Reconstructing the Social Order

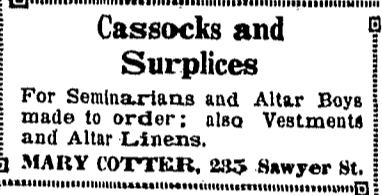

(Thirteenth of a weekly series of articles on Pope Pius' Encyclical, "Forty Years After," by the Department of Social Action, National Catholic Welfare Conference)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—Social charity is the soul of the new juridical and social order that Pope Pius advocates in the Encyclical on reconstructing the social order. By social charity, the Encyclical does not mean almsgiving but the love of neighbor for the love of God, a love that includes justice, almsgiving and an intense and many-sided mutual co-operation.

The social charity the Encyclical calls for is identified with a change in morality. Once there was a social order, the Encyclical says, which while not perfect corresponded in a degree to reason and the needs of the time. This was the guild system of the Middle Ages. It fell not because it was inadapted to the needs of the national and world market that came with the discovery of America and the new roads to the Far East, or inadapted to the large factory system.

It filled, the Encyclical says, because of the self love of men, their lack of social charity, their refusal to extend its advantages to the increasing population. And the Encyclical specifies as a specific cause the attractions of unlimited freedom—freedom historically known to be the freedom to do and grab and get.

Without social charity the better distribution and use of wealth and income may not only mean the profitless gain of the whole world at the expense of the loss of the soul, the Encyclical says, but the actual defeat of all efforts to reconstruct the social order. If, instead of social charity, there is greed and selfishness people will "hear the commandments of the Lord" and "do all things contrary."

Peter A. Vay, Bankers' Dean, Buried Tuesday

More Than Half Century of Life Was Devoted to Banking Business—A Fine Citizen and Christian.

Peter A. Vay, aged 71, of 73 Kenwood Avenue, dean of the Rochester bankers, died at his home Saturday after an illness of two years, and was buried from St. Peter & Paul's Church on Tuesday morning. His funeral was attended by many of the most prominent business men of Rochester, and by a great many other personal friends.

Mr. Vay was born in Rochester, Sept. 8, 1860, and all of his life had been lived here. On August 19, 1879, he entered the employ of the old Flour City Bank as a messenger, and from that day until the day of his death was actively connected with the banking business in Rochester. He was one of the most capable, as well as one of the best known Rochester bankers, and he had a world of friends among the business men of the city and vicinity.

Mr. Vay was made assistant cashier of the Flour City National Bank in 1894, and in 1898 was promoted to cashier. This bank merged with the German-American Bank in 1906, then absorbed the Commercial Bank, and became the Lincoln National Bank. Mr. Vay held the position of assistant cashier until December, 1906, when he was made cashier. In 1909 he was made a director, and in 1910 a vice-president. He was active head of the bank until it merged with the Alliance Bank and he was then manager of the Lincoln office for nine years. In April, 1923, he retired as active head of the Lincoln office, but continued in an advisory capacity with the bank.

In 1924 Mr. Vay was elected president of the State Bank section for this district. He also served as a director of the Lisk Manufacturing Company of Canandaigua and of the Reed Manufacturing Company of Newark, N. Y.

He was a member of the Elks, Knights of Columbus, Rochester Club, Chamber of Commerce and Washington Club, and a trustee of St. St. Peter and Paul's Church, St. Elizabeth Guild, St. Patrick's Old Orphan Asylum and Aquinas Institute.

In June, 1884, Mr. Vay married Miss Martha Kirsch, daughter of St. Arius and Gertrude Kirsch, a prominent family in Rochester at that time.

Besides his wife he leaves four daughters: Mrs. James Griffin, Mrs. Charles H. Hebling, Mrs. Harold E. Stonebraker and Mrs. Edward Krieg; a son, Arthur L. Vay; three sisters, Mrs. Theresa Schreiner, Mrs. Margaret Stelmus and Mrs. Margaret Krieg; a brother, James Vay of Chicago, and 12 grandchildren.

His death removes a Christian gentleman of the finest type—honest, capable, helpful, kindly and charitable. He did a world of kindness and friendly people, and his advice and friendly aid was so helpful and encouraging to many struggling business men. To do business with him was to find him a good friend, and to know him was to love him. Many a prayer will be said for the repose of his soul.

The Columbus Civic Center

Rochester's Newest and Finest Welfare and Community Center

Full activities are being shaped up at this great community center. The gym classes are receiving many new members, and applications will be welcomed from men, women, boys and girls. The gym, swimming pool and showers are among the finest in the city, and the rates are reasonable.

More than 300 living rooms, with five floors open to girls and women and three floors to boys and men, are being redecorated. New curtains, drapes, artistic wall colors, cozy and comfortable chairs, and the best kind of room service—these are offered at unusually low rates to all who are in need of a room. The room office has been moved from the fifth to the first floor, and is very convenient now for all applicants for rooms.

The dining room, redecorated, and with scenes from the life of Christopher Columbus, was reopened on Monday this week, with Miss Mary Sullivan, former housewife, in charge. Miss Sullivan is well experienced, courteous and capable, and is one of the best dieticians in the city. A graduate of Mechanics Institute, she served delightful lunches and appetizing dinners all this week, and will be glad to have all her old friends and many new patrons visit the dining room. Miss Sullivan will specialize in private dinners, banquets, parties, etc., and a phone call to Stone 1431 will bring a desired information. This week Miss Sullivan served the Columbus Civic Center Banquet, the Women's Adv. Club, banquet, and a number of private luncheons.

The Times-Union Cooking School will be held in the Columbus Auditorium on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday next week. The Neighborhood Club will have a dinner party in the private dining room at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

The Rochester Knights of Columbus will hold a regular meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday evening. The last meeting was a splendid one, and the one next week will be well attended. It will be held in the ball room. On the same evening the Catholic Daughters

65th Wedding Anniversary of Beloved Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ashe of 130 Harvard Street, Rochester, will observe their 65th wedding anniversary September 14th. Mr. and Mrs. Ashe were married in East Bloomfield, N. Y., by Rev. William Hughes in 1866. They lived all of their lives in West Bloomfield on their farm until two years ago, when they moved to their present home in Rochester. Mr. and Mrs. Ashe have five children: Ellen C. May, John E. and Thomas, all of Rochester, and Walter of Los Angeles, California, and three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.
