The Pope's Encyclical on Labor

which at all times has impelled men to break the law of God and trample on the rights of their neighbor; but the condition of the economic world today lays more stress than ever on human frailty.

Abominable Abuses

For the uncertainty of economic conditions and of the whole economic regime demands the keenest and most unceasing straining of energy on the part of those engaged therein; and as a result, some have become so hardened against the stigma of conscience as to hold all means good which enable them to increase their profits, and to safeguard against sudden changes of fortune the wealth amassed by unscrupulous toil.

Easy returns, which an open market offers to any one, lead many to interest themselves in trade and exchange, their one aim being to make clear profits with the least labor. By their unchecked speculation prices are raised and lowered out of mere greed for gain, making void all the most prudent calculations of manufacturers.

The regulations legally enacted for corporations, with their divided responsibility and limited liability, have given occasion to abominable abuses. The greatly weakened accountability makes little impression, as is evident upon the conscience. The worst injustices and frauds take place beneath the obscurity of the common name of a corporation. Boards of directors proceed in their unscrupulous methods even to the violation of their trust in regard to those whose savings they administer. In the last place must still be mentioned the unscrupulous but well-calculated speculation of men who, without seeking to answer real needs, appeal to the lowest human passions. These are aroused in order to turn their satisfaction into gain.

Failure to Enforce Moral Law

A stern insistence on the moral law, enforced with vigor by civil authority, could have dispelled or perhaps averted these enormous evils. This, however, was too often lamentably wanting. For at the time when the new social order was beginning, the doctrines of Rationalism had already taken firm hold of large numbers, and an economic science alien to the true moral law had soon arisen, whence it followed that human ruin was given to human avarice.

As a result, a much greater number than ever before, solely concerned with adding to their wealth by any means whatsoever, sought their own selfish interests above all things; they had no scruples in committing the gravest injustices against others. Those who first entered upon this broad way which leads to destruction, easily found many imitators of their iniquity because of their manifest success, their extravagant display of wealth, their derision of the scruples of more delicate consciences and the crushing of more cautious competitors.

Workmen Mere Tools

With the leaders of business abandoning the true path, it is not surprising that in every country multitudes of workmen, too, sank in the mire, and that the more so because very many employers treated their workmen as mere tools, without any concern for the welfare of their souls, indeed without the slightest thought of higher interests. The mind chatters if we consider the frightful perils to which the morals of workers (of boys and young men particularly), and the virtue of girls and women are exposed in modern factories; if we recall how the present economic regime and above all the disastrous housing conditions have obstacles to the family life; if we remember the insuperable difficulties placed in the way of a proper observance of the holy days.

How universally has the true Christian spirit become impaired which formerly produced such holy sentiments even in uneducated and illiterate men! In its stead, man's one solicitude is to obtain his daily bread in any way he can, and so bodily labor, which was decreed by Providence for the good of man's body and soul even after original sin, has everywhere been changed into an instrument of strange perversion; for dead matter leaves the factory ennobled and transformed, where men are corrupted and degraded.

THE REMEDIES

Economic Life Must Be Inspired by Christian Principles

For this pliable rain of souls, which if it continue, will frustrate all efforts to reform society, there can be no other remedy than a frank and sincere return to the teaching of the Gospel. Men must observe anew the precepts of Him who alone has the words of eternal life, words which, even though heaven and earth be changed, shall not pass away. All those versed in social matters demand a rationalization of economic life which will introduce sound and true order. But this order, which we ourselves desire and make every effort to promote, will necessarily be quite faulty and imperfect, unless all man's activities harmoniously unite to imitate and, as far as is humanly possible,

Golden Jubilee Of Father Brick Is Celebrated

The golden jubilee of the Rev. William Brick, C. S. R., assistant rector of St. Joseph's Church, was happily celebrated in that church Sunday, The Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, presided in the sanctuary at a solemn high jubilee Mass celebrated by Father Brick at 10:30 o'clock. The church was filled with friends and parishioners, all with an opportunity to honor this good and zealous priest and to pray for him on the occasion of his golden jubilee.

Conferees of the Redemptorist Order, priests of the Rochester Diocese and from other parts of the country, societies of St. Joseph's Church, relatives, and Father Brick were present. The Rev. John Lynch, C. S. R., nationally known medical missionary, lecturer, now stationed at St. Joseph's Church, preached the jubilee sermon.

Staff officers of the Knights of St. John headed by General Joseph E. Weis, K. G. G., and Colonel Frank E. Lewis, assisted members of St. Marietta and St. Ann's parishes in escorting the jubilarian to the church.

After the Mass he was guest of honor at a dinner served in St. Joseph's Hall, and many friends were present at this event. He received many gifts and was showered with congratulations and good wishes during the day.

In August, 1877, Father Brick celebrated his golden jubilee of his religious profession in the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer. The observance was at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church in Brooklyn. A solemn high Mass was celebrated in St. Joseph's Church here Aug. 7, 1927, in honor of the event.

Priests of Rochester Diocese Last Week, Priest of the Syracuse Diocese This Week, and Laymen's Retreat Now.

St. Bernard's Seminary, its scholastic work closed for the year, had had three retreats in succession. Last week the priests of the Rochester Diocese had their retreat at the Seminary, this week the priests of the Syracuse Diocese, and beginning today, the Laymen's Retreat is being conducted there.

Pranderaat, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, in Utica, N. Y., of the elder and best known priest in the Diocese. Father Pranderaat had been ill for a number of months, and his death was not unexpected.
