THE HOLY SACRIFICE OF THE MASS Twenty-fifth Talk—By the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles F. Shay

Subject: "Kryle." Good Afternoon My Dear Friends: If you were to ask a priest what subject he would prefer to talk about, invariably I feel assured the answer would be the Mass of God.

puted crime? The judge surrounded by his judicial courtiers officiates at the bench. The jury, men from every vocation and avocation of life, are there to weigh the evidence.

But, my dear friends, even if there would not be half so bad if there were some semblance of justice or mercy. Review in your memory, if you will, the different cases with which you will find that this is the mental picture that has been impressed indelibly.

There is the grand reprieve between attorney and attorney, there is the great splurge of oratory upon which hangs the fame or fate of those leaders of the law.

A poor Hungarian was falsely accused of the murder of a well-to-do woman. He was arrested and held in prison, wherefor he might at least expect that justice would be done.

Off to the prison he is rushed, cold steel bars define his liberty; he is the outcast of society and justice has been vindicated.

"LAPIDAR" DISCOVERY OF SWISS PRIEST BRINGS RELIEF TO THOUSANDS

Thirty years ago a Swiss priest, Father Kunitz, discovered LAPIDAR—a marvelous herb remedy composed of harmless leaves, flowers and roots from the high Alps.

Now we are told, my dear friends, and we know it, that sin of a serious nature robs God of an infinite honor. Since this is true, we are puzzled at times to understand how God can forgive and we make amends.

STRANGE BUT TRUE Catholic Facts But Little Known

Twentieth-Century Nervous Ailments Point to Need for Spiritual Solace By RAPHAIL C. MCCARTHY, S. J., Lecturer in Psychology, St. Louis University, as told to John E. Riley in "Queen's Work."

the mercy of God? We quickly grasp the Scriptures wherein God has revealed Himself to His creatures and has treated the sinner in an act of atonement, despite the enormity of the crime.

Before we begin to look into the subject of nervous ailments, we must first understand the concrete nature of nerves. Nerves are the concrete lines of communication between the brain and the rest of the body.

Still we say to ourselves that these are only words. Suppose these sacred writers were only voicing their own hopes and as if we were dreaming dreams from which one day we would have a sad awakening.

The nervous system of the modern man and woman is exposed to shocks played upon by forces and burdens which strain which people in other generations were spared.

One such example is King David. If ever a man sinned, he was David. There is no question about the sterling qualities which he possessed, but these are only traceable through the direct influence which the Almighty exerted in the attainment of his success.

The Demon Noise For some reason or other speed usually has for a companion that terrible demon noise. The faster we drive a car, the louder the roar of its movement.

Will Wins Conversions You find idealism sees the missioner in China as another St. Francis Xavier, inflaming the minds of his hearers by ardent discourses on sacred topics, and baptizing converts.

Eucharistic Congress OFFICIAL PRAYER The official prayer of the Eucharistic Congress which appeared in the April issue of "Queen's Work" is as follows: O Jesus, we believe that thou art truly, really and substantially present in the Blessed Sacrament.

Let us bless God that we are children of His Mercy; let us imitate Him and consider our great happiness in having Him as patron.
