SINGLE VOTE BEATS STATE SUPPORT FOR CATHOLIC SCHOOLS IN OHIO SENATE

Aid Measure Defeated But Further Action Expected At Special Session

Cleveland — A bill providing for state aid for parochial schools from an emergency fund for public schools in Ohio was defeated by a single vote in the upper house of the legislature at Columbus.

The senate appropriations committee was divided equally on the proposed amendment to the General Appropriations bill. However, Senator Joseph Ackerman brought the amendment directly to the senate. After a sharp debate the measure was defeated.

Question Still Alive

Many senators, while recognizing the justice and the need of this measure, abstained from voting adversely in order that they might have more leisure to consider the matter fully; for it was recognized generally that the state must make some appropriations to provide for the pupils now in the Catholic schools, and that such appropriations must be brought up in the special session of the legislature in September.

Two Courses Open

Two courses are open: either to give additional financial aid to the public school districts which will have to take over the children of Catholic schools, which will be closed owing to lack of funds, or to give financial aid directly to the Catholic schools.

WELFARE MEET IS PLANNED BY CARDINAL

(N. C. W. C. News Service)

New York. — Declaring that never before has the Catholic Church had "a more imperative call to service" in ministering to the woes of humanity, His Eminence Patrick Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop of New York, has predicted that the nineteenth National Conference of Catholic Charities, which meets here October 1 on the Cardinal's invitation, would "point the way to an era of social reconstruction in which the lessons drawn from the trials of the past may be deemed to build a firm defense against their recurrence."

It will be the scene of the first official appearance in this archdiocese of the new Apostolic Delegate, His Excellency the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, who will address the conference. Approximately 100 bishops have received personal invitations from Cardinal Hayes to attend.

Expect 5,000 Delegates

The conference will convene on Sunday and continue through Wednesday, October 4, with headquarters at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. Approximately 5,000 delegates and visitors from the United States, Canada and the West Indies will attend. The conference will meet under the presidency of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Robert F. Keegan of New York, Cardinal Hayes' Secretary for Charities.

"Because of the vital relationship of Catholic Charities to the work of social reconstruction in the nation and throughout the world, and because of the beneficent and guiding influence which the Society of St. Vincent de Paul has had upon the development of social service in the United States, I am indeed grateful that the opportunity is offered to me to welcome the conference this year," Cardinal Hayes said.

ENVOY TO MEXICO ASKS FREEDOM FOR RELIGIOUS

(N. C. W. C. News Service)

Mexico City. — Freedom of worship is included in "five salient points" which must constitute the backbone of the new Declaration of Independence. Josephus Daniels, United States Ambassador to Mexico, declared in an address delivered here. Speaking at an American Independence celebration, Ambassador Daniels suggested writing a new Declaration of Independence "phrased to suit the modern era." One of the truths held to be "self evident" by the 1787 Declaration would, he said, be:

"That the possession of liberty must include the unrestricted right of freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of worship."

The other four salient points of the 1933 Declaration as set forth by the Ambassador were that the national resources of the country "are of right and are the property of all the people"; that it is the duty of government to exercise "the necessary wise statesmanship" to insure every willing worker the "inalienable right to a job"; that in this period of distress the control of agencies of industry, commerce and agriculture shall be guided by the government when such direction is necessary to insure the welfare of the people or to prevent monopoly, and that life and property cannot be protected "unless wars can be effectively outlawed by the substitution of arbitration in the high court of reason rather than by recourse to arms."

To maintain economy stick to our advertisers who give you the most for your money.

The Governor General ended his address saying: "With complete hope and faith in the great Providence Who ensures our destiny, I humbly beseech His guidance and inspiration in the task before us."

The arrival of the Governor General in the Philippines was marked by scenes of the most unusual enthusiasm. Among the notables who greeted him as the liner "President" Conde" reached the pier were numerous civic officials and the following members of the hierarchy: The Most Rev. Michael J. O'Doherty, Archbishop of Manila; the Most Rev. Solonilo Habang, Bishop of Cebu; the Most Rev. James P. McCloskey, Bishop of Jaro, and the Most Rev. William T. Finnemann, Auxiliary Bishop of Manila.

On the Sunday following his inauguration, the Governor General attended solemn high Mass celebrated in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Archbishop O'Doherty preached the sermon and, quoting from the Governor General's inaugural address, told his hearers of Mr. Murphy's declaration that the needy should be taken care of not only as an act of charity but also because it was the duty of the government.

An additional public function following immediately upon his inauguration and participated in by Governor General Murphy was the inauguration of the telephonic communication between Manila and Rome. Also participating in these ceremonies were His Excellency the Most Rev. Guglielmo Plani, Apostolic Delegate to the Philippines, Archbishop O'Doherty, Senate President Quezon and other State officials.

President of Brown University Lauds Late Bishop O'Hern

In the opinion of the Rev. Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of Brown University and former head of the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, the late Bishop John Francis O'Hern, "was a man whose sympathy and practical cooperation went far beyond the bounds of his Communion."

Speaking as guest preacher at the Central Presbyterian Church Sunday, the former pastor of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church paid a glowing tribute to our departed bishop. He said:

"I want to say to my Roman Catholic friends who are listening that I have sympathized with them in the loss of their great bishop. He was a man whose sympathy and practical co-operation went far beyond the bounds of his communion. It was a great loss not to Rochester only, but to every community when that sweet and gracious spirit was called from us."

Warns That Labor Will Block All Moves To Recognize Soviet

Geneva. — Speaking before the midsummer conference of the Rochester Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., Ph. D., vice-president of Georgetown University, called for denunciation of the Third International as the only solution to the Russian question by the United States.

Dr. Walsh declared that the Washington administration should not recognize the Soviet as long as Russia continues to recognize Third International.

Disavowal of the Third International would save the world from "any other method of recognition" which would amount to "recognition" in the opinion of Dr. Walsh.

Nearly 200 members of the council heard the Georgetown vice-president's address Wednesday afternoon.

The international policy of the Soviet government, says Walsh, is the right of the government to govern its own affairs as it sees fit, and to challenge the authority to govern the lives of other nations.

For that reason he called for the denunciation of the Third International before this country places the nation on a par with the Soviet.

SET CATHOLIC ACTION COURSE FOR SUMMER

St. Louis. — The second of the three regional Summer Schools of Catholic Action sponsored by the Sodality of Our Lady this year will be held in Milwaukee, August 21-26 under the general direction of His Excellency, Archbishop Strick.

The Archbishop attended the 1932 Summer School in Saint Louis and was so impressed by it that he offered to sponsor one of this year's schools. The first of the schools was held at Loyola University in New Orleans, June 8-10 and the final school will be held at Fordham University, New York City, August 28-September 1.

The school will be held in the spacious wooded grounds of Saint Francis Seminary and Saint Mary's Academy on the shores of Lake Michigan.

For the first time in the Catholic Action School movement, three regional schools instead of one national school are being held. In view of economic conditions the officials of the Sodality have introduced night sessions for people who cannot attend during the day, and instead of the two-week course which heretofore

Ex-Actress, Now Nun, Devotes Her Life To Care of Lepers

Paris. — (N.C.W.C.) — A former actress, Mile. Simone Suprin, who entered the religious life, has consecrated herself to the service of lepers.

It is four years since Mile. Suprin took the veil among the Dominicans of Chateaux, near Paris, and affirmed her intention to pray especially for the silence of the convent, for her comrades of the Catholic Union of Artists and for all the artists of the theatre.

She then wrote as follows to the Rev. Father Gillet, O.P., Master General of the Dominicans and chaplain of the Catholic Union of the Theatre: "I would pass my life in the most humble occupations: sweep the convent, if you would do me the honor of admitting me for the salvation of artists."

She did still more. She solicited from Father Gillet an authorization to leave Chateaux to prepare herself for a more difficult task. In another Congregation she took a new habit in a moving ceremony at which a number of her companions of the Comedie Francaise were present. Soon, under the name of Sister Elizabeth of the Holy Spirit, she left for the island of Trinidad to devote herself to the nursing of lepers.
