Fr. T. F. Conlon, Noted Dominican, To Give Address

ing our union, which is not yet a year old, by sending us the National Director, the head of all the Holy Name Societies in America."

Father Conlon was born in Waterbury, Connecticut, and educated at Immaculate Conception College and at Catholic University, Washington, D. C. In 1917, he received the degree of Doctor of Human Letters from Catholic University and in that same year he was ordained a priest in the Dominican order. From 1918 to 1923, he was a professor in LaSalle College and Providence College, Providence, R. I. In 1923, he was placed on the Eastern Band of Dominican missionaries and continued to do mission work in the eastern section of the United States until 1925.

Named Director in 1931

In 1933, Father Conlon was made superior of the Western Mission Band of the Dominicans with headquarters at Chicago and he remained in that capacity until 1931, when he was named as National Director of the Holy Name and as editor of the Holy Name Journal.

Father Conlon is reputed to be one of the finest pulpit orators in the Dominican order, an order noted for its preachers. He delivered the address at the International Holy Name Rally at the Eucharistic Congress in Dublin, Ireland, in 1923 and later on his visit to Rome was received in audience by our Holy Father and commissioned to bring the message of the Pontiff to the Holy Name men of America. His address recently over the National Catholic Radio Hour on the Holy Name Society was commented on widely throughout the country and favorably quoted because of the program it laid down for the Holy Name.

Plan Diocesan Affiliation

The Rochester Diocesan Holy Name Union embraces all of the Holy Name Societies of Monroe County and many others scattered throughout the diocese. Distance alone, it is said, has prevented complete cooperation of all the societies in the diocese and it is proposed, it is understood, to eventually form diocesan unions so that the advantages of the union may be realized by all the societies of the diocese.

The convention will take place in the ball-room of the Columbus Civic Center in Rochester and will begin at 3:00 p. m. The principal business before the convention is the election of officers for the coming year. Each society in the Union is entitled to send four lay delegates and its spiritual director to the convention.

Papal Delegate's Farewell Message Blesses America

My duties have brought me into every State of this great country, and I have observed with joy and edification the organization of the Church in teaching Christ's truth and in bringing sanctification to her children. On numerous occasions I have expressed my affection and admiration for the Bishops of the country. I do so again. I pray to guide and support them in their leadership of a devoted and zealous clergy and of a laity characterized by exceptional enthusiasm and generosity in the interests of God and Church and Country.

The unity of Catholic faith is manifested in external common action under the Bishops through their own National Catholic Welfare Conference. This same spirit of Catholic unity has given to the Church in America its splendid schools and colleges, its progressive Catholic press, its missionary zeal, and devotion to religious and social organizations for the extension of Catholic life.

May the Church in America continue to the best ideals of this Government in fostering and protecting the sanctity of the home, in promoting Christian education, and in exemplifying the mercy of Christ in the administration of Christian charity.

These years in America have been blessed and happy. I shall cherish them always. The great honor conferred on me by the Holy Father will but strengthen the bonds that attach me to this land. To all the people of this great nation I must say farewell. May God bless the United States now and in the years to come.

Pope Believes World Crisis Relief Is Near

His Holiness said, if, through the Holy Year of Jubilee, grace renewed the spirit of prayer and expiation and holy works responded to the divine lament "For what did I shed my blood."

Pope Pius expressed the hope that through the labors of the Lenten preachers, the greatest possible number of souls will enjoy the advantages of the Redemption, because whatever exists of faith, ardor and hope of good in every field comes from the Redemption. This Christian civilization which many enjoy without knowing whence it comes, and even with deliberate intentions of hostility to God, is really the happy consequence of the Redemption, the Holy Father pointed out.

"What magnificent results there would be," Pope Pius concluded, "if mankind were led to a greater response to such a gift. If every soul really fixed its glance on all the divine actions of the Redemption, all would feel the great, glad confidence that we ourselves feel. Until a short time ago we didn't see any reason for such confidence in the midst of the pessimism pervading all and everything. But we felt this confidence vibrating in our heart as soon as we thought to proclaim the Holy Year of Jubilee, and we firmly hope that when the Holy Year is about to end mankind will be better in all directions."

A New Social Order

By FREDERICK J. MIX
President of Rochester Diocesan Council N. C. C. M.

Whatever we may think about the present economic and social condition, the fact remains that a new social order is being established under our very eyes. The capitalistic system is being supplanted.

What changes must be made in our social service work if the Catholic is to contribute to the upbuilding of a new social order? The theory underlying the training for social service must also include, not only the treatment of the effects of poverty, but also the causes. In Europe the tendency in the social service schools, and in fact they stand out in sharp contrast in this respect, is to develop social work of a preventive character. Men and women are organized and trained to direct working men and women, to edit workers' papers and to supervise workers' social insurance. Our training in the United States has made scarcely a beginning in this direction, but the opportunity is here, and the Catholic people interested in social welfare work should recognize it.

Gives Special Training

The Catholic Social Service School maintained by the N. C. C. W. has already taken steps to train the social workers who graduate from that school to combat, not only hereditarily crime and poverty, caused by drunkenness, but also to examine the social system which brings about in cycles, low wages, unemployment, industrial accidents, occupational disease and employment of mothers seeking to disperse the crowd, ordered the firemen to turn the fire hose upon the people. When the Catholics endured the wetting and refused to withdraw, the police intervened and a fight resulted in which many were hurt.

Some of the Catholics arrested as a result of the disturbance have been released upon payment of fines. Two of the priests accused of violating the law of Culti have been released. Father Philippe Betancourt is one of those still held.

Father Betancourt was arrested while preaching in the Church of San Felipe before 500 or more people. The police entered the church and arrested him on the charge that his sermon was considered subversive. His arrest in the church edifice caused indignation among the congregation who followed him to the police station and caused considerable disturbance outside until they were dispersed by the firemen.

Fathers Gutierrez and Esomana serve the parish of Aranzazu and Father Vazquez Chavez is pastor of Santa Teresa.

Convent Raided

A few days before the arrest of these priests, Heliodora Rivalcaba, Chief of Police, accompanied by his agents, entered the house at 616 calle Donato Guerra in the Mexicaltzingo section of Guadalajara and arrested 16 Sisters. The Chief of Police forcibly entered the house by breaking down the door.

The Religious, terrified by the police, fled upstairs and the agents in pursuit. They even risked their lives by climbing out on the roof.

The names of those arrested are: Maria Gallardo Flores, Victoriana Garcia Sandoval, Baria Villenas, Lucia Tejada, Maria del Valle Aguila, Agustina Ibaera Herrera, Rafaela Gutierrez Perez, Trinidad Valencia Navarro, Josefa Luz Barroso, Maria Arellano Correa, Maria de la Torre Padilla, Maximiliana Duenas, Alicia Torres Cazares, Maria Concepcion Jimenez y Urzua, Amparo Terah Licaga and Elena Mercedes Nunez.

Apparitions Story Stirring Belgians

Brussels.—Two additional priests have been appointed by the Most Rev. Thomas L. Heylen, Bishop of Namur, to the parish church at Baeuraing to care for the spiritual needs of the throngs that are visiting there in view of the reports of recent apparitions in that town.

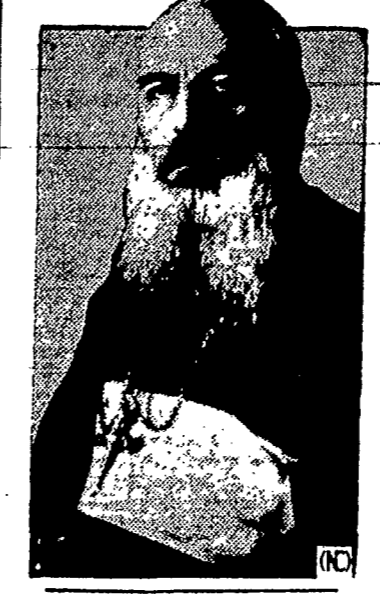

The five children who said they saw the apparitions of the Blessed Mother continue to go every evening to the grotto and say their Rosary. A few days ago they made an official novena and thousands of visitors joined them in their daily prayers.

"It is my sincere hope that this Lay Apostolate Movement will spread through other parish units and that the ideal of spiritual unity may be greatly assisted by such efforts.

"Please be assured, my dear gentlemen, of my deep interest in your work. Your zeal and love for our Holy Faith is most inspiring. May God bless you, your work and all who are near and dear to you.

Spread of Movement

This letter, from the distinguished prelate who for the last ten years has represented the Holy See in this country, has gladdened the hearts of the little group of laymen who started four years ago to enlighten the non-Catholic citizenry of Narberth, regarding Catholic truths, by means of monthly pamphlets, each containing some point of dogma, discipline or history, presented in a manner unique, courteous and interesting.

NATIVE SEMINARY APPEAL

The following appeal has been received by the Diocesan Office Society for the Propagation of the Faith. Contributions may be made through this office, 50 Chestnut Street, Rochester.

Catholic Mission
Lintsing, Siao Lu,
Shantung, China

Dear and Reverend Father:

According to the mind of the Catholic Church and the desire of the Holy Father, a new mission field of China has been ceded to the native secular clergy. The Catholic Mission of Lintsing with territory detached from the Vicariate of Tsinanfu, Shantung, and erected as a Prefecture Apostolic last year, Monsignor Jasper Hu is appointed Prefect Apostolic and 18 native priests are working with him in this new Mission.

In order to provide necessary means and Mass intentions, Messrs Hu invited me to come over here and to assist him as secretary. I am the only foreign missionary here and it is indeed not an easy matter for myself to meet the many needs and wants of this new Mission. To whom shall I go for assistance? Messrs Hu asks me to call for American help. But I know conditions in America are not so bright and promising now.

We do not, however, lose our trust in God. With the deepest confidence in your never-failing interest towards the Missions, I am coming to you, dear Father, for assistance. Our Chinese priests are depending on you. Our Seminarians are calling on you. Our catechists and orphans need you. Please help us for the love of God and kindly send some stipends for our needy Chinese priests. The smallest gift will be appreciated. And we shall never forget. We pray that our dear Lord bless you abundantly and reward you a thousandfold.

Pending yours in Christ
Rev. Francis Roeb
S. S. Please make checks payable to Rev. Francis Roeb or Rt. Rev. Monsignor Jasper Hu, Prefect Apostolic of Lintsing.

MORE COMPETITION

The poverty here at Lubbock, Texas, is appalling and we were counting the days for the opening of the cotton picking season when our poor Mexicans have worked for a time at least. Then just as the cotton crop was ready and the people were all making preparations to leave for the fields, it started to rain. For two weeks we had rain almost continually, night and day. Increasing prayer was offered for we feared that the cotton crop would be destroyed. As a result, thanks to Jesus and Mary, the rain stopped and we had several days of beautiful, sunny weather. All our people left for the cotton fields. Some returned each evening, others came in for the week ends, while others, who had gone to more distant places, returned only at the end of the cotton picking season, about the first of the year.

We were most grateful to Jesus and Mary for providing this temporary work for our people. The wage paid this year was thirty cents a hundred pounds for picking. In former years as much as $125 a hundred pounds was paid so we can not hope that the relief will be more than temporary. Our non-Catholic brethren have been quick to realize this. Recently a meeting of Baptists was held and it was decided to do "intensive mission and social welfare work among the Mexicans" this winter. There are 1,000 Mexicans in Lubbock and approximately 19,000 non-Catholic Americans. The Methodists are already actively engaged in "missionary" and "relief" work among the Mexicans. Why so much interest in a handful, comparatively speaking, of Mexicans who have been Catholic for generations, while practically nothing is being done for thousands of Americans who profess no faith whatever?
