In Greatest Educational Declares Religion of Actual Aid To National Revival

Peking, -(N. C. W. G.Fides)-Dublin. What has been described. The Ministry of Education at Nan as "the greatest educational hosting king, in an important statement, declares that instead of barring reli gion from Chinese schools, it must be given place in order that it may be of "actual assistance" to the national revival. A "radically different policy toward religion" is necessary, says the document.

The statement ends with the inlowing significant passage:

not religion deserves to be fostered is a question apart; however, since religion actually exists in society and wields an influence both uni versal and profound, it becomes a question most intimately connected with that of education.

"It is evidently impossible, there fore, so far as education is concerned, not to have a definite policy of one kind or another as regards this question. A destructive policy of intervention, such as was former ly adopted, is clearly not a proper way of dealing with the matter. The present laissez-faire policy is not good either, for, while it recognize sions of these subjects will be fol- the religious liberty of the individual, it simply ignores the influence of re ligion upon education.

"For this reason, it is necessary that we adopt in accordance with the ends and aims of education a radically different attitude towards religion so that religion may not only not obstruct the national revival but may be of actual assistance to it. This Department, there fore, after having reviewed in detail its aims and methods in the readjustment of national education, desires in passing to clarify this point regarding the administration of education and the question of religion Interesting in connection with this statement is a proclamation issueds recently by the Supprefect of Funing, Klangsu Province. "It is forbidden to carry on any anti-foreign or any anti-religious action," notice reads, "or to violate the free-dom of belief of Chinese or foreigners. At present, in a town to the east of our subprefectural city, a French missionary has leased land to build a church; he has the right of legal protection. If anyone shall be guilty of agitating against this church, as soon as we learn of it or have been informed of it; the offend er shall be arrested immediately brought to court and punished se verely and without pity-"
