Bishop McFadden
The consecration of Right Reverend Monsignor James A. McFadden as Auxiliary Bishop of Cleveland has a peculiar significance for the National Council of Catholic Men since the beginning of the organization he has been a staunch supporter of it. A former member of the National Council under Bishop Schrembs, Episcopal Chairman of the National Council, he has been in close touch with it and has acquired an understanding and sympathy with its aims and purposes. The delegates to the 1931 Convention at Rochester will recall his sermon in the Cathedral at the Pontifical Mass which opened the Convention wherein he referred to the slow but steady growth of the National Council, likening it to the slow ascent of a mountain whose peak was emblazoned in glorious colors by the Evangelists of the Holy Father on Catholic Action.

He also said: "Their struggle (The N. C. C. M.) of these past years has been a very difficult one because it was the beginning; it was the foot of the mountain. They saw narrowness, the narrowness of individualism. Individualism without social responsibility, is a great evil, a thing that must be eradicated from Holy Mother Church. There is no such thing as an individual Christian; an individual Catholic is a misnomer. We are all incorporated into the Body of Christ, and the ideal that he expresses, is expressed by St. Paul when he sought to make up what was wanting in the sufferings of Christ in his own body. There is no room for narrowness as regards the great purposes of God.

We find in the Divine Lord and Saviour, in the parable of the wise and

KNIGHTS WILL HAVE "DEPRESSION SOCIAL"

Plans for another "Depression Social" such as was held last year in Boniface Hall, were made by the Rochester Regiment, Knights of St. John at the First District Commandery meeting held Friday of last week at Headquarters, St. Joseph's Church building. The date was not definitely set, but it is expected the affair will be held in November.

The meeting was presided over by Colonel Frank H. Biel, K.H.S. Reports were made by various committees and important matters discussed. Following the District Commandery meeting, the committee in charge of the bowling league, headed by Lt. Col. William H. Rossenbach, met to make plans for the second year of the league's existence.

DRAMATIC MOMENTS In Catholic Life

couch. An hour's rest had suggested itself before he started out on the long and arduous journey to Gaul. His deep dejection at abandoning the work of Augustine which had prospered so well made this impossible, however, and he lay there thinking. Suddenly he heard a rustle as of wind, the sound of some one entering the room, it seemed. He turned towards the door, wondering if some messenger had already come for him. A knock came, and he opened the door. In the center of the room was a man, yes, there could be no doubt of it—Peter, the Prince of the Apostles.

Now there came a voice.

"You would abandon the work of the great Augustine at the first cry of danger?" he said sadly. "You, the shepherd of your flock, and the successor of Augustine, would leave the Church and her children to her enemies!"

And, we read, Peter punished Lawrence by inflicting stripes upon him.

The following morning Lawrence hastened to the King and was at last ushered into his presence. Eadbald was surprised to see the Bishop and surprised more at the confidence of his bearing and his speech.

"What do you wish? If it be with regard to my people, I can do nothing," said the King, evidently trying to anticipate any request for protection which the Bishop might make.

"No, my lord," said Lawrence. "It is not of that that I wish to speak but of a vision which came to me last night when, like a coward, I was about to desert my post."

Thereupon he told the King about the vision of St. Peter and exhibited to him his wounded body, the punishment which St. Peter had inflicted upon him for his contemplated dereliction.

The King listened with interest and when Lawrence's wounds were complete change in his attitude towards the Bishop. So impressed was Eadbald with the story that it led to his conversion.

With the conversion of the King, Mellitus and Justus were recalled from Gaul to resume their work and these, under the direction of Lawrence, continued their work of evangelizing Kent and the neighboring provinces.

Shortly thereafter Lawrence died, about the year 619. He was buried near his great teacher Augustine in the north porch of St. Peter's abbey church, afterwards known as St. Augustine's.

Local Federation Hears Reports On State Convention

The recent 25th annual convention of the Catholic Central Verein of America, New York State Branch, held in Rochester, was declared the finest ever held at the regular meeting of the Rochester Branch held Sunday afternoon in St. Joseph's Basement Hall.

President Joseph T. Otto, presiding, who was general chairman of the convention committee, reported that after all expenses had been paid, a surplus was left in the convention fund. Letters from other branches in the state were read by convention secretary Frank Hohmlein expressing appreciation of the Rochester Branch's efforts in arranging for such a successful convention.

At the October meeting it is planned to take up resolutions adopted at the national and state conventions of the Catholic Central Verein. State resolutions drafted and adopted here in Rochester were declared by F. E. Kenkel, director of the Central Bureau in St. Louis, to be the finest he has heard in any state through this year and better in many respects to those of the national body. Philip H. Donnelly, former county judge, was chairman of the Resolutions Committee at the state convention.

The Friendly Visitors who cooperate with the Sisters of the Blessed Trinity in catechetical work at Lady Chapel, have already commenced their work, as have the group of volunteers who serve thrice monthly at the Blind Craft Shop in Monroe Avenue. The three Girl Scout troops of the Club are meeting weekly on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons. The Big Sister Group of Rochester Diocese, Inc., held their first meeting the third Thursday evening in September, and the Mission Group, the third Friday evening. Throughout the month of October, a number of members of the Club are giving support to the Holy Way and Means Committee of the Club, in lieu of the large annual card party. These parties will not interfere with the weekly Friday afternoon bridge tea at the Club House which open each year the first Friday in October. Late in the month the Membership Committee will hold the visitation of Club members in their annual fall canvass, and on the last Friday, Saturday and Sunday of October members are being invited to take part in the spiritual exercises of the annual retreat for lay-women of the Diocese of Rochester sponsored by the Club at Nazareth College. The October business meeting will be featured at Girl Scout and Girl Scout mothers' night, and the November meeting will be a welcoming supper at Columbus Civic Center to new members, and a reunion of old. The annual Christmas Sale comes early in December, after which the month's activities are given over to the Club's charitable projects.

Three young women are continuing their training this year at Nazareth College, Nazareth Academy and Mercy High School, under scholarships awarded by the Club.

Catholic women of the city are invited to participate in any of the activities of the Club in which they may be interested. Contact may be formed by calling the Club House, where applications for membership may also be made. While membership in the Club is limited to women of the Catholic faith, all of the classes are open to any woman, and they will be cordially welcomed.
