

HORNELL

Funeral is Held of Peter Brill

Hornell, Sept. 4.—Funeral services for the late Peter Brill, formerly of Hornell, who died Sunday, August 23rd, at his home in Silver Creek, N. Y., as a result of a sudden heart attack, were held Wednesday of last week at St. Ann's Church, Hornell. Interment was made in St. Ann's cemetery.

A large number of relatives and friends attended the services. Solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Charles Riefer of Parkville, with the Rev. J. F. Farrell, pastor of St. Ann's Church, Hornell, as Deacon, and John W. Brill, a student of St. Bernard's Seminary, and a son of the deceased, as Subdeacon. The Rev. Samuel Haight of Seneca Falls was Master of Ceremonies. Those students of St. Bernard's Seminary assisted: Arthur Weitzer and Paul Tuite, acolytes, and John Wheeler, censer-bearer.

Among those who attended from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. John K. Kuntz and son, Jack; Mrs. N. E. Brill of Auburn and Mrs. Lillian Flanagan of Columbus, Ohio; Clara and Elva McGoy of Clearfield, Pa.; Charles Cronauer of Silver Creek; Mrs. M. and Mrs. Charles Woyard and family of Erie, Pa.

The blessed will possess great joy, and will reap great glory for having done for God all that they could, and for having given Him all their strength and their position permitted.

Dancing Advocated as Remedy for Human Ills

Not infrequently the alleged "quack" of one generation finds justification in the next, and the recommendation of dancing as a cure for mental and physical ill by so cautious a scientist as Sir Arthur Keith may rehabilitate the memory of Donald McAlpin, who a century ago set up as a healer by dancing a stampee, writes a columnist in the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian. A shepherd and a famous dancer, Donald was reputed to have cured his mistress of a mysterious malady by dancing a reel with her, and this story being noted abroad his cottage was besieged by crowds of sick folk who hoped to rid their ailments by persuading him to dance with them.

Donald, whether he believed in his own power or not, was shrewd enough to take advantage of such a stroke of luck. He engaged an ancient piper as assistant, and between them the pair evolved a course of dancing treatment for almost every ill to which the flesh is heir, establishing an extensive practice from which, for a time, they derived a considerable income. The doctors, of course, denounced him as a charlatan, but it seems just possible that he hit on a real remedy for certain troubles.

He who is wronged and persecuted would rejoice rather than grieve, if he reflected that Our Lord thus gave him an opportunity of acquiring more grace in a single day than he perhaps would in ten years by well-chosen labors.

436 Books in Ten Years By Professors and Students Of The Catholic University

Total of 2,568 Other Contributions Made to Magazines, etc.—Amazing Amount of Literary and Research Work Done in Past Decade.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Lining over 3,000 titles, comprising the work of Catholic University professors and students for the last ten years, a 200-page volume entitled "A Decade of Research at The Catholic University of America—1921 to 1930," has just been published by the Survey Council of The Catholic University of America under the editorship of the Rev. Dr. Maurice S. Sheehy, Director of the Council.

During the decade of which the volume treats, 436 books have been published by members of the University staff. Other contributions, totaling 2,568, in the form of articles for journals, magazines and other periodicals, and these which are the result of graduate study, have lengthened the list of Catholic University's additions to and interpretations of current knowledge. Four schools of the University are credited with this work: The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the School of Canon Law, the School of Sacred Sciences, and the School of Law.

The Graduate School led in the total number of titles with 1,725, 151 books and 1,577 other contributions. The School of Sacred Sciences 400 70 books and 330 other contributions; the School of Canon Law 352 70 books and 182 other contributions; and the school of Law 65, 6 books and 59 other contributions. Of the 22 departments of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the Department of Education leads the list with 440 titles, 44 books and 396 other contributions; the Department of History 378, 34 books and 344 articles; the Department of Philosophy 345, 30 books and 306 articles; the Department of Sociology 321, 34 books and 287 articles; the Department of German 139, 5 books and 144 articles; and the Department of English 114, 4 books and 110 other contributions.

Variety of Research—That there is a wide range to human curiosity is shown in the variety of researches pursued by graduate students at The Catholic University of America. There is a wide gap between "A Study of the Ontogenesis of the Chick," which occurs some time before the chick is born and the "Reconstruction of the Human Skeleton," which refers to conditions several days after an individual dies.

While these specific contributions to human knowledge are far apart, they have the same origin, the quest of the human mind for additional information.

Many of the research projects have been practical in nature. The United States Government attributes the eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly from Florida to the researches of the Rev. Dr. Hugh O'Neill, of the Catholic University. The Langley experiments, which prepared the way for the development of aeroplanes, were performed in connection with members of the Catholic University faculty. The chemical laboratories of the Catholic University were placed at the disposal of the United States Government during the War, and it was in them that the discovery of "Lewisite," a gas with qualities superior to "mustard gas" as an offensive weapon in chemical warfare, was made.

Graduate Training—The Catholic University of America was founded by Pope Leo XIII and the American Hierarchy to be the center of the Catholic educational system in the United States. It is a charter member of the Association of American Universities, and during the forty-two years of its existence has given graduate training to thousands of priests, sisters, and laymen.

The Catholic University has attempted primarily to transmit to American life the elements of truth, beauty and wholesomeness, which have been the acquisition of the oldest continuous culture in the world today, Catholic culture, according to the Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of the University.

The University has been prepared as a means for acquainting American scholars with the work of the Catholic University. That the University is not exclusively a theological seminary, as is often presumed by those unacquainted with its work, is evidenced by the variety of the research projects credited to the University during the past decade.

The Board of Trustees recently adopted a development program for the University which will, when realized, extend the expansion of the University's facilities, and departments and the establishment of new departments, which will facilitate an increase in the field of graduate study.

Wrist Broken

GEORGE "MULE" HAAS

Philadelphia, Sept. 4.—George "Mule" Haas, injured centerfielder of the world champion Philadelphia Athletics, probably will be lost to the club for the rest of the season, including the world series. Manager Connie Mack announced. His wrist, broken several weeks ago, has failed to mend as well as hoped for. Doc Ebling, club trainer, explained the trouble today as difficulty with the "knuckle bone" of the left wrist. He said efforts of Haas to swing a bat resulted in the bone slipping out of place, causing great pain and weakness.

Haas had been a batting threat to opposing pitchers prior to his injury and is ranked as a star fly-hawk. His place probably will be filled by Roger Cramer, who has been playing since the injury.

MRS. WELLS CASTER

Auburn, Sept. 4.—Mrs. Irene Baker Caster, wife of Wells Caster, of 17 Cottage Street, died Sunday night after an illness of 20 months. She leaves her husband, four sons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Baker; two brothers, J. Edwin Baker and Robert W. Baker, and a sister, Miss Helen Baker, all of Auburn.

Her funeral was held in St. Alphonse's Church on Wednesday morning, with many friends present at the service.

Ruins of "Great Wall"

in the Peruvian Andes Like China, Peru once had a great wall—the "great wall of Peru." This wall was revealed in photographs of remote sections of the Peruvian Andes taken by the Shapley-Johnson aerial expedition. They reported the great wall as being near Hunucayo along the ridge of the Andes east of Lima, Peru. As usual there is a good deal of skepticism regarding the authenticity of the find. But Philip A. Means, archaeologist and author of "Ancient Civilization of the Andes," says these ruins are probably those of a long boundary wall built by the ancient Chimuans in their fruitless effort against the powerful Incas. He thinks it possibly dates back to the thirteenth century. Mr. Means points out that similar walls have been found in other sections of the Peruvian Andes although they have not been so large as that reported by the Shapley-Johnson bunch.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Color "Satis Claus" The Day of the Three Kings, January 6, is the great boys' and girls' day in Cuba. That is when the presents come. It is the Three Kings bearing gifts their picture in their minds for days ahead. The toys may not be fine. They may be only little carts made from pieces of packing box board, or doll chairs, cradles, etc. These are oddity painted.

Children come first in the Cuban family. Cuban parents will even make personal sacrifices in order that the children may have gifts and play things.

All-Star Lose To Holy Family In a Close Game

The Holy Family baseball team, champions of the Catholic League League, played the Catholic League All-Stars at Edgerton Park Sunday afternoon and won by the score of 1 to 3. It was a good game, and it had a fine assortment of thrills. The All-Stars had the tying and winning runs on base in the ninth inning but St. Morgan, on the mound for Holy Family, lightened up and retired the next two men.

Morgan held the opposition to one hit up to the seventh inning, when Stutz tripped and Dick Streb banged a homer for two runs. Sammy Rebbman pitched for the All-Stars and turned in a fine performance. Three Holy Family runs trickled across the plate on errors. Score by innings: r. h. e. All-Stars...0 0 0 0 0 2 10—3 6 4 Holy Family 1 0 1 0 1 0 1 0—4 8 1 Rebbman and Bloler; Morgan and Rosenbauer.

"Give me," exclaims St. Teresa, "a soul which daily makes a quarter of an hour's meditation, and I will answer for the salvation of that soul." A quarter of an hour each day to sin heaven! Who could refuse to practice so easy a means?

A WORD OF CAUTION!

Relief from foot troubles cannot be obtained merely by the purchase of a pair of arches and placing them in the shoes. When your feet hurt, have our trained foot expert examine your feet. There is no charge for this service. He will suggest the correct arches and personally adjust them to meet the requirements of your particular case. In addition to this he will insist that you call from time to time for further adjustment as correction in your arches takes place. You pay for the arches selected; nothing for the examination or for the subsequent adjustments.
