Activities in Auburn

By PAUL W. PINCKNEY

Funeral services for Frederick T. O'Brien, 22, of No. 355 State Street, a graduate of St. Mary's Parochial School, class of '26, who died Friday night at Mercy Hospital from injuries suffered Thursday evening while playing in a softball contest, were held Monday morning.

O'Brien was the regular pitcher for the Robinson-Bynon team in the Class A City Softball League, but was playing in the outfield when he and another fielder collided while chasing a fly ball. First reports indicated that he would recover. Injuries to the spleen, however, resulted fatally.

It was the first death in Auburn in many years from an injury in an athletic contest. The funeral, held at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning from the home of his sister, Mrs. Tabaczyk of 11 Cross Street, and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Church, was attended by many of the league players. Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Since it was reported that the young man left no estate or insurance, several prominent Auburnians, headed by Rev. Frederick G. Straub, pastor of St. Alphonse Church, Jim Duffy, William S. Stubbs and Bobby Davis, have planned a series of benefit games to defray hospital and funeral expenses of the departed athlete.

A gigantic bazaar for the benefit of Mercy Hospital was formally opened at 8 o'clock Monday night by Rt. Rev. Monsignor William M. Hart, vicar capitular of the Rochester Diocese, and Mayor Kirk Bowen on the parish grounds of the Knights of Columbus in Genesee Street.

The many committees, headed by Mrs. Leroy Johnston, general chairman assisted by Miss Isabel T. Goss, secretary; and Charles M. Geherin, chairman of the men's division, are very enthusiastic about the large scale benefit affair. The bazaar will be continued throughout the week coming to a gala finish on Saturday evening.

A dancing and card party for the benefit of Mercy Hospital was held Friday evening in the Lyceum Hall of St. Mary's Church. Music for dancing was furnished by the Ever Ready Orchestra of that parish. A goodly sum was realized.

A number of Auburnians who have become interested in the attractions of the Little Chapel on the Mount, a shrine on Bluff Point, Lake Keuka, visited the picturesque memorial Thursday, taking lunch with the Finger Lakes Association at the Benham Hotel, Penn Yan.

Through the courtesy of several business men of St. Mary's Church, a number of Boy Scouts from Troop 2 of that parish, spent the week at Camp Rotary, west side of Owasco Lake.

Dr. Ryan Praises Social Justice of Recovery Program

(N. C. W. C. News Service)

Dublin.—Declaring that President Roosevelt is "making a gallant effort" and that "his guiding motive is social justice," the Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan of the Catholic University of America, writing in the current issue of Studies, an Irish quarterly review, asserts that "if the capitalist system can be saved in the United States, it will be saved through the policies of President Roosevelt."

Writing on "President Roosevelt's Economic Program," Dr. Ryan asserts that the present Chief Executive "accepts the opposite theory and philosophy" from that which "believed in handing down economic salvation from above, through provisions of credit to the masters of industry." President Roosevelt, the author says, "believes that the depression can be ended only through an expansion of purchasing power where it would be used."

"Possibly it is too late now for even this method, Dr. Ryan continues. "Possibly the Government of the United States will have to take over and operate the essential industries. We hope, however, that the President will succeed. . . . For the first time in three years, the people entertain some definite hope. They realize that their President thinks of public welfare in terms of human beings, in terms of the ordinary man—'the forgotten man' he himself phrased it—instead of in terms of production and mechanical progress. In form, in subject matter, in tone and in appeal," Dr. Ryan says, "President Roosevelt's is one of the two or three great Inaugural Addresses that have been delivered in the one hundred and forty-five years of our national life."

Dr. Ryan declares that the measures sent by President Roosevelt to Congress and enacted by that body, taken together, "constitute a more comprehensive and fundamental program of legislation than all the enactments of Congress during the preceding ten years."

While asserting that no one can answer "with the assurance of certainty" the question, "Will the measures recommended by the President provide the beginning of a movement out of the depression?" Dr. Ryan says "there is a strong probability that the proper answer is in the affirmative."

Single Vote Beats State Support for Catholic Schools

themselves. The latter course will involve considerablyy less expenditure on the part of the state and will obviate a number of difficult situations. In any case, the legislature must appropriate more money at the beginning of the school year, or education in Ohio will be thrown into greater discord than it was last spring.

Before adjourning the senate appointed a committee to study the parochial school situation and report back to the legislature at its next session.

Grounds For Hope

Disappointment over the rejection of the bill, says The Universe-Bulletin, official organ of the Cleveland diocese, in an editorial, is "considerably tempered by the extremely narrow margin of its defeat. The measure failed of passage by one vote, a circumstance which not only speaks well for its admitted soundness, but also gives rise to justified hope that the day is not far distant when the parochial schools of the state will receive the help which will enable them to continue in unharrassed and efficient operation.

"This hope is further strengthened by the fact that the defeat of the amendment has unquestionably precipitated a situation which when its full effects are realized will call for speedy solution."

prevailed, the studies have been condensed into a one week session.

The proximity of the Milwaukee Summer School to the Century of Progress, a two hour ride, and the opportunity of taking in the Fair before and after the Summer School is apparently inducing a number to include both the School and the Fair in their summer vacation plans.

The Day Course calls for five classes a day for six days, while the Evening Course will condense the more important elements of the Day course into a two hour period each evening.

Camp Stella Maris

Our first encampment—eighty-five boys! This is the largest registration that we have had in the history of the camp. This is a wonderful tribute to the parents and relatives of the boys. Only those who are maintaining a home and a family these days know what sacrifices this entails.

And we never leave a group of boys go home without reminding them of the sacrifices made by their parents to allow them to enjoy such a vacation.

We now have a small goat which takes his nourishment solemnly from a bottle, a lamb, Peanuts, a couple of guinea pigs, a collection of snakes, and several other "wild" animals, complete the congregation. We wish to thank kind friends for these donations.

Youthful fishermen are filling the pool with all varieties of small fish, snails, crabs, and anything that can live in water. Great pride is exhibited by those who have made contributions.

Monday morning opened at six-thirty with a treasure hunt for a watermelon. After a feverish search, Company 'D' found the juicy fruit. What a feast!

Thursday afternoon there will be a ball game with the 'J.Y.' boys from across the lake. We are on very friendly terms with the 'J.Y.' meeting them in all sorts of contests every year. We have the edge in baseball, but in basketball we are obliged to bow to them. They come over in war canoes and in their big black pirate boat, the 'Sea Ghost'.

The Craft Ledge under Mr. Meng is proving very popular. Work in leather and wood seems to please the most. Every camper likes to take something home to show the folks.

The camp chaplain extended a hearty welcome to all the Campers on Sunday night, especially the O. L. P. H. boys. There were many new faces among the crowd but all responded to the songs and cheers with full lung power.

On Tuesday night the counsellors presented a skit entitled, "Don't Have a Grouch!" This lesson was presented in the form of an Indian drama, each chief addressing the boys, urging them to cultivate cheerfulness and the spirit of fun. The Peace Pipe was passed about, causing some to choke and gasp much to the amusement of the boys who called, "Sissies! Can't take it!", etc. All ended with a blanket parade about the Camp fire.

Many friends are enjoying our informal card parties on the shore. Why not watch the newspapers and make the next party?

As many boys were unable to enter the first encampment because they registered too late, we urge them all to register now for the second or third encampment. Register early and avoid regrets.

Father Dolan Named New President At Holy Cross

Worcester, Mass.—Appointment of the Rev. Francis J. Dolan, S.J., as president of Holy Cross College here has been announced. Father Dolan will succeed the Rev. John M. Fox, S.J., who has been named instructor of Tertians of the New England Province of the Society of Jesus.

Father Dolan, who has been Dean of Studies at Holy Cross College for the last three years, was born at Jamaica Plains, Mass., July 14, 1893. He attended Boston College High School and Boston College before entering the Society of Jesus. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1926. Father Dolan became Dean of Freshmen at Boston College in 1927, and, in 1929, relinquished this post, to pursue special studies in England. Upon his return to the United States, Father Dolan joined the faculty of Holy Cross. Earlier this year, Father Dolan was elected vice-president of the Classical Association of New England.

The greater our cross, the greater is our gain; the more deprived suffering is of consolation, the purer it is; the more closely are we united to God.

Religious Art Treasures To Be Shown At Catholic Congress In Vienna

Vienna—(N.C.W.C.)—When, in September next, on the occasion of the great Catholic Congress of Vienna, the Austrian capital will receive as its guests Catholics from all parts of the world, a number of exhibitions will be arranged to show the part religion has played in industrial art, architecture and painting at the present time and at former moments.

From the early middle ages there was the center of an extraordinary development of artistic talents in religious art. The former Catholic nobility, the aristocracy, the clergy and convents vied with each other in those days, by endeavoring to make their serve divine service, as well as palaces and profane structures. In spite of its poverty, present day Austria has a striking living store of these precious treasures contained in its immensely rich collections belonging to the State and the Church, and in reaching towards a modern representation of religious art.

Not many cities in the world are in a position to present an exhibition of religious art such as Vienna will show. The "Albertina," that world famous collection of engravings, possesses a special chamber of pictures of the Holy Virgin, having values which will be the most famous drawings by Raphael and Durer.

The Rector of the Vienna Academy of Fine Arts, Dr. Bobenhausl, has arranged an exhibition of modern church art in architecture, sculpture and painting. The Austrian Museum for Art and Industry will have on view ancient old chasubles, that is the famous ecclesiastic vestments, brought from the tenth century to the present time from France and Belgium, altar pyxides, antique monstrances and precious chalices.

Key-note speakers representing the foreign and home fields, respectively, will include the Most Rev. James A. Walsh, Superior-General of Maryknoll and newly consecrated Titular Bishop, and the Most Rev. Emmet M. Walsh, Bishop of Charleston. The address at the opening meeting, Tuesday night, will be delivered by the Most Rev. Joseph Schrembs, Bishop of Cleveland, and the Most Rev. Joseph H. Albers, Auxiliary Bishop of Cincinnati.

Other prelates who will occupy important positions during the convention are the Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, O.P., Archbishop of Cincinnati, who, as National President of the Crusade, will be the honorary presiding officer, and the Most Rev. Francis J. Beckman, Archbishop of Dubuque and Chairman of the Crusade National Executive Board, who will be celebrant of the Pontifical Mass on Wednesday at St. Peter Cathedral.

The major mission-aid organizations will be represented by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William Quinn of New York, National Director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Eugene J. McGuinness of Chicago, Vice-President and General Secretary of the Catholic Church Extension Society; the Rev. Dr. James B. O'Reilly of New York, National Director of the Catholic Near East Welfare Association, and the Rev. Joseph A. Rossenbach, C.SS.R., of Pittsburgh, National Director of the Holy Childhood Association.

Archbishop Hanna and Herbert Hoover At San Francisco Bridge Ceremonies

(N. C. W. C. NEWS SERVICE)

San Francisco.—The invocation delivered by the Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, Archbishop of San Francisco, at the ground-breaking ceremonies for the new huge San Francisco-Oakland Bridge was as follows:

"O Almighty and Everlasting God, look down with loving kindness upon Thy children gathered here in Thy name. From East and West have we come to dedicate a mighty work, a work which tells of the genius of man—a work which will unite in closer bonds Thy children who dwell around our great inland sea.

"Oh, in the fullness of Thy gracious bounty give new light and new strength to those who here build a monument to the glory of that genius which is but a reflection of Thy power.

"Bless those whom Thou dost unite that they may labor with greater harmony for the welfare of our commonwealth, and for those mighty ideals of justice and of mercy which have ever been the goal of our Fathers, to the end that honor and glory may be unto Thee, Who liveth and reigneth forever—aye and forever."

Archbishop Hanna arrived at the island in company with former President Herbert Hoover, Governors Rolph, of San Francisco and Balzar, of Nevada, and a host of other celebrities. They were escorted from their launch to the residence of Admiral Laws as a Navy band broke into a stirring march.
