

Mission Activities

(Fides Service)
Mangalore, India.—The Holy See has granted permission to Bishop de Souza of Mangalore to formally erect as a religious congregation the Sisters of the Little Flower, an Indian community founded eight years ago by an able Indian priest. The body already counts over 40 members teaching in ten different schools of the diocese.

Simla, India.—The Capuchin Nuns, which for nine years was located at Sardana in northern India, has been transferred to a beautiful site in the Diocese of Mangalore, southern India, to a historic place called Mont Mariano. Since Mangalore is a strong Catholic center with numerous vocations, it is believed that the change will improve the atmosphere for the Capuchins during training and will increase the number of candidates.

Luluabour, Belgian Congo.—Last May 19th witnessed 500 adults receive Baptism in this mission after an exacting course of training which has endured two years. Hopes for the Church are particularly bright in the Upper Kasai region of Congo. The Mission is in care of the Scheut Fathers.

Fort Resolution, Mackenzie, Canada.—When the Catholic hospital at Fort Simpson, on the Mackenzie River, was destroyed by fire recently, Bishop Broyat, O.M.I., hurried immediately to the spot by airplane and then departed for Ottawa where he laid before the government a plan to reconstruct the office as soon as possible.

Paoingfu, Chi Hill, China.—Through an arrangement made by Doctor Tse of the Catholic Hospital at Paoingfu the Sisters of Charity now visit the city prison every Wednesday and Saturday and administer to the prisoners. Through the kindness which the inmates have experienced from the "white corners" in the prison infirmary the visits have come to mean for the wretches the brightest spot of the week.

K. of C. Singers Will Hold Outing, Newport Saturday

The Knights of Columbus Choral Society will hold its annual mid-summer dinner at Newport, Saturday, beginning at 3 p. m. The program includes sports and games, a ball game between the "Basses" and "Tenors," dinner at 5 p. m., and dancing from 8 to 12. A tour of war and an egg throwing contest are on the program.

Assisting Chairman Paul Prodmore will be: George Foss, Albert Mura, George Ganney, Charles Leuch, Edward Rizze, Al Conway, Hubert Gull and Eugene Hill.

Early settlers in America brought sheep from Spain, England and Holland, but improved breeds were not introduced until the Nineteenth century.

Successor to Martyr-Bishop Of Shiuchow, China, is Named, And Three Other Mission Bishops

Bishop Ignatius Canazei Succeeds Bishop Versiglia—Two New Mission Territories Are Created—Other Changes Made.

(Fides Service)
Vatican City, Aug. 22. Among the eight decrees announced by the Sacred Congregation of Propaganda, following the plenary of July 14th, one of particular interest is that naming a successor to His Lordship Louis Versiglia of the Vicariate of Shiuchow, China, murdered in February, 1930. The new occupant of the post is His Lordship Ignatius Canazei, likewise of the Salsian Fathers.

Besides Bishop Canazei, the Sacred Congregation names three new bishops, and raises two prefectures to the rank of vicariate. Of the new territories, one is the erection of the Diocese of Vijapuram by a division of the Archdiocese of Verapoly in India. The new territory is assigned to the Spanish Carmelites of the Province of Navarra who have been in charge of Verapoly while it is understood that in time Verapoly will pass to the native clergy. In China the Vicariate of Changsha, Hunan Province, in care of the Franciscans, is divided to form the new Vicariate Apostolic of Hengchow.

The Prefecture Apostolic of Great Namaqualand, South Africa, in care of the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales becomes a Vicariate as does likewise the present Prefecture Apostolic of Matadi, Belgian Congo, in charge of the Redemptorists.

His Lordship Raphael Angelo Palazzo, O.F.M., an Italian, becomes the first bishop of the Vicariate of Hengchow, while His Lordship John Cuvelier, C.S.S.R., of Belgium, formerly Prefect Apostolic of Matadi, becomes the first bishop of this latter territory. The bishop to head the Vicariate of Great Namaqualand has not been named.

His Lordship Francis Mou, Chinese priest of the Vicariate Apostolic of Luantao, becomes Bishop in the Vicariate Apostolic of Fenyang, Shansi Province, succeeding His Lordship Bishop Louis Chen, one of the six Chinese consecrated by His Holiness in 1924 who is recently deceased.

Great Trong Present At Memorial Services At Auriesville Shrine

Influence lasts in our national annals and our Church until this day. They labored in a restricted territory, but their fame and the inspiration of their lives reach to the uttermost ends of the earth. For their coming to America, Canada and the United States are now sending hosts of missionaries to all parts of the world, and not one of them who does not know the giant Brobeuc and the gentle Jogues.

A Solemn Procession
 At 4 P. M. a solemn procession of many church dignitaries moved to the historic ravine where Father Jogues found the mutilated body of his faithful companion, Jean Gault, after the latter had been tortured and slain. The Apostle Delegate carried the Blessed Sacrament and in the ravine, where the natural amphitheatre was densely packed with humanity, he gave the benediction and bestowed the apostolic blessing.

The Rev. Peter F. Cusick, S.J., present shrine director, preached the sermon in the ravine praising the seal with which the three Jesuit Fathers labored among the Indians.

A group of Iroquois Indians from the Onondaga Reservation mingled with the pilgrims and roamed about the shrine.

Story of the Martyrs
 After paying tribute to its founder, Father Cusick told the story of the martyrs.

"As long as the Mohawk flows on its way to the Hudson," he said, "and the echoes of the winds are heard around the hill of Auriesville, the names of Isaac Jogues, Rene Gault and John Lalonde will be held in veneration as saints and martyrs of Jesus Christ wherever in the world a priest offers the holy sacrifice. Their presence here has made this spot a holy, sacred place. The presence of their bodies has made the Mohawk a holy, sacred river.

"Their presence here has made the diocese of Albany an honored diocese. Their example ever here and ever shall be an inspiration to other and more modern missionaries. Zealous young hearts reading of their heroism have been encouraged to walk in their footsteps. Among all the glories of the Empire State none shines out with the brilliance of the latter, the grandeur of her claim to having the three first martyrs of Christ die within her confines.

Great Trong Present
 drew Brennan, Richmond, Va.; Bishop T. C. O'Reilly, Scranton, Pa.; Bishop Morrison, Nova Scotia; Bishop Henry Rohlfman, Davenport, Iowa; Bishop Howard, Covington, Ky.; Msgr. E. J. Britt, representing the Buffalo diocese; Msgr. John J. Sheridan, Syracuse diocese; Msgr. J. P. Stillmans, archdiocese of New York; the Rev. Father Shea, S.J., of San Francisco, representing the Great Prophet of Seneca; Captain The Rev. J. A. Greeley, S.J., of the American staff, was delegate from the Southern Provincial and the Very Rev. Brother Leo, provincial of the Christian Brothers, represented the Society of which he is the head.

A Great Trong
 A special train brought hundreds from the East, while two more trains were required to accommodate those who made the journey from the western part of the State. The automobile traffic on the highway leading to the shrine was so congested that thousands were delayed for hours while state Troopers and special officers endeavored to untangle the mass. Many abandoned their machines and walked part of the distance.

The spacious grounds were crowded with pilgrims from early morning until evening. A parking space of 30 acres was inadequate to accommodate the motor cars of pilgrims.

The procession to the chapel and to the ravine were escorted by Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus from many places, and in full regalia.

Preaching In Streets of China Forbidden by Gov't

Peking, China, Aug. 22.—A government edict forbids street preaching in Peking. The order affects principally such Protestant sects as the Salvation Army, who have made it a practice to set themselves up at corners or in restaurants and public gathering places. The order reads: "At a moment when the national government is doing everything possible to put an end to superstition in China, and to stop the invasion of foreign cults it would be ridiculous to tolerate religious propaganda in the streets of the capital."

The anti-Christian intent of the order is best judged by linking with it similar regulations forbidding religious manifestations. These include the prohibition of moving picture films, such as "The Ten Commandments" and "King of Kings", suppressed some time back.

Nearly one-fourth of all the Indians in the United States live in Arizona and New Mexico.

Fixing the Line Of the Churches And Prohibition

Auburn Citizen Has Strong Editorial on Ministers Who Become Political Agitators of Most Rabid Kind.

The following editorial, entitled "The Churches and Prohibition" is from a recent issue of The Auburn Citizen:

"In recent years in this country we have had much discussion concerning the attitude of religious bodies towards politics and political questions.

"It is by no means a new question. We have heard political preachers in the United States ever since the beginning. In the presidential campaign of 1801 when Jefferson defeated John Adams, the churches of New England rang with denunciations of the Virginian. Ever since then, from time to time, special issues have arisen which have turned pulpits into political rostrums. Never more so than in our own day.

Arousing Antagonism
 "Such political activity in the churches has always aroused antagonism, both within their own ranks and there are many who today see a close connection between the waning influence of the churches and political agitation in which many of them indulge.

"The churches should not deal with problems of modern life no one so far as we know, has ever claimed. But this is quite a different matter from organization for the promulgation of certain political doctrines and the espousal of certain political candidates.

"The distinction is perhaps a difficult one to define in special cases but it is by no means an impossible one. Dr. Walter A. Maier, a recent speaker before the Institute of Public Affairs held at the University of Virginia dealt with this subject in an address entitled 'The Jeffersonian Ideals of Religious Liberty.' In the course of his remarks he drew the distinction we speak of as clearly as we have seen it done.

What Jefferson Would Do
 "He pointed out that Jefferson, the father of religious freedom and religious tolerance in this country, would, if he were living today, first of all establish the fact that the constitutional amendment for prohibition is in every sense of the term, as we have it, part and parcel of our civil legislation. As such it should be assailed or championed just as little as any tariff provision, traffic ordinance, narcotic measure or game legislation should be accorded ecclesiastical approval or disapproval."

Rabid Political Agitators
 "Here is clearly set forth the limits within which ministers can be considered as spiritual and ethical advisers of their flocks and beyond which they become political agitators of the most rabid and unreliable sort. There are plenty of the latter with us today and many will be found to agree with Dr. Maier's statement that:

"There are too many crusading pastors who are political impostors; too many scriptural texts are mere partisan pretexts; too many militant clergymen are really virulent policemen."

The tragedy of the situation is that these men tend to lessen church influence in its proper sphere as no amount of disbelier and lay religious indifference can possibly do.

A. O. H. Resolutions
 WHEREAS death recently claimed our good brother, Peter H. Arthur of 127 Pearl Street, a loyal and devoted member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians; interested always in the work and the welfare of the order; kindly and helpful to his friends and associates; a good husband and faithful friend; and whereas his death leaves a void in our ranks, be it, therefore, resolved that the Ancient Order of Hibernians extend sincere sympathy to his bereaved wife, Elizabeth Wiegand-Arthur, and his two sisters, Mrs. Katherine Martin and Mrs. Charles Miller, and that we mourn with them in the great loss they have sustained.

(Signed) W. J. McGRATH, H. L. KELLY, H. J. WHITLEY, Committee.

A. O. H. Meeting Tuesday
 The members of Division No. 7, A. O. H., will hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening in the quarters of the society, Columbus Civic Center. All members are urged to attend.

One Thousand Delegates Attend Annual Convention Catholic Central Verein

the college of science, University of Notre-Dame, presented the Laetare Medal to Mr. Kenkel.

Welcomed by the Mayor
 Mayor Broening of Baltimore welcomed the delegates. He pointed out that the Verein originated in Baltimore 75 years ago and said in part:

"It is always a great privilege to welcome the stranger within our gates but it is a particular privilege to welcome those engaged in such activities as are fostered and sponsored by the Catholic Central Verein. The Verein's activities contribute to the enrichment and enlightenment of a people. The houses and hearts of our people are open to you."

The principal objects of the Verein are Catholic action, in general, propagation of the faith, creation and maintenance of religious toleration, and the study and solution of social problems.

Solemn Pontifical Mass
 The convention opened Sunday with a joint session of the Catholic Central Verein and of the National Catholic Women's Union at the Knights of Columbus Club. The delegates then marched to the Cathedral to attend a pontifical Mass at which Bishop McNamara of Washington, D. C., was celebrant. The Rt. Rev. Hugh Boyle of Pittsburgh, Pa., preached the sermon, and he gave sincere praise to the organization, its work and its ideals.

Anger is a trait as natural to man as it is to a beast. But the beast has passed, the beast gives it no further thought, while man, on the other hand, will continue to fume, burning up his own energies and inflaming others, long after the need for further expostulation has passed.
