"Beware of Communism", Bishop O'Hern Warns Employers of Help

hard to talk about them, because they were such a fine sermon in their lives and their work.

Bishop O'Hern's Address

Bishop O'Hern, introduced by Toastmaster Dr. O'Neill, gave a splendid and timely talk. He warmed the hearts of his audience by some excellent stories, spoke of the war being waged against unemployment, poverty, sickness and death, and warned that the country is facing the threat of Communism.

"If such a thing happens," he declared, "I want each and every one of you to see that this flag (pointing to the American flag on the wall behind him) is held as high as you held it in the World War." Every man was on his feet as if to accept the challenge and renew his pledge of patriotism to his country.

Joined K. of C. in Auburn

Bishop O'Hern told how 30 years ago he was an assistant priest in Auburn, and how Father William Mulhern asked him to join the Knights of Columbus and presented his application to Auburn Council. He was inspired, he said, by the beautiful ritual and the splendid leadership of such men as John F. Delaney of New York City, and Dr. M. P. Conway of Auburn. He told of the growth of the Order from its small beginning in a New England City, and how its ideals inspire all members to live on the "most friendly and cordial relations with your fellowmen, no matter what his color, race or creed, and that you should stand ever ready to practice Christian Charity and Christian helpfulness towards poor suffering humanity.

Christopher Columbus

"Your leader, Christopher Columbus, that noble and intrepid sailor who first traveled the vast expanse of the Atlantic and discovered this new world, a man of faith as well as of science; a man who represented the best type of his day in his personal life, in his ambitions and in his accomplishments. He was not of the same race and blood as we are, but he had the same gift of Faith, the same ideals as laid down by Holy Mother Church for guidance, and the same desire and zeal to accomplish good for others. And so when he and his little band landed on the shores of San Salvador on that eventful Friday, raised the Cross of Christ, and dedicated this new land to the Living God and to His King, a new era, a new epoch in world history was indeed opened up for mankind.

"Moreover, by reason of his discovery you and all of us of the Catholic Faith have certain fundamental rights in this glorious land of which no man can ever honestly deprive us. Those rights are the most fundamental of all: The right of discovery, the right of ownership by reason of discovery and consequently the right to live here, and to pursue in peace and happiness our individual and collective lives as American citizens.

Praises War Work

Bishop O'Hern praised the war work of the Knights of Columbus very highly and said the record of their work "will go down in the history of our nation as one of the splendid achievements of a great body of Catholic laymen."

"We are facing another emergency in our National life", Bishop O'Hern said. "Millions of men are unemployed, are groaning under the burden of poverty, lack of warmth, food, clothing and suffering. At the same time thousands of men are groaning under the load of wealth with most of the currency of the land lying idle in bank vaults and lock boxes of safe and trust companies. It is high time that the wealthy should begin to think less of the dividend and more of the divisor.

Problem of Unemployment

"How, I ask, can prosperity return to the land unless this currency, this vital means of exchange is put into circulation so that the rank and file of our citizens will have a dollar to spend when there is occasion to spend it? Is there to-day too much fear, timidity and panicky sentiment among those who have been blessed beyond measure with this world's goods? Is big business doing its full share to bring back good times and to stimulate activities which are so necessary for peace, contentment and right living among the great masses of our citizens? One thing is certain that unless we can solve the problems through which we are passing, and solve them quickly, there is danger ahead. Men who have wives and children and homes are walking the streets of our city unclad, unfed and on the verge of despair. Take heed, this new group of millionaires which has been listed even during these depressing times, and not forget what has happened elsewhere when the hour struck for the rights and needs of the poor. If you are an employer, whether in big or little business, put a heart into it as well as a head. See to it that your employees are nearer and dearer to you than the machinery in your factory or the almighty dollar which comes to you through the sweat of brow of labor. Beware of communism!"

The Right Ideals

Bishop O'Hern urged the Knights to have the right ideals of Christian charity towards their fellowmen, and to forget their own society for a time, and do good for everybody in need. "Then, and only then," he said, "can you go before your fellowman, present the cause of Knighthood and ask for his mutual understanding and co-operation."

The Bishop paid warm tribute to a distinguished son of Auburn, Thomas Mott Osborne. He closed with a plea that every man would leave the banquet hall with a determination to make sacrifices and work ceaselessly, that prosperity, contentment and happiness might come back to America.

Bishop O'Hern was given an ovation at the close of his talk. John J. Leo, past Grand Knight of Auburn Council, was chairman of the committee on arrangements for the breakfast, and he received many congratulations on its success. It was, in very truth, a great day for the Knights and their friends.

St. Joseph's Nurses Home At Elmira Will Be Occupied For the First Time Monday

Splendid New Hospital Building Will be Dedicated Latter Part of June—Fine New Organ Installed in Chapel of the Home.

Elmira, May 1.—Next Monday, May 4th, the fine new Nurses' Home at St. Joseph's Hospital will be occupied for the first time. Nurses will move into the three upper floors of the home, and this will help relieve the congestion that is now experienced at the hospital. Formal dedication of the building, which will be known as the Edward Joseph Dunn Memorial, will take place during the final week in June, according to present plans.

Workmen are now engaged in putting the finishing touches on the building, and it is expected they will have completed their work and vacated the building by the time the sixth, seventh and eighth floors are used.

The three upper floors will be used as sleeping quarters for the nurses. The housing situation has become acute with the demolition of the original hospital building which had then afforded sleeping quarters on the attic floor for 10 nurses. The two residences on the west side of High Street used by the nurses will be demolished in the near future.

A Fine New Organ

The organ to be installed in the chapel of the nurses' home has arrived. It was built by the George Kilgren & Son, Organ Company of St. Louis, Mo., builders of the organ, recently installed in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York. The Kilgren Company is one of the foremost organ manufacturers in the country.

In a letter to hospital officials, the manufacturers stated that the organ had been set up and tested at the factory before being shipped. "This organ should be a lasting tribute to the art of organ building and one of which St. Joseph's Hospital can be justly proud," it is stated.
