

Cathedral Rector Is Named One of the Diocesan Consultors; Many Changes Among the Priests

Bishop O'Hern Announces Appointment of Rev. Charles F. Shay to Succeed Msgr. M. J. Nolan—Rev. Philip E. Golding Comes to Holy Apostles.

Announcement was made this week by the Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D.D., of the appointment of the Rev. Charles F. Shay, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, as a member of the Board of Diocesan Consultors, succeeding the Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. J. Nolan, whose death occurred some weeks ago. Father Shay is one of the best known priests in the diocese, and his appointment will please many people.

The other members are the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William M. Hart, Rt. Rev. Msgr. William M. Burns, Rt. Rev. Msgr. John P. Boppel, Rt. Rev. Msgr. John F. Brophy, and Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph Cameron.

Bishop O'Hern also announced the appointment of the Rev. Philip E. Golding, for the past 17 years pastor of St. Vincent's Church at Churchville, to the pastorate of Holy Apostles Church, Rochester, succeeding the Rev. John F. Neilligan, who was buried on Wednesday last week. Father Golding was ordained to the priesthood 31 years ago; served as assistant at St. Mary's and the Cathedral in Rochester, St. Anne's in Huron. He was pastor of St. Mary's Church at Bath for a time, and went to Churchville in 1914, where he has done splendid work. He will take charge of his new parish Sunday.

Other Appointments

The Rev. Joseph E. Gulliford, pastor of St. Michael's parish, Montezuma, and St. John's parish, Port Byron, has been appointed to the pastorate of St. Vincent's Church, Churchville.

The Rev. Cornelius J. Hogan, Ph.D., professor of St. Andrew's Seminary, has been appointed administrator of St. Columba's Church, Caledonia, and St. Patrick's Church, Mumfords, because of the illness of the Rev. James E. Kennedy, pastor. He will continue his work at St. Andrew's.

The Rev. John F. Neary, first assistant at St. Monica's Church, Rochester, has been appointed pastor of

REV. CHARLES F. SHAY

St. Michael's parish, Montezuma, and St. John's parish, Port Byron, to succeed Father Gulliford.

Rev. Thomas Brennan, first assistant at St. Augustine's Church, has been appointed professor at St. Andrew's Seminary to take the place of Rev. Gerald Lambert. Rev. Gerald Lambert, professor of St. Andrew's Seminary, has been named assistant director of the Columbus Civic Center, working under the Rev. Walter A. Foery. Administration of the Columbus Civic Center under the diocese has assumed such proportions that a new assistant to Father Foery was deemed necessary. By reason of his administrative success at Camp Stella, Maris on Seneca Lake for several years, Father Lambert was chosen for the work.

The Rev. Arthur A. Hughes, pastor of Holy Rosary Church, will take over the work of diocesan visitor to religious formerly carried on by Monsignor Nolan. The office of diocesan director of the apostleship of prayer, also filled by Monsignor Nolan, will be filled by the Rev. Joseph H. Gelfoff, pastor of Holy Family Church. The Rev. William F. Stauder, pastor of Holy Redeemer Church, will be diocesan director of the Holy Name Society, a post also filled by Monsignor Nolan.

The Rev. Stuart Hogan, first assistant of Sacred Heart Church, is made chaplain to the Madams of the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Prince Street, and Catholic chaplain to the Women's College of the University of Rochester.

Funeral Home Is Opened By D. Bernard O'Brien

D. Bernard O'Brien, who for the past three years has been actively engaged in the funeral business in this city, has opened his own funeral home at 89 Webster Avenue. Here he has a well-equipped modern funeral home, with all necessary and helpful conveniences. His patrons will find him courteous and kindly at all times, and eager to assist them in every possible way. Mr. O'Brien was married recently, and all of his friends will unite in wishing him a happy married life, and also much success in his business. He is a capable and dependable man in his work, and he will make every effort to earn the good-will and the patronage of all old and new friends.

Over Thirty Thousand Children Registered In Diocesan Schools

Superintendent of Schools Makes Annual Report to Bishop of Diocese—More Than Three Million Dollars Worth of New Schools Were Built in Past Seven Years in the Diocese.

A report covering the work of the Diocesan schools for the past year filed with the Rt. Rev. John Francis O'Hern, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, by the Rev. John M. Duffy, M.A., Diocesan Superintendent of Schools. The report gives the registration of all schools of the diocese for the present year—a grand total of 30,625 pupils, of whom 27,879 are in the elementary or grade schools, and 2,746 in the high schools. The report lists 17 new schools built during the past seven years at a total cost of $3,360,779—every one of them thoroughly modern, up-to-date, and nearly all of them with auditoriums and gymnasiums. The report, an interesting and inspiring one, follows:

Father Duffy's Report

To the Right Reverend Bishop, Clergy, and laity of the diocese of Rochester:

It gives me great pleasure to submit this report on diocesan schools for the year ending October 1st, 1931. As a new school year starts on its way, we turn with interest to note the progress made in the Catholic schools of our diocese. We all have reason to thank God for the blessings of the past year, for the graces and benefits that have come to pupils through the medium of the school, and to parents by reason of their children attending a Catholic school.

Over 30,000 children are attending Catholic schools this year in the diocese of Rochester, which embraces 11 counties. More than 18,000 of the pupils are in the county of Monroe. Of the 30,625 throughout the diocese, 27,879 attend elementary schools, and the remainder attend high schools.

In High Schools

The registration of two Catholic high schools of Rochester—Aquinas Institute and Our Lady of Mercy High School—show an increase over last year.

When a stranger looks at these figures, he might imagine that there is somewhere some great endowment fund from which the diocese can draw at will. Such, of course, is not the case. The endowment is the faith, devotion and good-will of the poor people of the Church. And, for the most part, Catholics are not overburdened with this world's goods.

"The poor you have always with you" (Matt. 26, 11). It is the penury of the people that pay for the school buildings and their maintenance. The wealthy have not been distinguished as a rule, for their support of Catholic education. Yet from motives of patriotism, from motives of altruism, men of little or no faith in a hereafter have given their millions to non-sectarian colleges and universities in order that science may advance and that knowledge may be diffused. They set a high standard and a noble example for our Catholic people to emulate.

Catholics should not imagine either that they are dispensing from supporting Catholic education because they have no children attending school, or that they can establish some sort of equality? "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so ye will fulfil the law of Christ" (Gal. 6, 2). Charity, if not justice, demands that the rich assist their poorer brethren. Let us not forget that nowhere is there a greater return for value received than in a Catholic school. Catholic people should also remember that they would have a far greater burden from public taxation alone, than they have now, if the Catholic children were turned over to the public schools. After all, there is no such thing as "free education." Education costs. So all Catholics should feel an obligation in co-operation with the State to support the Catholic schools.

Catholic high school supported by the two parishes of Geneva, St. Francis de Sales and St. Stephen's. It has the largest registration in its history. A total of 147 pupils are engaged in academic work, and 28 in commercial.

In Elmira, St. Peter & Paul's high school is beginning its second year work. Twenty-seven pupils are pursuing the academic course; 36, the commercial. This high school has pupils from all the parishes of Elmira.

Holy Family high school, Auburn, is also starting its second year. Forty-two pupils are registered in the first year, 32 in the second. More pupils would attend Holy Family high school, but lack of room necessarily limits the number.

The Catholic schools of the diocese are doing excellent work. Not only in their scholastic attainment up to standard, but they are giving to their students that religious training and character formation which are so neglected today. We are proud to state that Nazareth Academy won, in one graduation, eight of the 25 scholarships awarded to Monroe County.

New School Buildings

Although school buildings and equipment are the least important part of a school system, still the Catholics of the diocese of Rochester have not been negligent of these elements. Within the last seven years a number of beautiful new schools have replaced those that had served their time. Since 1924 the following schools have been built throughout the diocese:

	Opened	Room	Extras
Corpus Christi	1924	20	$10,000
Aquinas Institute	1926	45	$25,000
Immaculate Conception	1925	21	$10,000
St. Boniface	1926	16	$8,000
Blessed Sacrament	1927	18	$9,000

science to bear their portion of the burden of Christian education, according to their means, even though they have no children attending this or that particular school.

Dedicated Lives

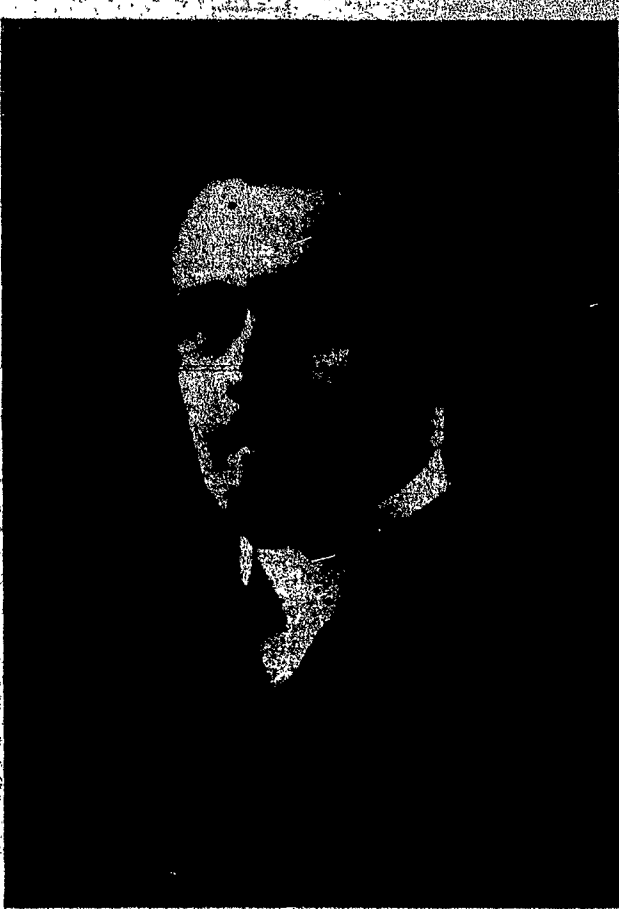

Yes, education costs. It costs the very life-blood of the teaching Sisters. Their life is a laborious one. They teach not for a few years. Their life is dedicated to the cause. If experience counts for anything, then their service is invaluable. The Sisters ask not for a recompense from the goods of this world. Yet they prize the prayers of those they have taught, and are human enough to appreciate the cooperation and good-will of those they serve.

There are a host of points on which Catholic education and any other system differ. One, apparently insignificant, is worthy of our attention. One system deems discipline detrimental; the others consider it salutary. By discipline we mean that restraint and exactitude that make for order, obedience, and respect for authority and the rights of others. Only he, who dreams dreams, will say that you must not interfere with children's self-expression, meaning, of course, that you must let children do as they please.

Chaos Without Discipline

The one who knows anything of the world and the people in the world, is certain of the absurdity of the classroom theory of self-expression, which means no discipline. Where there is no discipline, there is chaos.

Wm. T. Whelan Died Saturday Buried Tuesday

William T. Whelan, aged 42 years, native of Greece, and active in politics here for some years, died Saturday at his home, 1118 Lake Avenue, and was buried Tuesday at St. Patrick's Church, Mt. Road, Burdett. A solemn high requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Alexander J. McCabe, with the Rev. Daniel M. O'Rourke, assistant pastor, St. Patrick's, and the Rev. John J. McLaughlin, assistant pastor, St. Patrick's, officiating. The casket was borne by the Rev. Andrew Byrne, Rev. Dr. J. F. Gough, Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. J. Byrne, members of the faculty of St. Bernard's Seminary, the Very Rev. John J. Flanagan, O. S. A., St. Bernard's Seminary, and the Rev. Edmund Murphy, O. S. A., St. Bernard's Seminary. The Rev. Msgr. J. J. Byrne and the Rev. John J. Flanagan officiated at the funeral.

Mrs. Walter Whelan, widow of the deceased, and Mrs. John O'Rourke, widow of the Rev. John O'Rourke, were the principal mourners. The Rev. John O'Rourke, who was buried on Wednesday last week, was the brother of the deceased.

Mr. Whelan was born in Greece in 1889. In 1911 he married Mrs. Mary Whelan, who was the daughter of the late John Whelan, who was the brother of the deceased.
