Miss Hawks, N.C.C.W. President, Licensed Evidence Speaker

Washington. — Miss Mary G. Hawks, president of the National Council of Catholic Women, is one of the four members of the Catholic Evidence Guild of Washington to be licensed as speakers this week. Five licenses received additional hopes from the Board of Examiners, appointed by the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore.

Advantages Increase Funeral Home Use

Where courtesy and service are paramount and arrangements are modern in every particular, few funeral directing establishments can compare with that owned by Henry D. Halloran & Sons, 135 Plymouth Avenue South, which has earned a deserved reputation in the community.

From the first client they served several years ago up to the latest, Henry D. Halloran & Sons have rendered a service unselfish, sympathetic, appropriate and dignified. They have kept pace with the march of progress.

They have noted particularly how the apartment mode of living has weakened the vogue of private homes and tended to displace gradually the home funeral for the substantial advantages offered by their own. It offers the "improvement" in comfort and appointments that permit conducting the funeral services in the same building as the receiving rooms.

The cost of service is flexible, resting entirely upon the requirements of the family and the selection they make. This may be severely simple or more elaborate. Whatever the preference and decision, satisfaction is felt in the question of cost has nothing whatever to do with the standard of spirit of the service. Henry D. Halloran & Sons render the bereaved public.

Three funerals can be conducted at one time at the Halloran Funeral Home, with no confusion or delay, because of the convenient facilities which are enjoyed. There is no atmosphere of commercialism, and the use of the funeral home is available at no extra cost.

Henry D. Halloran & Sons have catered conscientiously to the requirements of the community which has found the charge moderate, and the calibre of service distinctly satisfactory in every respect.

DEEDS OF "FIGHTING IRISH" RECALLED

St. Patrick's Day this year serves to recall the exploits of the famous Irish Brigade, the 70th anniversary of whose heroism at the Battle of Gettysburg occurs this year. Reproduced above is Paul Wood's celebrated painting at Notre Dame University, entitled "Absolution Under Fire". It shows Chaplain William Corby, C. S. C., later president of the University, giving general absolution to members of the brigade July 2, 1863, the second day of the famous battle. Inset (above): Saint Patrick—reproduced from a portrait which is said to depict the best likeness of the great Apostle of Ireland. Inset (below): a detail of the flag of the Irish Brigade.

Irish Deeds In America Cited By E. J. Dwyer

Irish patriotic, cultural and civic contributions to America were recounted in an address delivered by Eugene J. Dwyer, K.S.G., prominent attorney, before the Lions Club at the Sagamore Hotel on Tuesday. Mr. Dwyer gave a comprehensive account of the deeds of the Irish in America from early Colonial days, down through the periods of the Revolution and Civil Wars, to the present time.

Always Ready to Serve
Mr. Dwyer declared that Irishmen have proved in every crisis of American history that they know how to die nobly for their country.

Washington. — One of the most striking incidents connected with the state funeral accorded Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, Attorney General-Designate, Monday of last week, came at the very end when, concluding his eulogy of the late statesman, Archbishop Michael J. Curley of Baltimore gave his blessing to all those present. As His Excellency pronounced the blessing and made the Sign of the Cross over the assemblage—in the Cabinet, in the benches of Justices of the Supreme Court, in the Diplomatic Corps with its many Catholics among the Senators and members of the House of Representatives, hands reverently went to forehead, breast and shoulders in the symbol in every part of the galleries scores devoutly made the Sign.

Washington Tolerant
Prior to the Revolution, he said, religious intolerance toward Irish Catholics was rampant. The principle of religious tolerance reflected in the Constitution was strongly emphasized by George Washington and the Irish were permitted to give to their adopted country the full measure of their services.

Citing the Irish names on the muster rolls of the nation's forces in the various wars, Mr. Dwyer mentioned the Kellys, Murphys, McCarthys and other Irishmen in the Revolutionary war; in the Civil War records he noted the many Irish regiments, and among others the name of young Colonel Patrick O'Rourke of Rochester, killed at Little Round Top. He recalled the scene of the entire Irish Brigade at Gettysburg receiving absolution from its chaplain, Father William Corby. He mentioned the Irish hero of the Spanish-American war, Captain John Drum and noted the many Irish names on the memorial roll of the world war.

Among the distinguished Irishmen who served with General Pershing, he pointed out, "were Major General O'Ryan, Brigadier-General Nolan and Dr. Major General McMahon, Brigadier General Nicholson, Captain and McCluskey, Major General Barry, Captain James Ryan, Captain Donnelly and Malone."

In Every Pursuit
"Not less worthy than these heroes," concluded Mr. Dwyer, "are the Irish contributors to America among our citizens in peaceful pursuits. The Irish shed lustre, upon the Bench and Bar. They have given us leaders in labor, industry, finance, they have taken prominent places in the fields of engineering and aeronautics, they have forged to the front in the realm of science and education. Irishmen reflect with pride on the golden oratory of Daniel Dougherty and Bourke Cochrane. Every American loves to think of the moral and spiritual influence of Archbishop Hughes, Cardinal Gibbons and Cardinal Hayes upon our American life, and in recent years we have witnessed the shining example of the clean, wholesome and energetic careers of such Americans as Al. Smith, and Senator Tom Walsh. To such Irishmen and sons of Irishmen we pay tribute, regardless of our political beliefs.

Resolutions Adopted at First Convention of Holy Name Union

The following resolutions were adopted at the first convention of the Diocesan Holy Name Union, Sunday in Columbus Civic Center.

Resolved, that we express our confidence in and pledge our support to the President in his efforts and to the members of the Holy Name Union, those of the Congress in discharging their present national economic duties.

Resolved, that the Holy Name Union is deeply indebted to the Columbus Civic Center for the use of Parlor A of the Center as a meeting room during the past year and for the uniform courtesies shown by the administrative heads and employees of the Center to its officers and members of the Union. Resolved, that the Union voice its appreciation and thanks to the Center for the use of this room and to the employees of the Center for the many services rendered in connection with our meetings, and

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the directors of the Columbus Civic Center.

Inasmuch as a primary purpose of the Holy Name Society is the dissemination of information respecting our Holy Faith and inasmuch as our Holy Father has summoned our laity to Catholic Action, The executive committee of the Union recommends to each Holy Name society affiliated with the Union that Catholics are far in the lead as to numbers. The Catholic population is set at 727,932, a margin of 634,122 over the next numerous denomination, the Church of England.

Paris. — An international congress of Catholic physicians is planned for next year at Paris. The program for this assembly includes, besides the sessions of study devoted to problems of a medical and religious nature, a solemn ceremony at Notre Dame de Paris, receptions by the city officials of Paris and a motor tour to the cathedral at Le Mans and the famous Benedictine Abbey at Solesmes.

London. — A Requiem Mass has been offered at St. Paul's Cathedral for the late fourteen years who died at his residence there of pneumonia following influenza. The body was sent to Syracuse, N. Y., for burial. Mr. Grace held an LL.B. degree from the Catholic University of America, after studying at Manhattan College.

Los Angeles, Calif. — A new chapel was dedicated here at the Maryknoll Japanese Mission, by the Most Rev. John J. Cantwell, Bishop of Los Angeles and San Diego on the feast of the Japanese Martyrs.

Brussels. — Some 700 Catholic employees of this city have just investigated the prevalence of married women in industry in an effort to arrive at some solution of the problem. The probe, which covered 80 industrial districts, disclosed that in areas investigated, about 50 percent of the women employed in spinning factories are married, 56 per cent in the mines and 60 per cent in the paper mills.

YOUTH RESPONDS

What has beyond all else convinced me of the tremendous worthwholeness of modern youth is the response he makes to religious ideals. It has been my blessed privilege to work with him in his religious organizations, organizations that asked high-type sacrifice and idealism from him, organizations that set high standards and make exacting requirements, and this has shown me modern youth at its best.

daughter, and the latter's baby — strapped to her back — were making the Stations of the Cross together. The grandmother led the prayers, the mother made the responses, and the third generation stared solemnly at the representations of Our Lord on His Via Dolorosa.

A SAMPLE LETTER

Just by way of reminding those interested in the missions that the depression has increased manifold the task of the average missionary bishop, normally a "Beggars for Christ" we are quoting the following letter from the Most Rev. George Weig, S.V.D., Vicar Apostolic of Tsingtao, Shantung, China. "Would it be possible to assist me in the erection of some chapels in the country districts? One of these chapels will cost $200 and at least twenty of this kind are badly needed throughout our Vicariate. Further, the support of our catechists is also a great problem. The maintenance and further expansion of our seminary is another purpose for which donations would be greatly appreciated. It became necessary to buy an adjacent piece of land and the cost was $1,900, for which I had to make a loan. Could not some good souls help me to pay this debt? I shall now cease weighing down your hearts with the description of my needs. May I please God soon to send us better times that we may be able to reap the rich harvest which is ripe for God's Kingdom."

— Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S.J.

ADOPT CATECHIST

This suggestion or appeal comes to us from Fr. Henry Maas, S.V.D., Catholic Mission, Iho, Shantung, China.

"What this parish needs most is well-trained catechists, zealous precursors of the missionary. As it takes comparatively little to support a catechist for a year, wouldn't it be possible for you to make such a catechist a member of your family? By so doing, you take Our Lord Himself into your home, for He said: 'He that receiveth you, receiveth Me and he that receiveth Me, receiveth Him that sent Me.' (Matt. X, 40) If you have to take care of four dear ones, imagine that your household numbers five persons, when you are going to prepare three presents, deal as if there were four dear ones that you wish to make happy. With this one share, which you set apart for the Lord, help the missionary to appoint one or more catechists, who will do the work of the Lord among his countrymen.

PLEASE

Send all gifts to the missions through our office. This is the Pope's order. The Bishops, too, and is the reason our office exists, namely to guard you from frauds and to stimulate a love for the missions.

NOTICE

Did you receive your "Mite Box"? If not, notify us at once and we will see that one is mailed to you immediately.

LENTEN PRACTICES

We mention the following for the observance of the holy season of Lent:

- 1. Attend Mass daily if possible.
- 2. Receive Holy Communion frequently.
- 3. Say the "Our Father," the "Hail Mary," the "Gloria Be to the Father," and the invocation to St. Francis Xavier daily for the missions.
- 4. Practice at least one act of self-denial each day.

These suggestions will mean a holy season and a happy Easter.

WITH DIFFICULTIES

A Maryknoll missionary in Korea, while making his thanksgiving after Mass, noted a spectacle not so unusual in Korea, but doubtless uncommon elsewhere. The lady catechist, her married

Men's Federation To Meet Sunday

Members of the Catholic Men's Federation will hold their regular monthly meeting, Sunday afternoon, March 19, in St. Joseph's basement hall beginning at 3 o'clock.

President Joseph T. Otto will preside. Proposed legislation will be discussed and a report given of the lecture course being continued in St. Joseph's Hall under the auspices of the Federation.

Following the meeting, the officers and members will go to the Columbus Civic Center for the Solemn Pontifical Benediction in honor of Bishop O'Hern.

To encourage others to endure patiently the labors and afflictions of this life, it is well to reflect that they are much less different.

Did You Remember YOURSELF In Your Will?

By remembering God's missionaries you make yourself the greatest beneficiary. Benefactors of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, the Holy Father's own agency for the support of ALL missions, share in the labors and merits of 165,000 workers in the missions, during life and after death.
