

Magazine in Latin Will Be Published in New York To Promote Language Study

More Than Six Hundred Subscriptions Received—Professor A. E. Warsley of St. John's College, Brooklyn, to Be the Editor

New York, July 24.—A magazine printed entirely in Latin, and to be called "Auxilium Latinum"—Latin Aid—will be published in this city, and the indications are that it will attain wide-spread popularity, especially in high schools, colleges, and among teachers of languages. More than 600 subscribers have signed up already.

The magazine is the outgrowth of a protest against the action of several colleges and universities during the past twenty-five years in dropping Latin and Greek from their entrance requirements.

Lawn Festival At St. Andrew's July 30, 31, Aug. 1

St. Andrew's Church has completed arrangements for its big annual lawn festival, to be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, July 30 and 31st, and August 1st. Many new and original attractions will be found at the festival this year.

There will be a big variety of prizes for each evening of the festival—two door prizes each night; prizes for the youngest and the oldest on the grounds; prizes for the newest newly-weds each night, and lots of other inducements to patrons to come and take part.

A hand concert each evening will be a treat. The St. Andrew's Boys' Band will play, directed by an able musician, Fred Melville, and the music will delight everybody.

Priest Flies Over Giant Volcano in Alaska And Takes Photographs of Mass of Molten Lava

Seward, Alaska, July 24.—Rev. Bernard Hubbard, the "glacier priest," achieved the object of his summer explorations with a 10,000-foot airplane flight the other day across the "crater of the moons," of Aniakchak volcano.

The plane was piloted by Harry Blunt who was at the controls of the same ship several weeks ago when downward air currents almost puffed the airplane into the boiling cauldron.

At an altitude of 10,000 feet they circled several times over the seething mass of molten lava, with a part of the crater in eruption beneath them, taking photographs and making observations.

Msgr. Ryan Writes Of Catholic U.

communion without one dominating, inspiring institution of higher learning is literally a communion without a voice. The position of the Catholic Church in reference to education may indeed be locally interpreted by diocesan and local colleges; but nationally, the Holy See and the American Hierarchy expect the institution they founded for this purpose to function, not as a competitor to other Catholic institutions, but as their common voice.

The second need is material resources. The University does not aim to grow along vocational lines; but a note of right economy it has never been in a position to round out its facilities or properly support with finances the standard of scholarship which it has set for itself and which is expected of it. Without the adequate means of support for the high-est possible standards this and every other Catholic institution must suffer.

We should have $20,000,000 within the next 7 or 8 years; and sorely need $1,500,000 this year, to replace worn physical equipment and to stabilize our budget. Assured of these modest sums, it will be possible for the University to plan its future, and by closely adhering to its ideals, and by confining its development strictly within the compass originally intended, to strengthen and bless all other Catholic works.

The third need is for the sympathetic support of Catholic lay leadership throughout the United States. With more than 20,000,000 Catholics, the Catholic Church can and should have a "Louvain" and a "Lille." Our lay leadership is naturally enamored of the progress made by some of our great non-Catholic American Universities, with their modern measure of their active members. The Catholic Church, and the direction of our Hierarchy and priesthood, create at the national capital a University, which for scholarship and breadth of its facilities would be second to none. Once established on such a basis, the Catholic University of America would not only be the universally accepted and effective hand-maiden of the American Church, but the pride of every Catholic home.

Oldest Pastor

REV. JAMES M. CLEARY

One of the oldest active pastors in the Northwest is the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James M. Cleary of Minneapolis. He is 81 years of age, and for many years was president of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union. He was one of the first priests to use the "Question Box." It was not the first fifty-five years ago he introduced it in Minneapolis, and it has been used with great success ever since.

Yankee Sailors Opened Hawaii to Civilization

The United States will thank Boston and its daring men of the sea for the fact that Hawaii now flies the Stars and Stripes rather than the Tricolor of the Union Jack. A Spanish navigator discovered the islands in 1555, but his country laid no claim on them and they were virtually forgotten.

The Boston traders found each of the islands under a separate flag, with two rival centers on Hawaii, the largest of the islands. One of the latter obtained firearms and ammunition from the traders and got their assistance in building a navy. With this American help he became the "Napoleon of the Pacific," conquered the other islands, and as Kamehameha I ruled over the consolidated kingdom. His line died out with Queen Liliuokalani, and the United States came into control.

Need Not Visit Europe For Literary Research

Two professors of English at Southern Methodist university published a book, "Famous Editions of English Poets," in which 18 volumes of verse are reproduced in full, just as they appeared in the originals, with photographic copies of the old title pages. This involved a vast amount of labor and research, and was done at Oxford university and the British museum, where original copies of such works as Shakespeare's sonnets, Pope's "Essay on Criticism," Byron's "The Prisoner of Chillon" and Tennyson's poems were available for copying. On returning to this country, the Texas Weekly relates, the scholars were surprised to learn that all the rare volumes they had consulted overseas could have been found in libraries of their own state. This is an amazing incident, but it is more; it indicates how our country has made intellectual progress while it expanded economically, and that it has libraries as well as skyscrapers to be proud of. It is not always necessary to rush to Europe for a draught from the Pierian spring.

National Parks Lure Millions

The national forests are not only national in ownership, but are becoming more and more national in employment. It is estimated that there were nearly 32,000,000 visitors to the various federal reservations in the past year, many of whom were really intent upon getting back to nature. Nearly 2,000,000 of the visitors were campers, while hundreds of thousands were hikers walking their way through the forests and over the mountains.

Baths of Diocletian

Near the Termini railway station, the visitor to Rome will find the famous and immense ruins of the baths of Diocletian. They were constructed by the Emperor Maximianus, A. D. 302, in honor of his colleague Diocletian, and were the largest baths in Rome. They were frequented by the citizens until the Sixth century and then neglected, until they fell into decay, some parts being put to other uses, and others buried under constructions. Twenty years ago the hidden ruins were brought to light and the ancient halls and pavements were seen again. It can be recalled that the month of October, recalled the gulf in 1851 for their monetary and Michaelangelo had the task of changing the Tiber into the T. Maria degli Angeli.

Sunrise in the Himalayas

Tourists in India rarely omit a visit to Calcutta and when in Calcutta they rarely miss the opportunity of witnessing a sunrise in the Himalayas. From Calcutta you go to Darjeeling by train, which is a climb of many thousand feet. From this city in the clouds you ascend further about 1,500 feet to see the sunrise. The start is made at two o'clock in the morning and the 1,500 feet referred to is made by pony back or sedan chair. You arrive at the top before daybreak and you sit and watch for the break of dawn. You watch the sun come up over Everest, Kinchinjunga and other white giants of the great mountain wall in the world. If the atmospheric conditions are favorable, you will see a marvelous play of color and after a cupful of coffee served on Tiger hill you silently descend wrapped in the mystery of the stupendous and unrepeatable experience.

Not by Bread Alone

Man cannot live by bread alone. He hungers and thirsts after knowledge. He pushes the boundaries of his mind's dominion to the frontiers of the cosmos. The distance between the stars exist in his mental measurements. Can you imagine physical air waves, electrically talking together into Shakespeare's "Fifth Symphony," or physical types fortuitously arranging themselves to spell "Ode to the West Wind," or stones carving themselves and falling together into the cathedral of Amiens? There is a plus quality to these things that overcomes all material needs and that materialism can never understand. —Harry Emerson Fosdick

The Fan in History

"Customs of Mankind," says that "Fans have an interesting history. The first fan was probably a palm leaf or some other natural device appropriated by man to keep away flies or gnats, perhaps even to cool the fevered brow in tropical climates. We know that in Egypt, 2,000 years ago fashionable hosts had special servants to stand behind dinner guests and fan them with huge papyrus fans. In France the fan reached the height of its development under Louis XIV. We read that fans are invariable accompaniment of feminine costume and are of rare beauty, exquisitely painted and mounted on sticks of carved or painted wood, mother-of-pearl, carved ivory or gold. There are over 500 makers of fans in Paris and they enjoy special privileges accorded to them by the king."

Another Chinese Wall

Another huge Chinese wall has been discovered by the Dr. Suen Hedin expedition. An article by the leader published in a Stockholm newspaper says: They followed the route over the Mongolian highlands and the Gobi desert. This was the first time that a motor car had been driven from Peking to Momo without, at any point of the route, encroaching on the territory of the Mongolian republic. The most remarkable discovery from an archeological point of view was a wall of earth and stone, which they could trace for several hundred meters. It was very well preserved in parts, and its perhaps corresponds with the discovery which Mr. Bergmann made some time ago of a fortress of the early Han dynasty.

Second Half of Catholic League Season Opened

Holy Family, O. L. P. H. and St. George's Teams Are Winners, Two Teams Drop Out of the Second Half

The second half of the Catholic League baseball season was opened Sunday afternoon. Three games were played, with the results: Holy Family 11, St. Margaret Mary 1; O. L. P. H. 9, St. Andrews 5; St. George 5, Holy Redeemer Athletic Association 1.

Two teams dropped out of the league for the second half, St. Bridget's and St. Ambrose. The former won only one game in the first half, and the latter lost all six. The remaining teams are better mated, and a good hot second half is expected.

There were good sized crowds out for the games Sunday. In the Holy Family-St. Margaret Mary game, Joe Mason won his eighth straight victory. Hudson, for St. Margaret Mary's pitched good ball, but was hit in the pinches.

There were four home runs in the day. Ernie Robman got one in the O. L. P. H. and St. Andrew's game. Kaddis got two, and Stiles one for St. George. St. George's pitcher, pitching side struck out 15 men. Kunn, for O. L. P. H., got three hits in four times at bat. There was plenty of good playing on all teams, and the fans were delighted. The scores by innings:
