

K. C. Choral Society Will Sing March 17

Thirteenth Annual Concert of Choral Society will be given in Auditorium of the Columbus Civic Center.

The 13th annual concert of the Knights of Columbus Choral Society will be given on Thursday evening, March 17th, in the Columbus Civic Center auditorium. The concert will be open to all music lovers, ladies and gentlemen, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend. A social evening will follow the concert, and this will be held in the ballroom of the Civic Center.

Several carefully chosen members of Catholic choirs throughout the city will be included in the group of 70 male singers of the Rochester Knights of Columbus Choral Society.

Included under the baton of Professor Frederick C. Pohl, choirmaster and organist of St. Michael's, and director of the K. C. Choral Society, will be an orchestra to provide a background for some of the more classical works on the program. A noted soloist will also be featured.

By selecting St. Patrick's night for the annual concert, the society returned to an old custom. The auditorium and not the ballroom will be used this year, according to Edward Rizzo, president, because of the large number of tickets already sold.

Mrs. Louisa Grotto, soprano, will be the guest soloist at the concert. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Laura Wilbur Remington.

Mrs. Grotto will be heard in three groups of songs with the following numbers on the program: Gounod's "Romeo and Juliette"; Schubert's "The Wanderer"; and "The Lass with the Delicate Feet." The latter will be sung by the choir.

A souvenir program containing a history of the Knights of Columbus Choral Society, officers, photographs and other interesting data will be distributed at the concert.

Following the concert and reception and dance will be held in Columbus Civic Center Auditorium.

Rochester Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women

Office 1020 Columbus Civic Center

At the recent regular meeting of the Rochester Diocesan Council, the following inspiring paper "Action in Behalf of the Catholic Press," was read by Mrs. Perry J. Burke:

"We understand the word 'action' to mean an exertion of power. It is the demand for the Latin agent, which means to put in motion. Now we must depend greatly upon the Catholic Press for putting in motion Catholic truths. Catholic books, papers and periodicals are well prepared to refute current errors and to serve as an antidote to false beliefs. Then why do we not take a greater interest in subscribing to Catholic literature, and seeing that it goes into the hands of the youth of our land?"

"A paper is no greater than its circulation." To make almost anything a success it must have financial as well as moral support. Any articles of import must necessarily take time and much consideration before they are ready for appearance in the public press. Therefore, must we not have capable writers, whose time runs into money, and who, in many cases, find writing their means of livelihood?"

Do we make requests for books by Catholic authors at our public libraries? If not, why not? If the demand is great enough they will surely be placed on the shelves. The giving of worthwhile books and papers to both Catholic and public libraries is a good service.

Individuals, besides subscribing to a Catholic newspaper, can well cooperate in the betterment of the Catholic press by subscribing not only for themselves but for others, thus stimulating through the press and otherwise writing among Catholic students, by arranging Catholic literature exhibits, and by acquainting themselves with the work of the various agencies of the Catholic press and aiding in their activities.

Our Holy Father, Pope Pius XI, in his encyclical "Quod Vivimus," by means of the Press, and considers it one of the very best ways of spreading religious truths. Some of the finest Catholic magazines in the United States are available at a very small cost, and only by regular recourse to them will Catholics be able to obtain the necessary offset to printed poison so often found in secular magazines and newspapers.

Catholic magazines such as "The Catholic World," "The Commonweal," "America," "Extension," "Truth," "Social Justice," and "Catholic Action," as well as papers like our own diocesan paper, "The Catholic Courier and Journal," "The Echo," "The Sunday Visitor," "The New York Catholic News," "The Tablet," and many others which have or at least should have, in every Catholic home, and on the reading tables in our Catholic clubs, libraries, and meeting places.

Committees, local and diocesan, on the Catholic Press should be organized within existing lay organizations to see that this work is extended. The Catholic literature, after we have finished with it, should be passed on to Santorum, County Homes, Reform Schools, and the like, as well as to individuals who cannot afford to subscribe. Then, too, a very good habit to form is to leave Catholic papers in public places, on trains, cars, and in buses. Many converts to our Faith have been made by the Catholic literature, after we have finished with it, should be passed on to Santorum, County Homes, Reform Schools, and the like, as well as to individuals who cannot afford to subscribe.

Great interest is being taken in the illustrated lecture to be given on March 21st at the Columbus Civic Center by Mr. Alexander M. Stewart on "Early Jesuit Missionaries in the Vicinity of Rochester." The committee on arrangements report the following additional members on their General Committee:

Mrs. Margaret Wickham, Mrs. Wendell Andrews, Miss Nettie Mastredonato, Miss Kate Connolly, Mrs. Joseph A. Scheuerman, Mrs. John Laupheimer, Mrs. Rosemary White, Mrs. John Reagan, Mrs. J. Frank Forester, Mrs. Madeline McNamara, Mrs. Perry Burke, Mrs. Eugene Sackett, Mrs. Richard FitzBarris, Mrs. E. J. Reynolds, Mrs. Charles Ward, Mrs. Frank J. Smith, Mrs. T. J. O'Connell, Mrs. C. J. Paisley.

There are about 230 city directories and more than 125 telephone directories in the collection, all of them the most recent copies. All of the larger cities of the United States and Canada are represented, also the smaller cities of New York State and the towns near Rochester.

Another much-used group is the business and other specialized directories. These books list manufacturers, bankers, newspapers, wholesale grocers, engineers, accountants, trade associations, and many others. There are over 100 of these directories.

There seems to be no end to the uses made of these books, he says. Lawyers and business men especially find them very helpful. The city and telephone directories are often used to prove residence in a particular place at a particular time, and they are a great value in the settlement of estates. They are an invaluable source for mailing lists, and traveling men get advance information on the next towns, using the street directories and maps. And at Christmas time, many a greeting card would remain unused if the mislaid addresses could not be found in these books.
