

Over Thirty Thousand Children Registered in Diocesan Schools

The Catholic school is conservative enough to inculcate discipline in its pupils, and to regard it as a duty for adults, as well as for children, to observe the Ten Commandments. The Catholic school still insists on the Fourth Commandment. The Catholic Church in this diocese is making heroic sacrifices for her children. But she was born of sacrifice. She knows clearly her obligations. She knows her children about her and teaches them that Christ may dwell by faith in their hearts.

Items of Interest from WHAM

Rev. Charles F. Snay will speak on "The Mass as a Sacrifice of Thanksgiving" in the St. Patrick's Cathedral Hour over WHAM at 1:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, October 11th.

Rev. John A. McCleary, S.J., lecturer and writer of the University of Detroit, will conclude his series of lectures on the Parables and modern religious and social conditions when he speaks over WEGY, Schenectady and WBEW, Buffalo, in the NBC Catholic Hour at 6:00 o'clock Sunday, October 11th.

The Rochester Civic Orchestra concert to be broadcast from the studios of WHAM by the NBC-WJZ network at 10:00 o'clock Wednesday night, October 14th, will include that unique and weird symphonic pour of Saint-Saens known as the "Danse Macabre." The piece opens with the sound of the midnight hour, after which is heard the grim Death tuning his fiddle. He plays and the dead dance among the tombstones until the first glimmer of dawn is heralded by the crow of the cock. Guy Fraser Harrison will also conduct the "Scherzo" from Beethoven's "Symphony in G Major," "In the Village" from the "Caucasian Sketches" of Mikail Igollitow-Iwanow and "A Night in Seville" by Albeniz.

Italian and American notables will honor the memory of Christ's mother, the Virgin Mary, when the Italian Society presents a bronze statue of the Genoese sailor to the State of Minnesota in honor of the 150th anniversary of the discovery of America. The statue will be presented to the State of Minnesota in honor of the 150th anniversary of the discovery of America. The gift will be accepted in the name of Minnesota and the United States by Governor Floyd B. Olson and United States Attorney General William D. Witt Mitchell. These and other prominent persons will speak.

Spectacular pageantry and noted participants in the Yorktown Bicentennial Celebration, marking the 150th anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis, will be the subjects of two broadcasts by WHAM and an NBC network on Saturday, October 17th.

The program will originate from the present location of the Yorktown Bicentennial. The first broadcast will present Secretary Adams, General Parahing, Marshal Petain, and an unannounced representative of France who will augment Petain's remarks. They will be heard from 10:30 to 12:00 A. M. The second program, scheduled from 2:00 to 2:45 will include addresses by Secretary Hurley and Rear Admiral Wm. Tyler Cluverles of the United States Navy. Delegates of Lafayette, Rochambeau, Comte de Grass, Count Pulaski, Baron von Steuben and other officers of the American revolution will be presented on the same program.

H. G. Wells, distinguished English author and journalist, will speak over WHAM from the New York studios of NBC on Saturday, October 17th at 7:30. Wells' radio address will mark his first public appearance in America during his forthcoming visit. He is due to arrive in New York October 14, preparatory to embarking upon a national lecture tour. The subject of his radio talk has not been announced.

Mercy High News

On Tuesday afternoon Rev. James B. Keenan, M.H., pastor of St. Mary's Church, in this city addressed the Sodality of Our Lady of Mercy High School. Father Keenan spoke on devotion to the Rosary and life of the Blessed Virgin. His talk was followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

The gymnasium classes were resumed this week for the entire student body. Horseback riding has been added to the gymnasium work for those desiring it.

A class in voice training has been added this year, as an extra-curricular subject. Besides this work, private lessons are given in piano, vocal and oral expression.

Two Men Cady's Honored. Two men I honor, and no third. First, the toll-worn craftsman that with earth-made implement laboriously conquers the earth and makes her man's. Venerable to me is the hard hand, crooked, coarse. . . . A second man I honor, and still more highly: Him who is seen toiling for the spiritually indispensable: not daily bread, but the bread of life. These two in all degrees I honor: all men in shirt and hat, which let the wind blow whither it listeth.—Thomas Carlyle in "Bartley Reminiscences."

No wonder DUFFY-POWERS

Is so busy!

Isn't it fun to find the same style and quality at prices so much lower than other stores? Now I can afford to buy all the things I need!

WOMEN are talking like that about us. In fact, we're told that this store is the subject of a lot of conversation since we inaugurated our cash under-price policy recently.

Customers are getting a real thrill out of shopping here with cash or checkbook—finding the things they want in our complete inventory stocks, buying what they need (no more) and paying as they buy,—secure in the comfortable knowledge that they are saving money by buying that way.

We embarked on this new store policy of eliminating all unnecessary expense, selling our goods for cash and selling for less, after a good deal of study.

The abnormal times of the last ten years, after the war, are gone. People are getting down to normal living once more.

So our new store policy strikes a responsive chord. It is in tune with the times. People are thinking more of thrift . . . of spending wisely, not wildly . . . and of paying as they go.

Before the war a woman in moderate circumstances didn't spend five hundred to a thousand dollars a year on personal friveries. Maybe she wanted to, but she didn't have the money. She and her husband didn't spend more than they could afford on vacations . . . at least not much more.

But they lived well. They had a good home, ate good food, wore good clothes, took in an occasional show, gave their children sound educations, entertained, saved a little money and enjoyed themselves.

We incline strongly to the belief that as people gradually get in contact again with cash money, they will have acquired a new respect for it. A nickel will once more be currency, and two bits will be an important asset. People will appreciate values and look for them.

This store is glad to be helping. It is our policy to have everything in our stocks priced at least 6 per cent. lower than stores which do not sell exclusively for cash. In many instances the saving is even greater.
