St. Bonaventure's Fund Passes the $200,000 Mark, And New Buildings Progress

Dormitory Annex Will Be Ready In September—Several Hundred Students At Summer School—Erie Priests Hold Retreat.

St. Bonaventure, N. Y., July 25.—Out of over $200,000 so far raised in the Diamond Jubilee Enrollment among the alumni and friends of St. Bonaventure's College, which was swept by fire on May 5, more than half has already been paid in cash. This announcement was made to-day by the college authorities, who expressed much satisfaction over the progress of the enrollment, which is being carried out by the Alumni Association of the college through its 21 organized chapters. The sum already secured makes possible the reconstruction of some of the buildings destroyed by the fire and which are absolutely necessary to the conduct of the college, such as the administration building and the dining hall.

With hoisting engines and riveting machines sending their noise reverberating among the hills about the college, construction work is now in full swing, and a great skeleton of the steel skeleton of the addition to Devereaux Hall, the new dormitory building, will be ready when the college sessions begin in late September.

In the meantime the Summer school sessions are being started on schedule with an enrollment of several hundred students and with a greater variety of courses than ever before offered by the institution. Classes in the Summer school are being held in buildings at the opposite end of the campus from that in which construction is in progress, in order that the noise and dust of the work of professors and students.

John Donoghue Writes a Song On The Genesee

The publishing house of Frank Harding, New York City, has just issued a song entitled "Rochester, on the Banks of the Genesee." The words of the song were written by John Donoghue of 354 Vermont street, and the music by Luther A. Clark. Mr. Donoghue publishes the song, through the Harding Company. The price of the song has been fixed at 25 cents, and will undoubtedly find a great many purchasers. It is printed on excellent paper, with a beautiful view of the Genesee River on the title page. The chorus of the song runs:

"Roll along, grand old river,
 Visions of dreams;
 Take us back to dear Rochester,
 Near the finest of streams.

"They may sing of the Wabash,
 The Shannon and the Lee;
 But give us the banks,
 Of the old Genesee."

It is the hope of the author that the song may help to keep the R in Rochester and the G in the Genesee. Mr. Donoghue is a member of the Cathedral parish, and he has many friends, all of whom will be interested in his song and anxious to see it a great success.

St. Francis Sisters Coming to Rochester in New Parish School

 tional work in this community. Marvellous progress has been made here since that time. First came your church, very humble, it is true, but serving you as well as a great cathedral. A beautiful name was given to it—Our Lady of Good Counsel. In this parish the first school should and will receive great supernatural help and grace. It was my privilege, when a student in the North American College in Rome, to visit the shrine of Our Lady of Good Counsel in Europe and see the thousands of pilgrims who come there every year on the feast of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin, September 8th. That name has been transplanted here, and it will mean much for your parish and for its people.

Praises Progress Made
 "In the 21 months of your life as a parish you have done a magnificent work. Since then, your pastor tells me, you have contributed upwards of $50,000 to this parish, a generosity that is marvelous, and that speaks well of your interest, your zeal and your love.

"Religion could, and often does, get along without any building. We can worship God in the open air, if necessary, under the trees and the skies. But to-day our modern educational system demands modern buildings, and it such a building you are erecting here. This will be a school where all children will be educated not only in the three R's, but in the fourth R—Religion—which is the cause and reason of our Catholic faith. This first unit will provide for 350 children, and its requirements will meet every demand of our own Diocese of the great State of New York.

Wholesome Lessons
 "Wholesome lessons of Christian faith will be taught here, along with other subjects, and these lessons will help all children become better men and women, as well as better citizens. Learning to love the law of God will help them respect the law of man.

"In these United States great progress has been made in our parochial schools, and great progress has been made, too, in the Diocese of Rochester. This is the 33d parish grammar school in the city of Rochester. The number has a beautiful significance, for our divine Lord lived 33 years upon this earth. In our Catholic high schools in this country there are approximately 100,000 students, and in our parochial grammar schools there are in excess of 2,500,000 children, not counting the 50,000 children in our Catholic orphan asylums. Therefore, we are educating approximately 3,000,000 children, working side by side with our public schools in this great educational undertaking.

Millions in Taxes Saved
 "The most significant fact in Catholic growth in America has been the wonderful growth of our parochial school system. This system has been perfected entirely at the expense of our own Catholic people. We have built our own schools, we employ our own teachers, and we maintain all our schools at our own expense.

"While we are erecting, equipping and maintaining splendid school buildings like this, we are also paying our share of the taxes for the public schools. Hence, our non-Catholic friends ought to be grateful to us for the enormous amount of taxes we save them each year. For if all our children were educated in the public schools the non-Catholic would have to help pay the enormous increase in taxes that would result.

"For instance, right here in Rochester, if the 25,000 school children in our parish schools were turned over to the public schools, to be educated at general public expense, the total extra tax for necessary new buildings and for the hundreds of new teachers would run into millions, and perhaps a billion dollars.

Sisters of St. Francis Coming
 "I have an important announcement to make for this parish. Your Bishop has arranged with one of the grandest educational orders in the world to come here and teach—the Sisters of St. Francis. They are coming from Western New York, within a stone's throw of the consecrated spot where my parents sleep in death. This order goes back in history 700 years, and during all of those years it has been known for its splendid educational and charitable work the world over. You will love these Sisters, I am sure, when they come among you with their brown habits. They will be the first unit of the order to come into the Diocese to teach in English. We already have the Franciscan Sisters in a Polish school in Hudson Avenue, and they are doing splendid work.

Pastor and Assistant
 "It is a great pleasure for me to come and lay this cornerstone for my

The Nocturnal Society Meets Saturday Night

The Nocturnal Adoration Society, beginning at 10 o'clock, will meet in groups, one hour for each group, in Lady Chapel, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Saturday night this week.

Members of the society have been notified by Secretary William G. Wynn, and it is expected the attendance will be in keeping with the fine record already established by the society.

This society is open to all Catholic men who wish to make the sacrifice of spending one hour one night a month in adoration of the Blessed Sacrament in Lady Chapel. It is open to men of all parishes, and new members are privileged to join at any time.

boy—Father Meagher—for he grew up in the Cathedral parish when I was rector there. I had occasion to know him, and to know his fine qualities and splendid character. Some months ago I came here to a Holy Name banquet, and it was a joy to my heart to see the fine group of men he had around him. I never saw a finer or more enthusiastic lot of workers anywhere. Therefore, I know you will stand back of him loyally in the great work he has undertaken in building this $150,000 school for your children. You will not let him worry too much about interest, or about upkeep, but will help him as generously as possible at all times. He has a fine assistant in Father Bisk, whose good father and mother and manifold brothers and sisters have long been loyal to the Church. He will prove a strong right arm for Father Meagher, and a good worker for his people.

"This building is the first group of Gothic church buildings for your parish. Later on you will have Church, convent and rectory of the same architectural style, the most sublime of all forms of church architecture, developed by great architects in the Middle Ages. See to it that you take the lead of all new parishes. With your general, loyal and capable pastor at your head, you have a glorious future. Do all you can to help him make it so. My heartiest congratulations go out to you all, and may God's choicest blessings descend upon you and your loved ones."

Bishop O'Hern gave his solemn episcopal blessing to the people at the close of his talk, bringing a historic occasion to a happy conclusion. The new building, a slightly and beautiful one, will be ready for occupancy in September. Edwin Gordon is the architect, and the contractor in charge is Daniel J. Meagher, who specializes in church work with unusual success.

After appearing in a play 328 times, one of the actors forgot his lines at the 328th performance.
