Annual Meeting of N. C. C. W. Will Be Held in Rochester On October 14th and 15th

Time of Meeting of Rochester Diocesan Council Was Fixed at Meeting in Geneva—Nearly One Hundred Women Attend First Directors Meeting.

The first directors meeting of the Rochester Diocesan Council of Catholic Women was held on Thursday last week in Geneva. One hundred women attended. It was voted to hold the first annual meeting of the Council in Rochester on October 14th and 15th next, at the Columbus Civic Center, and it is expected that this meeting will be one of great importance in the life and work of the organization.

At the Geneva meeting the following officers were present: Miss Cecilia M. Yawman of Rochester, President; Mrs. Louis Whalen of Rochester, Mrs. Charles Schindler of Auburn, Mrs. Charles Githler of Corning, Mrs. T. A. Kane of Geneva, and Miss Mary McCormick of Ithaca.

Vice-Presidents, Mrs. E. J. Barrell of Geneva, Recording Secretary, Miss Mary A. Buell of Rochester, Corresponding Secretary, and Miss Alice F. Kirk of Rochester, Treasurer. Other directors in attendance were Mrs. Teresa Ganster, Mrs. Douglas Ward, Miss Elizabeth Madison, and Miss Margaret Wickham of Rochester; Mrs. P. W. Causser of Elmira, and Mrs. C. T. Lynch of Geneva.

Mrs. Daniel Deegan of Geneva was named judge of election, and Miss Elizabeth Hamon of Auburn and Mrs. R. Fitzhugh of Rochester were elected tellers.

The business meeting was followed by a luncheon in the dining room of the Hotel Seneca, some 100 members and guests being present. T. A. Kane and Mrs. George Hall of Geneva acted as chairman and toastmistress respectively. Guests included Very Rev. Walter Lee, Pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Geneva, Rev. John J.

A. O. H. National Convention At Newport, R. I. Son Celebrates Mass For Father William J. Ayers

Rochester Delegates Attend Sessions and Take Part in Proceedings of Importance to the Order.

The National Convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was opened at the Viking Hotel, Newport, R. I., on July 21, with a high Mass in St. Joseph's Church and sermon by the Rt. Rev. William A. Hickey, D.D., Bishop of Providence, and addresses of welcome by Mayor Mortimer Sullivan and State Senator J. H. Greene.

County President Joseph F. Redding represented Monroe County. He is accompanied by Mrs. Redding, who has many friends in Ladies' Auxiliary circles.

Martin K. Fenelon, state treasurer, and Mrs. Fenelon, are also at Newport. Brother Fenelon being entitled to a seat as an officer of the New York State Council, he practically gives Rochester a double representation at the Convention. Mrs. Mary Morrison and Mrs. Josephine Ashton are the delegates from the Ladies' Auxiliary.

In addition to the business sessions, the Rochester delegates took part in a number of social events. These included receptions to members and to ladies, sightseeing trips, musicales, dancing, band concerts, auto drives, etc. On Thursday evening there was a formal banquet at Newport. Banquet with National and State officers of the order and auxiliary, Rt. Rev. Bishop Hickey, Governor Norman S. Case, Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan, Lt. Governor James G. Connolly, and other distinguished guests as speakers. An entertainment program followed by dancing. The convention continues through the week, coming to a close on Saturday morning. Great interest was taken in the proceedings, and the delegates are sure to have some good reports when they return.

Let the Laundry Do The Summer Washings For You

Have you ever sighed for more minutes—added hours—an extra day in the week for those things you've always wanted to do, and never found time for?

Subtract washing-washday from your schedule, and add a whole world of pleasant possibilities during these hot days. Do away with all the bustle and bustle; the bother of preparing the tubs, the time-taking inspection trips to the basement; the added work of serving the laundress; the trouble of cleaning up; and all the rest that goes with the inevitable bother caused.

The Lincoln Laundry at 89 Jay Street, lifts washday right out of your life, and in return gives you a new-found freedom. What's more, they can be relied upon to wash clothes clean and make them last long. With scientific care, this modern laundry safeguards your family's health. Complete laundry service is offered by the Lincoln Laundry, safe and satisfactory in every respect. Phone Main 1567

Reconstructing the Social Order

From the Recent Encyclical by Pope Pius XI, "Quinti Sollicitudo"

Washington, D. C., July 14.—The central recommendation of Pope Pius XI's encyclical "Reconstructing the Social Order" is the organization of all economic society around self-governing occupational groups, organized and directed by a vigilant government, ruled by social justice, and animated by social charity or love of neighbor for the love of God. Labor unions and employers' associations, taken together in this plan as representatives of groups with special interests within the organized occupation. This form of society is not an ideal, it is a "spontaneous" and "natural development." It is logical developments it is held to be the only way to avoid the social conflict, the end of plutocratic domination, the way to avoid state absolutism, the source of economic welfare to all, the secret of economic peace and the bulwark against revolution. In its essence it is the combination of a form of organization and a new spirit working out a new society together. It is a distinctly different society from that today. Its historical precedent is the ideal of the guilds of the middle ages, and it is an application of the Christian principles of the city guilds of small industry in a local market to the big industry and city, regional, national and international markets of today.

Need of Miracles Felt by Church

"The first miracle we must ask," he continued, "is that every miracle that the gospel puts in our hands when enumerating the miracles of our Lord, namely, that the blind may see, that they may see who do not comprehend, do not understand, do not realize."

"We say this with infinite compassion, because perhaps nobody ever taught them the things they do not know. Perhaps they never had the opportunity to know, study and enjoy the truths we know. They should, therefore, feel a moral necessity not to speak of things they do not know and not to pass judgment on things of which they have no comprehension. For we seek no praise, but merely ask not to be condemned without being known or understood."

"We have need of many miracles, but we need one which is difficult above all others, if indeed anything is difficult to divine omnipotence at the service of infinite mercy. This miracle which we ask is that those who are blind and who do not wish to see, that those who are who are in a manner of speaking, afflicted by the blindest sort of blindness. It is difficult and perhaps impossible for them to see, but this is easy to the omnipotence of divine goodness."

"This we must ask with faith, this we must obtain, that those who may be who are blind and that those who may be who do not wish to see."

Catherine Laboure, whose virtues were proclaimed in a decree read by the Rev. Michael C. Wall of Canandaigua as deacon; Rev. Leo C. Mooney, sub-deacon; Rev. Leo A. Smith, master of ceremonies; Rev. Victor J. Hurley, assistant master; Rev. Peter Jankowski and Rev. John Maxwell, acolytes; Rev. Frank Mason and Rev. Francis Lundy, deacons of honor; Rev. Edward Hartmann, thurifer. The final blessing was given at the close of the Mass by the Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hara, D.D., Bishop of Rochester. There were a number of other priests in the sanctuary.

Interment was made in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, where Father Ayers gave the final blessing, assisted by the Rev. Thomas F. Connors, the Rt. Rev. Magn. George V. Burns, and the Rev. Peter Jankowski. The active bearers were Patrick Morris, Frank Welch, Jerry Murphy, Thomas O'Brien, Carl Christoph and N. A. Margaret. Honorary Bearers were George Law, John Keating, Harry Burke, George Foss, Frank Kinsella and Charles Stewart, all members of the Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Ayers had been connected for 35 years with the Link Manufacturing Company of Canandaigua. He came to Rochester after his retirement last May. He was a member of the Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus, and was a man of unusually the character, upright, honest, devoted to his home and family, and sincere and earnest in his service of God. He was held in good regard by all his friends and acquaintances, and the memory of his fine character and well-lived life will be treasured by all to whom he was near and dear. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Ayers; two sons, the Rev. William J. Ayers, Jr., and Charles D. Ayers, both of Rochester; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Campbell, Mrs. Frank Caruso and Miss Sadie Ayers, and a brother, Michael G. Ayers, all of Brooklyn.

Back to Life

Jim Thorpe has come back to life. One might say that several years ago he has been buried in obscurity, impoverished, neglected and saddened by his isolation from the old sports he loved. Now he has been engaged as a football coach, and on top of that is taking the part of Chief Black Crow in a Western film drama. Jim doesn't have to make up a name. He was born one, and for years was America's greatest football player.

Prohibition Art Gallery
The London-Italian scientific expedition in South Africa found in a rock shelter not far from the Congo border a large number of ancient rock engravings which appear to depict human figures in a procession. Professor Dart, of Transvaal University, the discoverer of the Taung skull, a member of the expedition, declares that the discovery is of great importance and the period of the engravings is between four and six thousand years.
