that will attract visitors. The church, recently frescoed and decorated, at large cost, is of beautiful Gothic design.

Meeting with the Central Verein will be the National Catholic Women's Union, formed in connection with the Verein, which was founded in Baltimore.

The general outline of the program for the convention includes business sessions, high Mass each morning at a local church, and social features, including trips on the Chesapeake Bay and to Annapolis, visits to the Naval Academy there, etc.

Signor Marconi Is The Father Of A Daughter

Baby Girl Born to Wireless Wizard Sunday Afternoon—Queen Helene of Italy Will Be the Godmother.

Civitavecchia, Italy, July 25.—A daughter was born to the Marchioness Maria Cristina Marconi, wife of the famous wireless pioneer in Odesca Palace here at 5 p. m. Sunday. The mother and infant were doing well. The infant will be named Maria Elettra Elena Anna Marconi. The baptism will be done by a cardinal.

Queen Helene of Italy will go to Rome this week to act as godmother at the baptism. The queen is at the royal lodge at Santa Anna di Valdieri, in Piedmont, where she is spending the summer, where she is spending the summer.

The Marchioness about a few days ago had remained aboard the Marconi yacht Elettra, but came to the mansion of the Prince and Princess Adescahl for the birth of her daughter. Marconi was married in 1927 to the Countess Maria Cristina Zecchi Scall and this is their first child.

New York Always on the Go And Is Always Changing, Says Alfred E. Smith, in Interview

Ex-Governor Says Novelty of To-day Is Ash Heap of To-morrow—Amazing Changes in Metropolis Since He Was a Boy—Old Swimming Hole Gone

New York, July 25. The magazine section of the New York Sunday Times of July 13 contains an interesting interview with ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith on "The Future of New York," in which the former Governor gives his views on the growth and changes of the great city. He talked about old tenements, and the necessity of getting rid of them. He talked about the difficulty of poor people finding decent living quarters in the city. He talked about land values and about buildings.

The interviewer spoke of the short life of many of the buildings of New York City.

"That is due," said Mr. Smith, "to the rise in land values rather than the depreciation of the buildings themselves. Twenty-five years is the average life of a building in this city. After all, twenty-five years in a city's life is not much more than a day in an individual's. A new building goes up and changes the character of the neighborhood, and an old one must come down."

"Now, when we started to demolish the old Waldorf-Astoria we found it structurally perfect. It was good for years, but it had outlived its usefulness because land values had so increased that it could not bring in the proper return."

"And do you know that it would have cost more to salvage most of the stuff out of which it was built than to buy new material? So that except for the copper on the roof, and the steel beams, the Waldorf is lying five miles out at sea from Coney Island. Poor Old Peacock Alley has become Codfish Row."

Saw Cow at Fifth Avenue. He resumed his seat. A fresh cigar was in his mouth. "But," he said, "after all, that's New York. It's always on the go and always changing. The novelty of today is the ash heap of tomorrow morning. When I think of what I have already seen in the way of changes, it's almost foolish for me to make predictions."

"Thirty-five years ago I saw a cow grazing at Nineteenth Street and Fifth Avenue. Today there is block after block of large apartment houses in sections of the city where, when I was serving jury notices, there were rocks with signatures lying on them. Had any one at that time predicted the changes that would take place up to now, he would have been looked upon as a visionary."

Old Swimming Hole Gone. "Yes, New York has changed in many ways since I was a boy. There's no more swimming in the East River, or hitching of sleds on the backs of wagons. The old neighborhood spots are gone. You can live for years in an apartment and not know the man who lives on the same floor."

"What about bringing up children in the city?" I asked. "A great many people have done it," he replied with a smile. "As a matter of fact," he continued, "I do not think it is such a bad place to do that. There is a lot of talk of how much better off youngsters are in the green fields and the open air."

Not Such a Bad Place. "About fifteen years ago, if you remember, we had an epidemic of infantile paralysis. At that time I was in the Assembly and represented one of the most crowded districts not only in the city but probably in the entire world. In my district during that epidemic we had exactly two cases of that disease."

"And the people over in that part of town had a hard job, for no matter how clean the housewife is, many of the old buildings are so dirty that there is a constant struggle to keep the flats clean."

"During my Governorship I was interested in setting up playgrounds and places of recreation for the children of the city, particularly for those living in congested sections. Some progress has been made. More will come. For I firmly believe that when the way is pointed out to them, the people will take steps to improve all the living conditions of the poor classes, and make this city as real in this respect as it is in others."

Mother's Letter Tells How Faith Consols in Grief

Many people remember with affection the late Fred Ford of Hawley Street, the young street car conductor who was accidentally killed by an automobile while doing a kindness for a lady. He was a member of Division No. 7, A.O.H., and the officers and members of this organization were most kind to the family when the tragedy occurred. The following beautiful letter, from the mother of Fred Ford, tells how that kind consolation, faith, in times of trouble and sorrow:

"Just at this time words seem to fall me, but I want you to know how much we appreciate the kindness and sympathy extended to us in our great sorrow."

"The presence of so many brothers kneeling in prayer, offered for the repose of the soul of our loved one, was indeed a great comfort, and were it not for the Catholic Faith in which we all believe, and for the knowledge of a unity hereafter, there would be little in life to give us hope."

"Please accept our sincere thanks for the beautiful floral, lamp, so dear to Irish hearts, and also we extend our gratitude to the brothers who were pall bearers."

"We appreciate all you have done for us at this time to make our sorrow lighter."

"With all best wishes for your success and welfare, I am, Sincerely yours, "CATHERINE A. FORD."

The Novena That Brings Results

This is probably true of all Novenas but it is most certainly true of the Graymoor Novena to St. Anthony. Ten Thousand Clients of the Wonder-Worker of Padua have written letters of testimony to this effect. These letters of testimonial continue to pour in by every mail from all parts of the United States and Canada. Not a day passes that does not bring to St. Anthony's Shrine on the Mount of the Atonement testimonials such as the following:

A Fine Statue Of St. Margaret Given to Chapel

Archbishop Thos. F. Hickey Presents Statue to Chapel At Conesus Lake, Named In Honor of His Mother.

The Most Rev. Thomas F. Hickey, D.D., Archbishop of Viganacium, presented a beautiful statue of St. Margaret, the Virgin and Martyr, to St. Margaret's Chapel, Conesus Lake, and this statue was blessed on Sunday when the Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, celebrated Mass at the chapel. Archbishop Hickey preached the sermon of the day, and Bishop O'Hern spoke appreciatively of the gift of Archbishop Hickey, and of the manner in which it will be appreciated by the people.

The chapel at Conesus is named after St. Margaret, in whose honor the mother of Archbishop Hickey was also named and hence the Archbishop has a special interest in the chapel and a special love for it. The statue given by him is a particularly beautiful one and it has already found a warm place in the hearts and the devotion of the people who worship and pray at the chapel throughout the summer season. Archbishop Hickey in his sermon, told of the beautiful life and heroic death of St. Margaret, and of the great favor in which she was held by God. He told of her early childhood, near historic Antioch, and how when she was grown to beautiful womanhood a Roman prefect, whose attentions she rejected, had her brought to public trial. Sentenced to die by fire, she was untouched by the flames when thrown into them. Bound hand and foot, and thrown into a cauldron of boiling water, she escaped unhurt. The prefect, in a terrible rage, then had her beheaded, and she died a beautiful death. The sermon by Archbishop Hickey, beautifully delivered, made a deep impression upon all who heard him.

Cardinal Cerretti Named Archpriest Of St. Mary Major

Vatican City, July 25.—Cardinal Cerretti, for years auditor of the apostolic delegation at Washington, has been named archpriest of the Basilica of St. Mary Major. He succeeds the late Cardinal Vannutelli.

Bishop O'Hern spoke most appreciatively of the gift of Archbishop Hickey, and of the inspiration and devotion it would bring to the hearts of the people of Conesus Lake. He told of the selection of the name of the chapel in tribute to the good mother of Archbishop Hickey, as well as to the beautiful Saint after whom she was named, and he closed his talk by asking God's blessing upon all the people. The service was an impressive and inspiring one for the communicants of the chapel.
