Pope Plus XI on the Christian Education of Youth, His Holiness says, "In fact it must never be forgotten that the subject of Christian education is man whole and entire, soul united to body in unity of nature, with all his faculties natural and supernatural, such as right reason and revelation show him to be; man, therefore, fallen from his original estate, but redeemed by Christ and restored to the supernatural condition of adopted son of God, though without the preternatural privileges of bodily immortality or perfect control of appetite. There remain therefore, in human nature the effects of original sin, the chief of which are weakness of will and disorderly inclinations.

"Folly is bound up in the heart of a child and the rod of correction shall drive it away" (Prov. 22, 15). Disorderly inclinations then must be corrected, good tendencies encouraged and regulated from tender childhood and above all the mind must be enlightened and the will strengthened by supernatural truth and by the means of grace, without which it is impossible to control evil impulses, impossible to attain to the full and complete perfection of education intended by the Church, which Christ has endowed so richly with divine doctrine and with the Sacraments, the efficacious means of grace.

"Hence every form of pedagogic naturalism which in any way excludes or weakens supernatural Christian formation in the teaching of youth is false. Every method of education founded, wholly or in part, on the denial or forgetfulness of original sin and of grace, and relying on the sole powers of human nature, is unsound. Such, generally speaking, are those modern systems bearing various names which appeal to a pretended self-government and untrained freedom on the part of the child, and which diminish or even suppress the teacher's authority and action, attributing to the child an exclusive primacy of initiative, and an activity independent of any higher law, natural or divine, in the work of his education."

With these principles before us we cannot be ignorant of the course to pursue, nor doubt the importance of the work. It has long since been the aim of the Bishops of this diocese to have a Catholic elementary school in every parish that can support one. The last two decades have also seen a substantial growth in Catholic secondary schools in this diocese. Nine schools are offering courses beyond the eighth year. Two high schools were established three years ago.

Elmira Catholic High School began in Elmira in SS. Peter & Paul's parish school with the encouragement and active support of the Very Reverend John J. Lee, V.F., LL.D., now dean of Elmira. The school soon outgrew the space available for high school pupils, and so, on the recommendation of Dr. Avery W. Skinner, M. A., Ph. D. of the State able to school and home and expresses the hope that this service will not be curtailed in the economy program now being planned by the city authorities.

The report in full is as follows:

To the Most Reverend Bishop, the Reverend Clergy and Religious, and the Laity of the Diocese of Rochester:

The following report on the Catholic schools in the diocese of Rochester is for the year ending October 1, 1932. It is indeed gratifying to note that amid the general upheaval caused by the economic disturbance, from which even educational institutions have not escaped, the Catholic schools of this diocese are operating in their usual order and with undiminished zeal. The blessing of God is evidently upon the work and the hearts of teachers are in the work. The diocesan schools are the result of sacrifices on the part of the Catholic laity, and so in times like these they are accustomed to the sacrifices that are necessary to carry on the work. We are not blind to the fact that there are difficulties in financial work. We are not blind to the fact that Catholic schools, and that extraordinary efforts have to be made. But I thank God, those efforts are being made and hardly without exception the pastors throughout the diocese, who have direct charge of financing parish schools, have borne the burden and shouldered the responsibility with heroic fortitude.

Cost Kept Down

But no one should regard the cost of maintaining Catholic schools as an entirely additional and perhaps unnecessary expense. Suppose the Catholic schools of the city of Rochester were closed and all their pupils were turned over to the public schools. Why the consequent increase in taxation would be staggering - if not impossible. According to a statement in a newspaper a few months ago, in 1927, 46 per cent of the tax-payers' dollar in this city went for the school system. In 1928 it was 40.1 per cent; in 1929, 40.2; in 1930, 42.2; and in 1931, 37.5. It added, "The 1932 budget grants the Board of Education $7,380,000 and general city activities $10,421,873. Our annual report of 1930 pointed out that the city of Rochester was saved $2,268,987.44 in public taxation by the Church educating her own children. If that sum were added to the 1932 public school budget, to say nothing of providing buildings and equipment, the increased rate of taxation would be appalling."

School Buildings Erected

During the past year building activities have not ceased entirely in spite of the depression. In March the Pupils of Holy Family school, Rochester, moved into a new building in which nothing was omitted that makes for efficiency and for the comfort and convenience of pupils and teachers. This school, built at a cost of approximately $250,000, is one of the most modern in the diocese. Besides 23 classrooms, offices, etc., and an auditorium which seats 1,260 persons, there are on the basement floor three meeting rooms, check room, cafeteria, bowling alley, and everything which goes to make up a complete parish recreational center. Twenty-five loud-speakers in classrooms and throughout the building enable the priest-pal to speak to all pupils at once without calling an assembly. Catechetical work is made especially easy and interesting by a library of over 4,000 slides. The plans for this school were being studied and formulated during a period of seven years, and today the building stands as a monument to the zeal of the pastor, the Reverend Joseph H. Geahly, D.D., and to the faith and loyalty of the people of Holy Family parish.

Another beautiful and well-equipped school was completed in April, 1932. This is St. Joseph's parish school in Wayland, N. Y. The building has five large, bright classrooms and an auditorium on the ground floor with a seating capacity of about 600. The school is ideally situated opposite the parish church, with a large campus for recreational purposes. The registration this year is 133 pupils. Considering the size of the parish, a school, with a cost of $53,000, is a tribute to the energy of the recently appointed pastor, the Reverend William W. Hesel, Ph. L., S.T.B., and is regarded as the finest social center in that community.

In Elmira, St. Patrick's parish school was remodeled this summer at a cost of $12,375.50 to provide accommodations for the Catholic high school which was transferred from SS. Peter & Paul's parish.

Aim of Catholic Education

But the cost of maintenance is not the main issue. The educational policy of the Church does not change from year to year, or from century to century. Conditions may change, but her purpose is ever the same. She has no misgivings whatever as to the child's intellectual and spiritual needs, for to her was committed his care and guidance.

In the Encyclical Letter (1929) of Education Department, Albany, the high school was transferred to quarters provided for in St. Patrick's parish school, by the Reverend William J. Brien, S.T.L., M.A., Ph.D., pastor of St. Patrick's parish. There are 104 pupils in the first three years, 43 of whom are freshmen. The Reverend Francis J. Kelly is principal of the high school and the Sisters of St. Joseph are members of the teaching staff.

Holy Family High School

In September 1930 another high school was opened at Auburn in the Holy Family parish where the Very Reverend John A. Conway, V.F., is pastor. The first three years of high school work are being carried on in this school. There has been keen interest on the part of the Catholic people of the parish in the progress of the high school department. An Albertus Magnus Club (for scholarship), a Dramatic Club, Athletics, and a Missa Recitata on First Fridays are some of the extra-curricular activities. The Sisters of Mercy form the teaching staff, and the Reverend William E. Davie, M.A., is the newly-appointed principal.

De Sales Institute

The De Sales Institute of Geneva was established in 1912 under the Very Reverend Dean McDonald. During the twenty years of its existence it has graduated about 800 students who otherwise would not have had the advantage of a Catholic high school education. Consequently, this school has contributed much to the Catholic life of the parishes of Geneva.

The tomb of King Tut-ankh-Amen yielded a pair of beautiful sandals that showed the extent to which art was employed by the ancient Egyptians in beautifying the footwear of their day. Today the artistic ideas of past centuries are combined with the foot-sense, foot-ease and foot-fit demanded by the present age. Shoe-making today is a union of modern sense and mechanical skill with beauty and art.

J. J. Kalb & Sons, located at 37-39 Andrews Street, is an example of a modern shoe manufacturing concern. They manufacture children's shoes.

The business was founded in 1855 by John Kalb and at that time was operated as a tannery on Mt. Hope Avenue. The business is now owned and operated by the third generation. Shoe Repairers' supplies are sold by J. J. Kalb & Sons. Telephone them at Main 8073.

to place on altars such conceptions, methods, follies, whimsies and superficialities as are at present the vogue in the studios of modern art. . . That art which in the year of grace 1932 has the audacity to call itself 'modern' or even 'future' is nothing more than a return to the atrocious conceptions at the height of the Middle Ages and which have been called, for that reason, 'barbaric.'
