Connecticut Politician Says His State Demands the Nomination of Alfred E. Smith

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 22.—James J. Walsh, former chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, said last week that Alfred E. Smith is demanded by Connecticut as the party nominee for the Presidency next year.

He said that he had sent a telegram to ex-Governor Smith after reading Washington dispatches quoting Homer S. Cummings, Archibald McNeil, Jr., and Mrs. Lillian Abbot of this State favoring the nomination of Governor Roosevelt:

"Your speech at the Washington Jackson Day dinner was one of the hour," the telegram read. "The people will demand your nomination and will overwhelmingly elect you. Connecticut is absolutely for you."

Salads in Winter

Do not allow yourselves to get out of the "salad a day" habit this winter. In summer, when so many salad ingredients are to be had, there is little danger of our forgetting the salad. In cold weather, we may slip if we are not careful.

But there are still plenty of salad ingredients at hand: lettuce, celery, dates, nuts, oranges, bananas, apples, cabbage, onions and canned fruits and berries are always available.

Try this delicious salad, for example: Six orange sections, three or four stoned dates stuffed with nut meats—served on crisp lettuce. Or cut two slices of seedless orange thick, and place within slice of Bermuda onion between. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives and serve on the proverbial lettuce.

For a third winter salad, dip four or five orange slices in slightly warmed honey which has been placed in a saucer. Then dip both sides of slices in cocoanut, arrange on lettuce and dot with bits of canned or maraschino cherry.

Charitable Bequests

New York, Jan. 22.—The will of Emma Heinzelman, who died on November 20, 1931, probated in New York the other day, left $2,000 to the Servants for Incurable Cancer, at Hawthorne, N. Y., and $500 each to St. John's Church and St. Columba's Church, New York.

Depression Dainties

By BETTY BARCLAY

Because Old Man Depression is still hanging around to annoy us does not mean that we are forced to go without a tasty dish or two a day. Here are three that may be prepared economically, and that will prove delicious.

Pot of Gold Dessert

Serves 4

½ cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons butter

Mix dry ingredients, add milk and orange juice and cook in double boiler until thickened. Add butter. Pour into individual molds. Cool. Serve with milk or cream.

Orange Canapé

(Individual Service)

Peel oranges and slice in one-third inch slices. Allow 1 large or 2 small slices to a serving. Arrange on lettuce. Sprinkle with one-half tablespoon minced celery. Serve with French dressing. Garnish, if desired, with slices of stuffed olive or with small strips of pimiento.

Orange Tulips

(Serves Four)

6 oranges
8 marshmallows, quartered
½ cup banana slices
¼ cup shredded dates
4 whole marshmallows

Cut top off 4 oranges. Make 5 or 6 cuts down sides so that pulp may be removed and shape shells to simulate tulip petals. Pare 2 remaining oranges. Cut all orange pulp in pieces, saving juice. Mix orange with other ingredients. Fill orange shells. Place these in sherbet glasses and top with a whole marshmallow which has been toasted until soft and slightly browned.

Upside Down Cake

In a cold frying pan place 3 tablespoons butter and ½ cup light brown sugar. Melt these and add 6 ripe peaches, peeled and sliced. Pour over this a batter made of 1 egg beaten, one-half cup light brown sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half cup hot milk, 1 cup flour and one and one-half teaspoons baking powder. Mix eggs, sugar and salt. Add milk. Stir in flour to which baking powder is added. Bake 30 to 45 minutes. When baked turn upside down on large platter. Serve hot with whipped cream or sauce.

To perform our actions in Christ is to unite ours with His, so that, for the sake of His, they may be accepted on high.

Blessed is he who knows what it is to love Jesus, and to despise himself for the sake of Jesus.

Swearing Off and Taking On

PEOPLE who do not wish to better themselves are few.

It is not hard for the average person to see all about him the privileges, opportunities and facilities for advancement which would place him in a position he does not but would like to occupy.

Too often these advantages are allowed to go unemployed and why?

In many cases there seems to be a sort of equilibrium between desire and lack of motive power, which some slight thing or incident might incline forward.

A salesman had talked for hours with a customer whom he did not wish to leave without the order. There was an impasse. Finally, opening his grip in the hope of finding a folder, card, picture or other thing which would upset the situation in his direction, he spied a couple of apples which he had brought from home. He rolled one across the desk to the customer and retained the other for himself. The customer took a bite, munched it for a moment, then said, "Well, we'll just let 'er come that way." The deal was closed, the order signed. So small a thing as an apple had disturbed the equilibrium and tipped an important deal into the salesman's lap.

The custom of adopting New Year resolutions is the apple which tips many a man's course toward an improved program of living. It may be the "swearing off" of habits which he no longer feels are creditable to him, or it may be the taking on of others which he believes will develop his mental, moral, spiritual and physical capacities, and gain for him greater respect, if not admiration, among those whose regard he would like to keep.

A comparatively small part of our population avails itself of the superb facilities of the public library in associating with the best minds of all ages and gleaning the treasures of history, biography, philosophy, poetry, religion and the sciences to be found there; the opportunities for physical improvement afforded by municipal golf courts, baseball grounds, frequent lectures, concerts and occasional operatic performances; the priceless capability of constructive thinking.

If you are standing at equilibrium, New Year's day is a good time to bite into the apple.

COLOR EFFECTS IN DRESSES CHARMING

Persian Tints and Soldier Blue Are Popular.

The dress of black, or black relieved by white, is no longer a uniform. In the first place there will probably be as many colored dresses as black this winter. Lingerie touches are now seldom found as trimming. Far more interesting things have taken their place.

Where white is used, it is an integral part of the design of the dress. Many times, soft interesting colors—Persian green, Persian rose, rust, or soldier blue—are used combined with black or dark brown.

A dark, reddish brown was a dress favorite with many of the French couturiers. Patou even advocated his caroub brown as a complete substitute for black. Vionnet brought forth many dark strong daytime shades—a rust, a green, a red and her bright "soldier" blue. Several of the designers, notably Lanvin and Lucille Paray, advanced violet, in a strong deep version, as a daytime shade. This shade seldom attains any great popularity—it remains to be seen how much influence it will have.

Red, in several intense shades, pleased the couturiers enough so that almost every one shows a dress in red or scarlet or a rust shade.

Close Draped Hats Are New Millinery Feature

New millinery concentrates on close draped hats, the beret and the turban being equally well considered. These will be developed in bright colors to correspond with the gay silk dresses to wear under fur wraps, which is a Paris fashion and will undoubtedly be featured here.

The fabrics which are being considered for hats of this type include moire, flat crepe and crepe marocain. An interesting detail will be the trimmings of organdie which will be fashioned into quills or flowers.

For Time and for Eternity Invest

Contributors under the Conditional Gift Plan of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith are given a legally-executed contract guaranteeing payment of interest—from four to six per cent.—as long as they may live.

This assures them of a dependable income for life whether times are good or bad, without fear of depreciation or failure. Interest is remitted punctually on the date due.

But Better Still—

Benefactors under this plan share in the countless good works and merits of the missionary priests, brothers and sisters who are spending themselves to spread God's Kingdom on earth. This constitutes a partnership that lasts throughout life and into eternity.
