

North Ireland School Program Meets Objection

Dublin, July 25.—Strong objection to the North Ireland Government's education bill discriminating against Catholics continues to be voiced in important circles.

Cardinal MacRory, primate of all Ireland, has renewed his condemnation of the bill and at the same time several municipalities in Ulster as well as the Free State have joined in the protest.

One objection to the measure of particular significance comes from the Rev. Mr. Quinn, pastor of St. Bartholomew's Protestant Church in Belfast. He declares that a majority of the Protestants would rejoice to see the Catholic educational grievance remedied.

In the face of these protests, the Government however, offers no hope of a change in its attitude.

Jesuit "Sky Pilot" on Way To Pacific Coast in Plane Dedicated to Mission Work

Dubuque, Iowa, July 25.—Brother George Feltes, S. J., of San Francisco, is visiting relatives here today, and tomorrow he will fly to San Francisco, completing his trip across the continent in the only airplane in the world dedicated to Mission work for the Catholic Church. From San Francisco he will fly to Alaska, accompanied by the Very Rev. Philip de Lon, superior of the Jesuit missions in Alaska.

The plane, the Marquette, was blessed and dedicated to Mission work on Roosevelt Field, L. I., on June 29th, by the Rev. Joseph Raphael Crimont, S. J., Vicarariate Apostolic of Alaska. It was presented to the Jesuit Missions of Alaska by the Marquette League of New York, of which the Rev. William Flynn, formerly of Rochester, is secretary and director. Brother Feltes, the only licensed missionary pilot in the world, had planned to fly immediately to the coast, but the sudden illness and death of his father prevented this. He left Roosevelt Field on Tuesday and his itinerary was as follows:

July 19, noon, left Roosevelt Field; 3 P. M., passed over the Marry's Shrine at Auriesville, N. Y., near Albany, where a wreath was dropped from the plane; 6 P. M., arrived in Buffalo where he spent the night.

July 20, 9 A. M., left Buffalo for Detroit where the engines of the Marquette were inspected for their northern ordeal.

July 23, 9 A. M., Wednesday, left for Chicago where he spent the night.

July 24, Thursday left Chicago for Dubuque, Iowa where he arrived at 10 A. M., and where he will visit relatives. Saturday he will leave Dubuque for Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The plane is equipped with first aid supplies and will have space to carry foodstuffs to regions which run out of food during the winter months.

Most of the people he will serve are Eskimos and Indians. It will be possible for Brother Feltes to cover the Alaskan parish in about two weeks. With a dog team, it takes about six months.

Thus it will be possible for the missionary priests to visit the various missions more frequently than in the past, and to increase their hospitality and welfare work to a much larger scale. Brother Feltes will take Bishop Crimont and priests and Sisters of the Alaska missions wherever they desire to go. His plane will carry six passengers, and is equipped with every modern safety device.

Alhambra Memorial to Max Russer Will be Unveiled and Dedicated

A substantial foundation tablet has been placed upon the center of a giant millstone, believed to be more than 200 years old, and thought to have been brought to Conesus from some far distant place. Mr. Hetzler, by great good fortune, found this old stone, which weighs more than two tons. He built for it a foundation of cobblestones and cement, with a base extending four feet and six inches below the ground, and with a pedestal three feet and six inches above the ground. The millstone is three feet and six inches above the base, making a total height for the memorial of seven feet.

The Memorial has been placed on the lake side of the camp site, opposite the camp buildings, and at a spot where the boys at the camp assemble each evening to recite the Rosary. Here this beautiful devotion will be said many a time for Mr. Russer, and his name and memory will be perpetuated in a way that will warm the hearts of all his friends.

The tablet will be electrically lighted at night, so that all passing motorists may see it.

The writing and preparation of the electrical work for the tablet were done by Patrick A. Dwyer, president of the Dwyer Electrical Co. and a close friend of Mr. Russer during life. An automatic time switch will light the tablet from 8 to 11:30 every evening.

The program Sunday Bishop O'Hern will officiate at the unveiling and dedication, and will give an address. The Rev. Joseph H. Gefell, rector of Holy Family Church, and a life-long friend of Mr. Russer, will talk on the life, work and character of Max. Another talk will be given by the Rev. William P. Ryan of St. Bernard's Seminary, and one by Attorney Daniel P. Fitzgerald. Appropriate hymns will be sung by the boys at Camp Stella Maris, under the direction of the Rev. Gerald Lambert, head-of-the-camp.

The new white Fez, regulation headdress of members of the Alhambra, supplanting the old red one, will be used at the unveiling for the first time. There will be a big supply at the camp for distribution to members of the Alhambra.

Thousands There Sunday The interest that is being taken in this memorial is attested by the fact that more than 3,000 people stopped at the camp last Sunday to see it, and all through the week motorists stopped every day to admire the tablet and to speak in appreciation of its erection.

Mons. Caravan, Order of the Alhambra, is to be commended for erecting this tablet. It will stand for long as a monument not only to him in whose honor it has been erected, but as a monument, too, to the organization that, by its thoughtful appreciation, thus fittingly perpetuates the name, the memory and the kind deeds of a noble young boy, and upright and patriotic citizen and an outstanding son of the Church of God.

Heroic Sister Rescued Woman in India Riots

Drove Automobile Through Streets of Burning Houses and Took Mother and New-Born Babe to Safety.

(Fides Service)

Dacca, Bengal, India, July 25.—Out of the riots and disturbances of India comes a story of the bravery of an American nun, who braved a burning town to save a woman's life. The riots which have broken out in various sections of India in connection with the civil disobedience campaign came to a head in Dacca in a bloody Hindu-Mohammedan clash.

Sister Laetitia and Sister Helen, who are in charge of the maternity center of Dacca, in spite of rioting, spent one Saturday night, from 6 to 11:30, watching at the bedside of a woman. As they passed through the streets at midnight the glare of burning houses and stores lit up the streets and made the air like a blast furnace. The Superintendent of Police told them to go home and stay home.

Sunday morning after Mass, however, they began again to visit the sick. One woman with a new-born babe was in the midst of the fire area, and the flames were creeping towards the house. Having tried in vain to get a taxi or carriage to take them to her home, Sister Laetitia went to the residence of Bishop Crowley and asked for his Lordship's car. The chauffeur, being a Mohammedan, could not safely drive through the affected districts. Sister Laetitia, therefore, took the car herself and drove through the fire area, rescued the woman and brought her to a quiet place outside the city.

The Medical Missionaries opened the Dacca Maternity Center March 17 of this year, under the auspices of the "Dacca Maternity and Child Welfare Work." Their initial efforts have occasioned high praise from all creeds, including Hindus and Mohammedans.

Characterizing the natives as "happy, docile and friendly," Bishop Crimont says their morals grow better almost in proportion to their distance from whites.

Epidemics of flu, smallpox and diphtheria have decimated their ranks and he believes the new census will show a decrease in population. Bishop Crimont's diocese covers an area one-fifth that of the United States but he has only 27 priests at his disposal to minister to 19,000 parishioners.

Knights' Fourth Annual Cruise Plans Complete

As the time for the Fourth Annual Cruise and Basket Picnic of the Knights of St. John, Knights of the Ladies Auxiliary, draws closer, the committee in charge of this big event is working hard to provide for a large number who will take in the outing this year. William C. Rossenbach, general chairman, together with the other committee members, promise something this year that will surpass any of the other events that were held in the past. In speaking of the picnic this year, Joseph Keller, who is taking care of the ticket disposal, made the following remarks at a recent meeting of the committee:

"Expects a Large Crowd. There is no reason why the outing this year should not be a success in every way. The date, the weather, (which we hope will be fair), and everything else is in our favor. Our committee has been very active in making elaborate arrangements for this cruise. The Sports Committee is arranging a list of events and accepting prizes for the winners. The ball game this year, also, is expected to be a big success, weather permitting, of course. I say again, therefore, that anyone who is planning to attend can be assured of a good time, and to a certain extent, one that will surpass the ones held previously."

Urges Early Purchase of Tickets "It is the desire of the committee and a request that all who expect to take in this affair should purchase their tickets as soon as possible to assure transportation. A capacity crowd is expected, and for this reason alone, the early purchase of tickets will help the committee in making the necessary arrangements. Here is your chance to spend an enjoyable day's outing."

For the benefit of those who have not as yet purchased their tickets for the cruise, it is again announced that same are on sale at the following stores:

Downtown Section, Weis & Fisher Store, at 59 State Street.

St. Michael's Section, At Miller's Jewelry Store, at 854 Clinton Ave. N. Holy Family Section, John Fleisher Bakery, corner Jay and Lisbon Streets.

St. Boniface Section—Catherine Baegler, 942 Clinton Ave. South.

Church Is Making Progress In The Ancient Kingdom of Siam, And Meets With No Opposition

Nearly Three Thousand Students in Schools of Brothers of St. Gabriel, And More Than One Thousand in Sisters' Schools

(Fides Service)

Vatican City, July 25.—An interesting sketch of Siam, "kingdom of the free," was given a Fides representative by His Lordship Bishop Perros, of the Paris Foreign Mission Society, in an interview granted by this Vicar Apostolic during his recent ad limina visit to Rome.

"Siam," said Bishop Perros, "was the sanctuary of the first Paris Foreign Missionaries, who in 1682 made the memorable journey overland to the Orient, and while persecution beset them in many neighboring lands they were almost always able to maintain themselves in this realm. Here, in 1666, a seminary was founded for the training of Asiatic clergy. Today we have 39 priests born in Siam, with 18 Paris Missionaries, while the Salesians have begun with 10 priests from Europe."

Proud of Catholic Schools "We are extremely proud of the Catholic schools, which have become of great importance in the capital. The king visited Assumption College of the Brothers of St. Gabriel recently and the academy of the Sisters of St. Paul de Chartres. In the institutions of the Brothers of St. Gabriel are 2,714 pupils, while in those of the Sisters of St. Paul de Chartres are 1,031. The Ursulines took up work among us in 1924, and count already 150 pupils. The laborers of these brothers and sisters are a beautiful consolation."

"We have a teacher-catechist school, with 23 catechists in active service. As regards Siamese sisters, it is striking to note that the institute arising throughout southeastern Asia by bishops of the Paris Society, the Lovers of the Cross, was founded in Siam in 1670. Our community now numbers 106. They render splendid assistance in our charitable activity. An institute in Bangkok is our printing establishment which employs 30 workers. Since 1925 we have been privileged to have a Carmelite monastery which counts 17 members."

Cathedral Musical Director New York, July 25. The Rev. Joseph H. Rostagno, director of music at St. Patrick's Cathedral, sailed Friday on the liner Conte Di Benedetto of the Lloyd Sabaudo for a two months' tour of his native land. A farewell dinner was given for him last evening at the rectory, 460 Madison Avenue. Father Rostagno came here eighteen months ago. This will be his first visit home.

A Difficulty and Its Solution

A correspondent writes: "I wish to give a substantial amount to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith for the support of the mission. I have the amount on hand and want to give it before my death; my income, however, is limited and I need the interest on what I wish to give to the mission. Can you make a suggestion?"

The Society's Conditional Gift Plan solved this benefactor's difficulty. He is now receiving a higher rate of interest than is paid by the banks, with the assurance that he will draw it as long as he lives. Furthermore, he has the satisfaction of knowing that upon his death the principal will be applied forthwith for the benefit of the mission.
