Heaven

Beyond the sun, the moon and stars,
There is a place of rest;
It is the home God has prepared
For all who love Him best.

On golden harps the Angels play
In chords so low and sweet,
While the holy folks pass to and fro
Along bright Heaven's street.

Oh! it must be a wondrous place
Where God's bright Angels stay;
There is no pain or suffering there
In His eternal day.

But the greatest joy of all the joys
Is that our Lord Himself is there,
With benign and smiling face!

Dear Lord, Who died that I might live,
The boon I ask is this:
That on some day I'll be with Thee
In everlasting bliss.

—John A. Tramley.
