Bishop O'Hern Blessed New Holy Family School Sunday While Thousands Looked On

Praises Father Gefell and Parishioners for Erection of Structure to Meet Needs of Education and Social Welfare

More than four thousand men, women and children, through the doors of Holy Family parish's new school building in Jay Street last Sunday to inspect this structure and crowded into the auditorium where at 4 P. M. John Francis O'Hern, D. D., concluded the ceremonies of the building by addressing the large throng present. H. Geffell, D. D., pastor of Holy Family parish, then came to see the new school and presented Bishop O'Hern to the audience.

Bishop O'Hern said that the dedication of such an important unit in the diocesan building program was a happy day for the parish and for the Bishop. He referred to the section in which the parish is engaged as "the new era of the Holy Family" and drew heavily from the people who live in that section.

Bishop O'Hern then presented

Contest Won

Miss Marion Somerville, daughter of Manager and Mrs. Harry F. Somerville of the Sagamore Hotel, in a statewide contest recently conducted by the New York State Commission for the celebration of Washington's birthday at Washington, D. C. was awarded second place for her essay on the subject assigned.

Miss Somerville who is a student at Sacred Heart Academy, this city, is entitled by her award to a silver medal to be given by the New York State Commission and to visit Washington and Mt. Vernon this summer.

Announcement of the award was made on April 13th by Warren May Mills, Director of the contest.

Scholarship Need Seen By Conference

Washington, April 22.—The need for scholarships and fellowships in Catholic institutions of higher learning in this country is strikingly called to attention by the publication of a bulletin of the Federal Office of Education. Nearly 50,000 scholarships and fellowships are available annually in the United States, the bulletin estimates. The total money value

The latest listing of the Department of Education, National Catholic Welfare Conference, reveals only 657 scholarships and fellowships in Catholic colleges and universities for men and their total money value less than $200,000. Only one of the Catholic colleges has more than 50 scholarships.

In addition, it is noted, a great portion of the scholarships in Catholic institutions are subject to conditions which render them unavailable to Catholic students who fail to enter lay brotherhoods. It is pointed out that many of them are open only to candidates for the priesthood or aspirants to some religious Order. In an equally large number of instances the scholarship is open only to graduates of a certain preparatory school or to residents of a certain diocese. There are, however,

The Most Rev. Archbishop of Baltimore, of Baltimore, Md. and the Most Rev. Bishop of Savannah, Ga. and the Most Rev. Bishop of New Orleans, La. and the Most Rev. Bishop of New York, N.Y. and the Most Rev. Bishop of Philadelphia, Pa. and the Most Rev. Bishop of St. Louis, Mo. and the Most Rev. Bishop of St. Paul, Minn. and the Most Rev. Bishop of St. Peter, Minn. and the Most Rev. Bishop of St. Vincent and the Grenadines, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, and the Most Rev. Bishop of the United States.

To the contrary, the bulletin of the Office of Education shows, that the State of the Union now furnishes a legislative enactment, some sort of scholarship, aid which is open to the residents of the State. These States are Arizona, California, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Indiana,

Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Montana,
New Jersey, New York, North Carolina,
Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island,
Utah, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin.

An interesting notation in the Government bulletin is that only a few of the older colleges in the East record scholarships a century or two old. Harvard University has one nearly 300 years old, a scholarship given by Lady Mowilson, of London, England, in 1643, when Harvard was only seven years old.

diction resulted in her instruction and baptism.

The little group of catechumens at Jung Kang was visited by priests of the Maryknoll Korean Mission, and also by Father Joseph Sweeney, of New Britain, Conn., a Maryknoller, who is pastor of Linkiang, Manchuria on the opposite bank of the Yalu River.

Non-Christians at Jung Kang are extremely well disposed toward the Catholic Church, and this is especially true of officials and industrial citizens. The number of those seeking instruction increases constantly. But mission work has its own set of difficulties. If Father Sweeney happens to be away from Linkiang on a mission journey, Father Cleary must make a round trip of 600 miles in a region where there are no

Mrs. Charles Kast, Miss Terrence McCormick, Miss Mary McDonnell, Mrs. Charles Walsh, Miss Margaret Raycroft, Miss Mary Pugh, John T. Hedley, Mrs. Kate Hart, the Misses Chaffin, Mrs. Charles Sanford, Mrs. Amy Haddenson and Miss Marcello Magister.

Other missionaries are: Rev. James J. O'Connell, St. Paul, Minn.; John Walsh, Mr. Cyril MacLean, Manila; Frederick W. Chase, St. Paul, Minn.; John Timmerman, Miss Mildred Shannahan, St. Paul, Minn.; Maycroft and Miss Maudie Tickels; Mrs. Charles McGee, St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. E. C. Delon, Rochester, Minn.; Mrs. Miss Ruth Winans, New York; Margaret, Mrs. John McLaughlin, St. Paul, Minn.; Walter Wilson, St. Paul, Minn.; Thomas M. Brown, St. Paul, Minn.; Thomas M. Brown, St. Paul, Minn.; Thomas M. Brown, St. Paul, Minn.

The mission students all received sacraments with their parents.
