THEY ARE NOT DEAD

I cannot think of them as dead. Who in fierce battle fell: I know they must be with their God. That all with them is well.
Greater love than this, the Master said, No mortal e'er possessed Than that a man die for his friends. And all he loves the best.
They only sleep in Flanders' fields, Where bright red poppies bloom. And where white crosses row on row Stand guard above each tomb.
They fell upon the battlefield While defending home and friends. And so they live on for aye— Their being never ends.
Dear Mothers of these fallen lads, Take heart and do not weep. They are not dead, there is no death. What seems like death is sleep.
And when the Master calls you home, His holy ones to greet, On the paraps of Heaven bright, You and your boys shall meet.
Again you'll clasp them in your arms. Just as you did of yore, And they and you will be with God. To parted be no more.
JOHN A. TWAMBLEY.

Shamrock from Princess Mary London, March 20.—The principal Irish ceremony here Tuesday was the presentation by General Lord Cavendish to the Irish Guards at Windsor of a shamrock given by Princess Mary. The battalion afterward attended Mass at St. Edward's Church.

Bishop of Rochester Receives Gold Cross From King of Italy

kindly eye of their great spiritual leader.
Spiritual Builders
"Twenty-five, thirty and thirty-five years have come and gone and everyone of them has become conspicuous for his work and accomplishments in the vineyard of the Lord. They have become known as builders not only of brick and mortar, but in a far greater way, builders of spiritual values in guiding large congregations of people whom they have served. Moreover, their work and their lives have been of such a quality that they have been selected by members of the Episcopal Cabinet of the Diocese, as trusted men whose counsel and advice we are assured will be constantly sought in the administration of diocesan affairs. And so they will lay aside their black robes and don the royal purple which makes them members of the household of the Holy Father himself in the Vatican City.
"The citizens of Rochester congratulate the Diocese and these new prelates individually and as a group, for what they have meant in the past and for what they will mean in the days to come for religion and education."
The Five New Knights
"And these five laymen, our fellow citizens, who have been raised to the dignity of Knighthood, will fully measure up to the high standard of their calling in their individual and collective lives. These gentlemen represent important interests in this community in professional and business life. They have given their strength and their ability to the advancement of our city in its business and professional life in its admirable charities. And so we congratulate them cordially upon receiving the deserved honor of knighthood in the Order of St. Gregory the Great, one of the most illustrious pontiffs that ever lived, in whose name the great Order has come down, preserving in a changing world, the changeless principles of civility."
"While we have not today a knight as such as they had in the middle ages with his lance and his armor and his journeyings far and near, we know that the qualities of a real knight's life in our day are of a different nature. For a knight must now, as then, be a man of courage, of integrity of life, who would draw his sword for justice to all men, for the defense of the honor of womanhood and the protection of the innocence of childhood and in the cause of that charity which is the greatest of all the virtues and which overcometh all things."
Personal Tributes
"With two of these distinguished laymen who are honored with knighthood today, I have been intimately associated in friendship and in professional life. With the others I have not been equally privileged, but they are known to all men for their honor, their steadfastness in the principles of fair dealing and for the leadership which makes their lives of a special value.
"No one in my time has been more generous in giving his strength and his great ability to the public service than Sir Knight James P. B. Duffy—born of a family distinguished for business and professional achievement and devotion to the public interests, educated at Georgetown and Harvard, he has given to the Public Schools of Rochester a service which has not been exceeded in its length or its value or its devotion by anyone who has served as a member of the Board of Education. He is justly honored today. He is a true knight, without fear and without reproach."
"At last, but by no means least, of these five laymen to be mentioned is the gentleman whose elevation to the Knighthood naturally is of most personal and intimate interest to me. A little over 15 years ago Eugene J. Dwyer proposed to me, and I immediately accepted, and our union is still death do us part and there will be no divorce. He would not wish me to praise him with fulsome words, and I refrain from speaking of his eminent position as a lawyer because what I could justly and proudly say to his professional success might be said perhaps more becomingly by one not so united in interest in the latter part of that professional career. The records of the court are an open book, but there is a record within the hearts of the uncounted number of those to whom his wise counsel has been given that cannot be effaced while memory lasts. His generosity, his sympathy, his resourceful helpfulness have bound them to him with a tie that cannot be loosened to one with a right to protect or a wrong to be redressed, who has come to him, has ever failed because of poverty to find in Eugene J. Dwyer a willing advocate equipped like a Knight of old to defend and protect those who are oppressed or in need."

Priest Named On Committee Military Camps

The Rev. John M. Sellinger, Appointed by Col. Montgomery E. Leary to Advise as to Applicants For Camp.
The Rev. John M. Sellinger, former U. S. Army Chaplain, and now Chaplain of the Newman Club at the University of Rochester, has been appointed a member of the Monroe County Committee for enrollment in the Citizens' Military Training Camps. The appointment was made by Col. Montgomery E. Leary, and Father Sellinger will receive applicants from the University of Rochester for the training corps.
Father Sellinger saw much active service while an army chaplain, and was awarded two silver star citations and the New York State Conspicuous Service Cross for heroic work under fire.
Application blanks for the Citizens' Military Training Camp may be obtained at the headquarters in the quarters in the Baptist Temple Building. Attendance at the camp imposes no obligation for further military service, Colonel Leary says.

A luncheon will also be given for Miss Morrow by Miss Mary Elizabeth Keogh of Laurelton Road, will give a shower and bridge for Miss Morrow on March 23d. Another bridge and shower will be given by Miss Elizabeth McGee of Grand Avenue. Among those who have already entertained for Miss Morrow are Mrs. East Wood of Bedford Street, and the Misses Margaret Jane and Katherine Stronger of Culver Road.

Seventy Years On The Missions In The Northwest

Edmonton, Alta., March 20.—Bearded patriarch of the North, the Rt. Rev. Magr. Emil Grouard in his 70th year, presiding bishop of the diocese, is celebrating the anniversary of his missionary effort in Canada's frontier country. At the age of 31 years the Catholic prelate succumbed to a lingering illness at the little hamlet in the Peace River country named after him. He was the youngest of the Athabasca, the aged priest lately yielded his duties to Magr. Joseph Guy.
"Pledged but to truth, to liberty and law. No favor sways him, and no fear shall awe."
Judge Martin E. Manton
The final toast was given by Judge Martin T. Manton, presiding judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, of New York City. His address had to do with two important subjects in modern life—Authority and Discipline. He told of the revolt of youth in schools and colleges as typified by Judge Lindsey's hideous book, "Revolt of Youth" and of the inability of parents to control the actions and conduct of their children. He cited the Church of God as a splendid example of authority and discipline, and said how often and again the Church has warned the world that the strength of a nation lies in the modesty and purity of its womanhood.
"Character, and not commerce, turns the scales of a people's destiny," he said.
Judge Manton spoke happily of the new Missionaries and of the Knights of St. Gregory, and he said the manner of their growth is rapid and characteristic would form an interesting subject for study and reflection.
Excellent music, the best of good fellowship, and a spirit of joy and gladness, all this combined to make the day a memorable one for the loved Bishop of Rochester, and for the man equally honored by Pope Pius XI.

John J. Mahoney Opens Law Office In Terminal Bldg.

One of the best known young lawyers in the city, John J. Mahoney, has opened a law office of his own in the Terminal Building, rooms 614 and 615, where he will be glad to see old and new clients and friends.
Mr. Mahoney was admitted to the bar in 1929. For a time he was in the law office of John J. McInerney, Union Trust Bldg., then of Gilbert A. Nustbaum. He is a graduate of East High School and of the Albany Law School, and is a young man of likeable personality and much ability. His many friends will wish him lots of success and plenty of healthy progress in his work.

A Christian Gentleman
"Early in his career, he served his State with fidelity as a member of the Legislature and his city as a member of the staff of the Corporation Council and later as President of the Common Council, and in every relation in life he has been true to the ideal of a Christian gentleman.
"A friend is nature's masterpiece."
"And about him is an army of friends who join with me in wishing for Mr. Dwyer long life, happiness and all the rewards that come from well doing and generous action."
For Judge Manton
