Correspondence

To the Editor:
 Cannot help but wonder if C. W. D. is basing his opinion—his right to which we concede—on facts as he wished them to exist as they actually do.

The fact of the war debt situation is that the debts cannot be paid. We accept his contention that discipline is a stern teacher for nations, but C. W. D. expects to apply this discipline in forcing a nation to pay something that it cannot pay—its war debts and comprehension. It smacks of Father Coughlin's cry war debts must be paid—they are honest debts; but, how they are to be paid, both C. W. D. and Father Coughlin have not rendered a solution. No one can get blood from a stone. Nor can the United States get gold from bankrupt European treasuries.

The United States would show more self-respect if she viewed the situation as it exists and cancel what were once honest debts but which now are not, because Europe cannot physically nor morally pay them, than by standing on technicality, playing the heartless international banker.

The Catholic World Over

 may at Port Sheridan disclosed that, to date, eight acres of rosaries have been distributed among the boys who are preparing themselves for the reforestation work.

Freiburg, Germany—(NCWC)—Supported by the Most Rev. Conrad Groeber, Archbishop of Freiburg, the German Caritasverband, or German Association of Catholic Charities has addressed a petition to the Holy Father, to proclaim a world-wide relief campaign for children and youth in distress. It is suggested in the petition that the proclamation be issued on a plan similar to the World Child Relief Day arranged by Pope Benedict XV, in 1912, and that it be arranged for sometime this winter, possibly on Christmas.

London—(NCWC)—It is learned on good authority that one of the members of an Anglican sisterhood which conducts a leper colony in Essex, not far from London, has become a Catholic. The colony, which is not a large one, is the only one of its kind in England. There are a few Catholics in the colony.

Dublin—(NCWC)—The St. Patrick's Anti Communist League in Dublin organized a procession numbering over 2,000 headed by the St. Mary's Pipers Band. Speeches were delivered denouncing a Communist poster displayed in Dublin which referred to the opponents of Communism as "gangsters, hoodlums and Hitlerites." They were not hoodlums, said a speaker for the Catholic Young Men's Society but were "simply defending the Catholic Faith against people whose sole aim was to crush it."

Medellin, Colombia—(NCWC)—The new organ for the Cathedral of Medellin has arrived from Germany and is being installed by Oscar Blindes. This is the third great organ in Colombia that was built by a firm at Ludwigsburg, Germany.

Montreal—(NCWC)—The memory of the Irish immigrants who perished in the tragic "Ship Fever" epidemic in 1847 was honored by the St. Patrick's Society, and Ancient Order of Hibernians at services just conducted here at the monument.

Paris—(NCWC)—America and France will join hands to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of the birth of St. Therese, "the Little Flower of Jesus," on American Independence Day, July 4, when the oratorio dedicated to St. Therese, written by Miss Evangeline Lehman, of Detroit, will be presented in the Paris Church of St. Nicholas of the Fields.

Ruanda, Central Africa—(NCWC)—Two thousand converts were received into the Church at the single mission of Kabari during the first three months of 1933. This indicates a very probable advance over the high figure of 1932 during which 5,000 conversions were registered.

A COLLEGE HANDBOOK OF NEWMAN. By Edwin Ryan, Catholic Educational Press, 1932. $1.00.
 For students of Newman and the general reader desiring to acquire a deeper and more practical appreciation of the elegant and forceful style of one of the deepest thinkers, and most lovable characters in English literature, this little volume, though not entirely new, will be of unmeasured benefit. The author is, repeatedly, that his little treatise is intended only as a help in reading Newman, and not as a substitute for the thoughtful reading of his works. His comment and criticism is, therefore, confined to what will prove helpful in the attainment of that end.

After a brief biographical sketch and a few valuable suggestions as to the method of studying Newman, he analyzes his Anglican writing, sermons, lectures, tracts, letters and poems. He comments on the transitional period of his life, and then at greater length studies his writings as a Catholic. The chapter on Newman's concept of an educated man is most helpful little handbook.

Enthusiasm for Newman as a man and as the unexcelled master of English prose is the inevitable result of a careful study of this delightful little book.

REMARKABLE SHOWING MADE

Rome—Despite the crisis, Propagation funds for mission aid promise to be but slightly below last year's figures. Incomplete returns have been announced at the annual assembly of the Superior Council, the sessions of which closed Thursday, April 27, by an audience with the Holy Father. His Holiness expressed his keen pleasure that the aid for the missions could be sustained at almost its present level.

Returns from the United States have fallen off substantially, but increases in several smaller countries almost balance this loss. Of the English language group, England has increased, Ireland decreased, Scotland held its level, Western Canada decreased, Australia and New Zealand increased.

Countries with gains include Spain, which reports 80,000 pesetas advance, and Mexico with a slight increase despite the religious difficulties in both countries.

Other countries reporting increases over last year's figures are France, Italy, Holland, Portugal, Switzerland, Chile, Costa Rica, Panama and Venezuela.

Those maintaining their position of last year are Austria, Germany and Luxembourg.

Reporting decreases are Belgium, Malta, Poland, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Argentina, Canada (Quebec), Colombia, West Indies and Peru.
