

Rochester Diocesan Council National Council of Catholic Men DEAN CITIES Rochester Geneva Corning Auburn Elmira

By FREDERICK J. MIX President, Rochester Diocesan Council, N. C. C. W. CHAPLAINS NEEDED "The New Deal" has brought new problems to the National Council of Catholic Men and the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

While the bishop of each diocese, of course, is responsible for the souls in his diocese, the problem is a national one, rather than a local one. The fact that a camp may be located in a diocese without warning and in one where the matter of the expense of providing chaplains is one of grave import.

Camp Stella Maris

One Father Brown and Flambeau, a reformed detective, are the two leading characters around camp. If the goat gets loose, or if one of the rabbits gets out, the cry is always, "Get Flambeau! Call Father Brown!"

Sunday afternoon the boys had some swimming races for the benefit of their parents watching upon the shore. Two counselors put on the Chinese Life Guard, a water skit involving the saving of a Chinese butlerly-catcher from a watery grave.

Mr. and Mrs. Guinea Pig of the Zoo announce the arrival of two babies, Jack and Jill. One is brown and the other is scrambled rainbow.

The over-night hike this week will be on the shores of Lake Hemlock on the old Bishop's farm. The wilderness of the country about and the abundance of snakes make that lake very popular.

The number of boys this summer who have come to camp from the smaller cities and towns of the diocese is remarkable. A close survey shows that it is about one-third of our total number.

There is only one more week of Camp. We will take Scouts or non-Scouts in this encampment. As there are only six days to this week, (from Sunday afternoon to Saturday afternoon) the price is six dollars.

Our Social will be held on the 30th of August at the Camp. Those who were here last year can vouch for a good time and a very good supper.

Newcomers this week include the following: Jack and Kenneth Carroll, the three Fox brothers, Jack Dean, William Burns, Robert Brennan, Leo Coveny, Sante Costello, James and Francis Curtin, Douglas Deason, John Donavan, James Fahy, Melford Gessner, Jean Hoffman, Robert Kehoe, Edward McMahon, Fred McCarthy, William McCarthy, John Mattie, James Nolan of Elmira, Paul Neff, Richard Orlando, John Shults of Buffalo, Fred Springer, Raymond Tierney.

The dramatic story of petroleum began with the drilling of Drake's well in Pennsylvania in 1859. In that year "Colonel" Drake went to Western Pennsylvania to drill for oil as if for water.

When the first oil well was "brought in," the Rochester Savings Bank was twenty-eight years old. The "Old Bank" was at that time serving nearly 5,000 depositors with deposits of $2,000,000.00.

ICE FOR COOL SUMMER DRINKS NO WAITING for the cubes to harden with real ice! Lemonade or stronger, it's all better with ice! Rochester 139 2700

Your DIOCESAN NEWSPAPER FOR 18 MONTHS THE CATHOLIC COURIER has been in the throes of reorganization, carrying toward realization the plan of the late Bishop O'Hern that this newspaper should be . . . and must be . . . worthy of its designation as the official diocesan newspaper, and worthy of the attention and support of the Catholic public throughout the Rochester Diocese. REORGANIZATION has meant complete revision of every phase of newspaper production . . . new policies, new principles, new methods. The editorial and news content of this publication has been raised to a consistently high level. Type and printing have been improved to lend a distinction in character with the reading matter. Business procedure has been standardized to conform with sound ethical principles. NOW THE GOAL is in sight! This newspaper has been remade, new in everything but its name. And already that name connotes a new force in the ranks of the Catholic Press, gaining national as well as local recognition. NOW WE CAN look up from our task of carrying on toward an even greater improvement to say: "Here is an exceptional Catholic newspaper. It lacks but one element for complete success, — increased circulation. Without more readers our usefulness is limited and our problems multiplied. The CATHOLIC COURIER is your official diocesan newspaper. It is readable, informative, and a unique source of authoritative Catholic news. We need you as a regular reader of every issue!" "ONE OF THE BEST Catholic newspapers that comes to my desk . . ." says the Business Manager of "America," a national publication. "THE BRIGHTEST SPOT in the Catholic Press field" says a national leader in Catholic Journalism. From your NEWSREADER Catholic Courier OFFICIAL NEWSPAPER OF THE ROCHESTER DIOCESE
