Rochester's Oldest Financial Institution KNEE BREECHES, SLIPPERS and Silver Buckles WERE MILL worth when Dr. Leif Ward, Jr., was president of the Rochester Savings Bank, 1831 to 1931. He was also one of the founders of the Rochester Savings Bank. He was truly one of Rochester's pioneers, and highly interested in the savings bank as a vital factor in the welfare of the community. It is said of him by a living Rochesterite, George P. Pond, who knew him well, that Dr. Ward habitually went to the bank in black knee breeches and black slippers with silver buckles, which Colonial dress was still worn by a few other living citizens until nearly the time of the Civil War. During these first years of Rochester's "Old Bank" the untiring effort to start it on the road that has marked a century of splendid service to its depositors and to the community. 1831 Centennial Year of Rochester's Oldest Financial Institution 1931 Rochester Savings Bank 47 Main St. W. — Two Offices — OPEN SATURDAY EVENING 7:30 to 9:00 P.M.
