The NRA is claiming the chief interest of the nation these days. Everyone is doubtless wondering whether the codes as framed upon by the various industries and commercial enterprises will operate. Catholicism, particularly, if they have any acquaintance with the Encyclicals of Pope Leo and our present Holy Father on labor and industry relations should be able to see in the NRA plans the beginnings of a relationship between capital and labor that is in accord with Catholic Teaching.

The Rev. Dr. Francis J. Haas, Director of the Catholic School of Social Service at Washington, who has been called to the service of the country as a member of the Labor Advisory Board under the Industrial Recovery Act says that the plan in part at least embodies the teaching of the Encyclical Letter, Quadragesimo Anno. Both the Encyclical and the NRA call for worker-employer Government partnership. Dr. Haas at this time will make no prediction of the success of the plan. Immediate results will doubtless be seen, but the lasting results cannot be achieved in a day or a month. The evils that have grown up under the capitalistic system have been accumulating for decades. He holds it very important that in germ the NRA is the remedy for social disorder advocated by His Holiness Pope Pius XI. It will be recalled that Father Haas at the conference on Industrial Relations in Rochester held in connection with the convention of the N. C. C. M. in 1931, chose as his topic for discussion, "A New Relationship between Employer and Employee," a condition in which industry would call life conference its employees and a relationship of operation would be arrived at in which a fair profit was awarded to the employer upon his investment and management, and the savings were allotted to the employee.

Local Delegation Attends Students Mission Meeting

Representatives from Nazareth College, St. Bernard's Seminary, St. Andrew's Seminary and Aquinas Institute recently returned from the 1933 Catholic Mission Crusade Convention held in Cincinnati, Ohio, the headquarters of the C. S. M. C.

Sister Rose Miriam, Faculty Advisor of the Nazareth College Mission Unit, and Miss Rita Barry, Secretary of the Unit; William Burchill, St. Bernard's Seminary; Joseph Hogan, St. Andrew's Seminary; Rev. John O'Donnell, Director of the Aquinas Institute Mission Unit, and Sister M. Pauline, Aquinas Institute, comprised the Rochester delegation.

Greetings were sent the Rochesterians at the Crusade Convention by Rev. John Lynch, C. S. S. I., St. Joseph's Church.

The delegates were enthusiastic in their reports of the convention sessions. The most impressive address, they believed, was delivered by the Most Rev. Emmett M. Walsh, Bishop of Charleston, S. C., who graphically described the deplorable conditions prevalent in the South.

During the business meetings the question before the house regarding the "Veteran Members" was voted upon granting the veteran members representation on the National Executive Board.

Correspondence

Rochester, August 12, 1933.
 Catholic Courier and Journal, Inc., 50 Chestnut Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Your paper, a copy of which has come into my hands, impresses me as a very worthwhile Catholic weekly, dignified and attractive in appearance, and worthy of commendation.

It is not merely a news sheet, recounting recent happenings. While it contains a fair representation of news—local, and world-wide in scope—there are in addition articles of real merit, of educational value, which give tone and character to a paper. I note the editorial page, treating affairs of the day from the Catholic standpoint, and features that have their appeal to the different members of the family, young and old. All of which go to make up a well rounded paper, at once newsworthy, instructive and edifying, and eminently fitted for the Catholic Home.

Long may it live.
 Respectfully yours,

Three Generations In Family Become Catholic Converts

(N. C. W. C. News Service)
 Indiana Harbor, Ind. An affecting scene took place here when an entire family of colored persons, embracing three generations, were solemnly received into the Catholic Church.

An old grandmother, born in slavery, was the first of the group to receive the Sacraments of Baptism and Holy Eucharist.

The work of preparing the converts was done by the Missionary Catechists from Victory, Noll, Huntington, Ind., who are stationed at Indiana Harbor.

The Rev. Bernard C. Loeher, of the Sacred Heart Seminary, Detroit, received the converts and celebrated Mass. The sermon was preached by the Rev. D. D. Miller, of Victory, Noll. The Rev. Jose Lara, pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, where the ceremony took place, was present in the sanctuary.

The Editor's Song

(From Ave Maria, July 1, 1933)
 The Catholic Press Association did not have much time for singing when it met for its annual convention in Chicago. Even though it did have the time, however, it would hardly need the stimulation of song to keep its members keyed up to the business of the various sessions. In fact the Association ever does stand in need of a convention song, we would like to propose the following "old-timer," written many years ago, but never more appropriate than today. There is probably no gathering of editors in America, either religious or secular, who would not sing the following lines without at least a touch of yearning in their voices:

How dear to our heart is the steady subscriber,
 Who pays in advance on the birth of each year,
 Who lays down the money and does it quite gladly,
 And casts round the office a halo of cheer!

He never says "Stop it; I cannot afford it."
 I'm getting more magazines now than I read."
 But always says, "Send it; our people like it."
 In fact, we all think it a help and a need."

How welcome his check when it reaches our sanctum;
 How it makes our pulse throb;
 How it makes our heart dance;
 We outwardly thank him; we inwardly bless him—
 The steady subscriber who pays in advance!
