

Knights of St. John Invite Public To Field Mass Sunday

Solemn ceremonies will mark the annual commemoration of the dead by members of Rochester Knights of St. John and Ladies Auxiliaries on Sunday, June 25, at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery when the annual Field Mass is offered at 10 o'clock for deceased knights and members of the Ladies Auxiliaries. The Mass to be celebrated in the open air by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John P. Schellhorn, regimental chaplain, assisted by commandery chaplains, will also be a memorial to the late Bishop O'Hern who when living always celebrated the Mass for the Knights of St. John. At the foot of a hill, forming a natural church-like enclosure covered with the branches of large trees, a beautiful white altar will be erected and decorated by the Ladies Auxiliaries. The knights will march in procession from the cemetery gate through the winding cemetery roads and forming company fronts will line up in front of the altar. In the parade this year there will also be the Ladies District Drill Corps in charge of Major Frederick J. Wegman and the St. Boniface Ladies Drill Corps captained by Captain Wendel Maeder. The Knights of St. John band under the direction of William C. Schwab will furnish appropriate music. The public is invited to attend the Field Mass by Colonel Frank H. Biel. A memorial Mass for Bishop O'Hern will be celebrated Saturday at 8 o'clock in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church.

Swimming Program at Columbus Center for Summer Announced

An extensive summer program to be carried out during the months of June, July, August and September in the swimming pool of Columbus Civic Center is being worked out under the direction of Wilbur E. Quinn, Physical Director. Mr. Quinn announces today that the Business Men's Club will meet five times a week for their scheduled hours. During this time, they will receive instruction in swimming and the fundamentals of life-saving. The women and girls' classes will meet every morning and also on Tuesday and Fridays all day. Girls and boys, Mr. Quinn said, will be classified according to their abilities and ages. Saturday mornings will be set aside for recreational swimming, races, games and water polo for the boys. A feature of the Columbus Civic Center summer program will be the marathon swim which will be held throughout the summer. Believing that children should be taught young to handle themselves in the water, Mr. Quinn has arranged to conduct a class twice a week for boys from five to eight years of age. A special arrangement has been made to take care of boys and girls at a rate of $50 a month during the summer. Complete information on the summer program of the Columbus swimming pool may be had by getting in touch with Mr. Quinn at the Center or by calling Stone 1492.

Aquinas Institute Year Book "Arete" Makes Appearance

The Aquinas Institute year book of the 1933 graduating class of Aquinas Institute, has recently made its appearance. The book, a very noteworthy publication, is this year attractively bound in maroon colored leather with the emblem of the school, bearing the Aquinas students' motto, "Crede quod quod dicitur. Fides aliquid Dei Filius dixit." embossed in silver on the cover. Even at a glance, "The Arete" gives the impression of being wholly a "man's" book, from the heavy masculine looking cover to the material found within. The silver note started on the outside cover is carried throughout the book, each page bearing a silver border with a keynote "A". The material in "The Arete" is both varied and entertaining. James Rockwell, apparently, is the poet of the 1933 class. His verses are very interesting and touch upon countless subjects, including a beautiful piece called "Mother's Days—A Novena", comprising the various feasts of Our Lady. Quite original and unique is "A Secret", a silly little ditty which reveals the trials of a lone clam in the Aquinas cafeteria. "Leaves from my 1932-33 Diary" by Edward Guider is written in a cleverly entertaining fashion. "In Heaven" by John Boylan is a beautiful and glowing tribute to the late Bishop O'Hern. Special commendation should be given to John McCann for his fitting and modern illustrations found throughout the book. The various departments and activities of the school are aptly handled. The Arete Board is to be congratulated for its successful work in producing the 1933 edition of "The Arete".

B. & O. Railroad Offers Montreal Bargain Trip

Many persons from Rochester and vicinity who enjoyed a visit to Montreal last September made possible by the low fare offer of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R., will be pleased to learn that another opportunity will be given for visiting the largest and most attractive city in Canada—Montreal, in old Quebec—According to an announcement made by J. P. De Vaughn, General Passenger Agent, Rochester, special boat train will leave the West Main St. station at 6:15 p. m., Friday, July 7, connecting with S. S. Ontario to Cobourg and Canadian National Ry., arriving Montreal 7:00 A. M., Saturday morning. Two days and two nights can be spent in Montreal and daylight ride made returning through the beautiful St. Lawrence valley, with departure from Montreal 9:30 a. m., Monday and arriving Rochester 9:35 p. m. the same evening. A bargain trip also is offered to Toronto via Cobourg on Saturday, July 15, at fare of $2.95, and on July 4, a holiday rate of $1.25 is announced from Rochester to Cobourg and return. Prices for staterooms and meals have been reduced on the S. S. Ontario No. 2 and a dance orchestra furnishes music every trip. The B. & O. R. R. have announced a number of bargain rail trips from Rochester, including a $5.00 excursion to Pittsburgh, Saturday, July 8, as well as a 50 cent fare to Silver Lake every Sunday and 4th of July, making it possible for the whole family to combine a 100-mile rail ride through a beautiful country along with an interesting day's outing. Apparently the B. & O. R. R. advocate passenger fares low enough to give everyone an opportunity for a change of scenery despite the conditions from which we are emerging, and the response given these offers will govern to some extent the future policy. The Baltimore and Ohio R. R. is also offering a special fare to Camp Turner at Allegany State Park.

St. Mary's Asylum Graduate Will Sing First Mass July 6

The Rev. Charles Joseph Young, C.S.C., who will celebrate his first solemn High Mass in the Chapel of St. Mary's Boys' Orphan Asylum of which he is a graduate, on Thursday morning, July 6, at 9 o'clock will leave a few days later for the Bengalese missions in India. He will be ordained Saturday of this week at Sacred Heart Church, Notre Dame, Indiana, headquarters of the Congregation of the Holy Cross of which he is a member. His first solemn High Mass at St. Mary's Boys' Orphan Asylum will be offered for the Sisters of St. Joseph in charge of the Asylum some of whom are his former teachers. He will be assisted by the Rev. Joseph Barry, C.S.C., and the Rev. Regis Reiter, C.S.C., natives of Syracuse; and Mr. Joseph Sullivan and Mr. Patrick Flynn and other students of St. Bernard's Seminary. Born in Auburn, the son of Daniel Young and Mary Jennings Young, the mother of Charles Joseph Young died when he was very small. He was placed in St. Mary's Boys' Orphan Asylum and was graduated from the 8th grade. He attended high school at Most Holy Rosary High School, Syracuse, where his father now resides and later went to Notre Dame University. He received his philosophy and theology at Holy Cross Foreign Mission Seminary, Brookland, D. C. Following the Mass a breakfast will be served for the guests at St. Mary's Boys' Orphan Asylum.

Camp Stella Maris

And then—the Camp fire!—As the sun sinks and the shadows creep, all gather on the shore of the lake. A big fire is started and the trees look as though they are on fire. Some campers are wrapped like Indians in blankets, waiting for some big Pow-Wow. Others are still whispering over the plans for the various entertainments for the evening. Suddenly a whistle shrills; everyone hurries into place in front of the fire and the fun is on! With the counselors leading a few rousing songs are sung. Everybody is tuning up. Automobiles swing into the grove and prepare to listen to the fun. Rowboats come silently creeping up to the shore and eager young faces wonder what is going to happen tonight. Then a boxing match begins.

"Battling Dozo, the King Kong of Lakeville, and Tarzan of the Grapes, the pride of Jewtown! Then they are at it—arms swinging wildly; the sand spurts up; flashlights are turned upon the two combatants; advice is as cheap as snow in winter. The rounds speed by. King Kong falls into the lake; Tarzan sits down upon a clump of thistles; the crowd cheers smudgy. Finally the judges give their decision: "Both have lost; they forgot to report to the referee!" The judges flee to safety.

A few solos on mouth-organ, bugle, and banjo; a song or two, and a counselor announces a story. "Hurrah! Give us blood, thunder, murder, ghosts, sports!" There are so many requests that he hesitates; finally he launches into a tale of a great ball-player who made good in his home town. "Sock City Sledge Gun."

Everything is quiet except the leaves that murmur like children whispering in an exam—(excuse it, please) in a classroom. Visitors multiply until the storyteller has a large audience. Now and then a laugh; or "Wuz you there, Sharlie?" Then the riotous climax. (The sleepers wake-up and ask what was said?)

Another speaker. A pirate story. The pirates seem to gather in the dusk, to hide in the underbrush. They stalk boldly upon the sand, "Treasure Island," John Silver, Hawkins, pieces of eight! All are awake now and are straining every muscle to hear. Visitors creep closer. It is only the magic of a story and the art of a storyteller, brought to life in the glow of a camp-fire, the rustle of the leaves, and the washing of the restless waves! It is the magic of the Camp-fire. Then—the end. Taps ring out into the night. The chaplain says a prayer in honor of the man who made the Camp possible; everyone hurries to his Company where he has his bed. Why hurries? Obedience? No. He hurries? Obedience? Being placed in his bed, or to put something in his neighbor's bed. Such is Camp.

GOOD Paint

goes FURTHER lasts LONGER looks BETTER

GOOD PAINT does a better job all around! It is more durable, more lasting, beautiful, and—gallon for gallon—covers more surface. Better still, it really protects the surface... from wear... from weather... from moisture... from all the destructive elements.

GOOD PAINT is good because it's made from better materials. By volume, 90% of GOOD PAINT is real film-forming solids (the other 10% consisting of volatile solvents). That's why GOOD PAINT saves you money... and why it's an investment that pays back dividends in long-term satisfaction!

LOW GRADE PAINTS

are never worth the "bargain" prices at which they are offered. LOW GRADE means cheap, and any cheap paint will crack, peel, and fade. LOW GRADE PAINTS have been found to contain water to the extent of 50%, in addition to other cheap adulterants. Your property can never be properly painted after LOW GRADE PAINTS have been used unless the unsatisfactory coatings are removed at considerable expense. Figured on any basis, "bargain" paints are COSTLY AT ANY PRICE!

For all the facts exposing the worthlessness of low grade paints, see Bulletin No. 427, Scientific Section, Education Bureau, American Paint and Varnish Manufacturers' Association, Washington, D. C. Ask any of these dealers to show you a copy.

National Council

BY FREDERICK J. MIE
President, Rochester Diocesan Council, N. C. C. M.
Communications received within the past week from Henry L. Caravall, the new Executive Secretary of the N. C. C. M. at Washington; report that eight members of the hierarchy, Bishops Brennan, Richmond, Kuehns of Lincoln, Kelly of Omaha, McFadden of Cleveland, Lillis of Kansas, Gerow of Natchez, Griffin of Springfield, and Rummell of Omaha, have extended invitations to the organizers of the N. C. C. M. for the immediate organization of diocesan councils in their respective dioceses. The inspiration for this work is due in a considerable measure to the report made by the late Bishop O'Hern at the Bishop's meeting at Washington last fall. Bishop O'Hern at that time told about the organization of National Advertiser Societies, the first diocesan convention in this diocese, the organization of the Holy Name Union, and the progress of the diocesan paper, the spiritual and financial success of which depends upon a much enlarged circle of readers.

Men Have Important Part

The Bishops above enumerated have realized what an important part organized laymen can take in the work of the Church. Several of the dioceses above named already have the organization of the National Council of Catholic Men which is functioning successfully wherever it has been organized. No less than 65 dioceses have been organized. In addition to the eight dioceses above mentioned the Assistant Executive Secretaries are at the present time working on the arch-diocese of St. Paul, where 28 diocesan men diocesan meetings with an average of 200 attendees at each meeting. An all-diocese conference was held in St. Paul at the conclusion of the diocesan meetings at which 200 were present. In a few weeks the organization of the St. Paul arch-diocese will be complete. Archbishop Murphy has laid out a program for Catholic Men similar in many respects to that of Rochester Diocese. In the dioceses of Rochester, four meetings were held and despite the sparse Catholic population of that diocese, 100 men were present. They were very enthusiastic. Mr. Brennan reports that they make up in enthusiasm what they lack in numbers. This is the first attempt at organization made in Rochester. Both Archbishop Murphy and Bishop Kelly at Rochester had fully discussed their plan of organization before the work was begun. Both plans were based on the plan of organization recommended by the National Council and upon the plan selected in Rochester. The organization will promote the brotherly affiliation in the N. C. C. M. by about 100 sections.

Many other Bishops, especially in the West where Catholics are few in far between, have expressed a willing-ness to have their laymen organized but feel that they should not attempt the expense of diocesan meetings until their laymen. That Rochester is especially helped by the Catholic Men.
