The Dominican Tertiaries in the United States have been urged to form study circles by the Most Reverend Martin S. Gillette, O. P., Master General of the Dominican Order, in summoning American Tertiaries to an active participation in the apostolate in the cause of truth.

Rarely, said Father Gillette, has the world witnessed such confusion of thought. The most sacred truths are called in question. Hence, more than ever our tertiaries should be well guarded in the teaching of our Holy Faith. It would be an excellent idea, Father Gillette states, if as far as opportunity may permit, they form themselves into study circles under the guidance of one of the Fathers. He suggested that they take up one or other of the great Encyclicals of the Holy Father, or some part of the incomparable teaching of St. Thomas Aquinas.

While there is no particular season for Catholic activity, it is generally recognized that after the summer vacation season is over that people become freshly interested in works of this kind, and that their activities generally coincide with those of the school season. It is therefore a good time for Catholics who are interested in study circle work to be preparing early with serious purpose the formation or continuance of study circles. There is such a wide field of Catholic thedral School and their friends. Festivities of the centenary will be held on those two nights in the Cathedral School building, located at the corner of Brown Street and Plymouth Avenue North (old Frank Street) and outdoors on the school property.

Interesting History

The "celebration of one hundred years' existence of Cathedral School brings to light the interesting history of the school. On May 13, 1832, at a meeting of the congregation of Cathedral parish, a resolution was adopted to begin a parochial school. The reason given for the adoption of such a resolution was that the parishioners did not care to have their children exposed to the secular schools. After subscriptions were once taken up, troublesome times delayed the establishment of the school.

A temporary school was established, however, over a store at the corner of State and Platt Streets where the Rochester Button Company factory now stands. A Mr. Hughes holds the distinction of being the first teacher.

Later on, in July of 1842, an asylum was built at the corner of Frank and Kodak Streets for the reception of orphan-children. A matron was in charge and she supervised the care and education of these children.

Charity Nuns Arrive

In 1845 the Sisters of Charity arrived in the city and took over the supervision of this asylum. In addition, they opened a school for girls. Twelve years later, the Christian Brothers opened a school for boys at the corner of Brown and Frank Streets. Brother Brulph was the school's first director. His collaborators were Brother Anthony who, himself, was a Rochester boy, Brother Chronion, Brother Carthage and Brother Bottella.

The Sisters of St. Joseph, in September of 1871, took charge of the girls school. A new building had been erected and Rev. Mother Agnes was made principal. Under her direction, the following Sisters taught in the school: Sisters Theresa, Adeline, Josephine, De Sales, Ursula, Regina, Anatha and Genevieve.

In 1872 the Christian Brothers left the city and the care of the boys school was placed in the hands of laymen and laywomen. Ten years later, the boys' school was also put under the direction of the Sisters of St. Joseph. At the same time, the Rev. James P. Kiernan was appointed Superintendent.

The old Cathedral Hall was converted into a high school in 1906 and served as such until the erection of the Aquinas Institute, nine years ago.

Further announcements concerning the celebration of the Centenary will be made by Father Randall.

Catholic Women's Club Maintains Women's Residence

One of the divisions of service of the Catholic Women's Club which is probably the least known is the residence for women which is maintained at the Club House in Alexander Street.

The Club House was built some twenty-five years ago as an office and residence for one of Rochester's physicians, and its twenty-five rooms, spread over four stories, are large and well-ventilated. Some of the bedrooms have connecting tile baths, and all are comfortably furnished with Simmons beds. During the days of financial stress, special courtesies are being extended by which residents of the house are privileged to prepare all their meals in the kitchen and dinette which is maintained for their private use. The big old-fashioned laundry, with white enamel tub, is also available for use of residents, with a large drying space in the garden. Leading from the second floor, a private porch for guests, looking on the garden and overhanging by two large maple trees, affords rest and quiet at the end of hot days. Night and day telephone service assures prompt attention for professional and business women awaiting call for duty.

Limited in capacity to sixteen guests, residing at the Club House is like living in a large comfortable old-fashioned home. Most of the present residents have lived there since it was first established.

A resident matron is in charge and Mrs. Arthur C. Freer represents the Board of Directors of the Club as Chairman of the House Committee.

GOOD COUNSEL PARISH TAKES SECOND PLACE

st. Greece; St. Salome, Point Pleasant; St. Theodore's, Gates; Holy Ghost, Coldwater; Holy Trinity, Webster.

Free copies of the CATHOLIC COURIER were distributed last Sunday at St. Mary's Church, Our Lady of Victory Church, Mother of Sorrows Church, Mt. Road Boulevard; St. Therese's Church, St. Charles Church, and St. Joseph's Church. A second distribution of 4,000 copies took place at the devotion to Our Lady of Perpetual Help in St. Joseph's Church, Wednesday.

Prizes for carrier boys who made the best efforts in individual work in the parish canvasses, this week, went to Thomas McDonald and John Mages, Holy Rosary parish, these two boys getting the highest number of new "starts" of any of the carrier boys; and to Edward Miller and Anthony Cagnazzo, St. John the Evangelist parish, Rochester. The prizes are awarded lessons in the Columbian Civic Center swimming pool.

Papers Run Out

Church sales are holding up strong in the various churches of the diocese. Last Sunday, Holy Rosary church door sales were so great that the papers ran out before all of the masses were over.

From churches outside the city good reports continue to come regarding church sales. After the visit of Mr. Tucker to the parish surrounding Rochester, he will visit the deanery cities of the diocese to explain the plan of increasing subscribers to the CATHOLIC COURIER.

The response everywhere is most gratifying to those in charge. It is hoped that those now reading the diocesan organ will call it to the attention of their friends so that "A CATHOLIC HOME IN EVERY CATHOLIC HOME IN THE DIOCESE OF ROCHESTER" will soon become a reality.

Faculty Additions Are Announced At Nazareth College

Nazareth College, Rochester, which will reopen Tuesday, September 13, announces the addition of five new members to its faculty: Miss Alice Corcoran of Penn-Yan, recently from the Sorbonne, Paris, in the French department; Sister Dorothy Agnes, Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., in the German department; Sister M. Paulette, from the National School of Social Service, in the department of Social Service; Miss Sara Malone, formerly Director of the Rochester Business Institute, as head of the Secretarial department; and Miss Marlyn O'Neill of Emerson College, in the department of Speech.

New class rooms have been built to meet the steady growth of the College, and the increased number of sections of the different courses.

The Social Service department has been enlarged with the innovation of a course leading to the Bachelor of Science degree with Major in Social Service Studies. The field of Social Work is greatly extended; full provisions for the large scope of this work has been made by the College in the new course under speciality trained teachers.

It is requested that all applications be made with the Registrar not later than this week.

Mercy High Opens September 5 With Many Registered

With a notable increase in registration, Our Lady of Mercy High School, in Blossom Road, will open for the new scholastic year, Tuesday, September 5.

According to Sister M. Frances, the principal of the High School, a new course in the history of art will be added to the curriculum for the new term, making possible a sequence in art.

What is wrong today won't be right tomorrow.

Nazareth Academy Opens September 5 With 700 Students

Nazareth Academy, Lake Avenue, will reopen with an enrollment of approximately 700 students, Tuesday, September 5.

The curriculum, according to Sister Marcella, principal of the High School, will be the same as in previous years, with training in the following courses: academic, college entrance, and academic commercial. Classes are also scheduled in the music department held in the conservatory of music adjoining the academy.

Cross on Irish Mountain

Dublin—(NCWC)—The summit of Galtee More, the Tipperary mountain 3,000 feet high, has been crowned by a large cross erected in honor of Christ the King. At its inauguration, several thousand people from the counties of Tipperary, Limerick and Cork ascended the mountain on foot. Materials for the cross, which can be seen over a large area, were carried by the people themselves.

Catholics and Art.

The Catholic religion through the ages has inspired most of the world's artistic achievement, the Church's influence in the world of art, as represented by the works of her children, being comparable to her influence in the spread of science and learning.

HERALD DAVID

This Dutch painter is accounted among the greatest artists of the Early Netherlands school. He was a devout and charitable man, and his work as a painter is characterized by a depth of mystic religious feeling which has been described as akin to that of Thomas a Kempis in the "Imitation of Christ."

Although in no sense an inventor he expressed the best in the traditions of his predecessors in the Dutch and Flemish schools. His one new type, the charming figure of the Child Jesus, profoundly influenced the succeeding generation of painters.

He probably travelled in Italy, as his works show traces of Florentine and Venetian influences, and he studied assiduously the works of all of the great masters to be found in the churches of Bruges. He was a member of the Guild of St. Luke and at one time its dean. He excelled in the painting of brocaded stuffs, embroidery, and jewelry, and his landscapes are regarded as the best of his school. His painting of the human figure also is superior.

Of all the early masters of the Netherlands David is best represented in the United States. Among his works may be mentioned the magnificent altarpiece, "Madonna with Saints," painted for the Carmelite Nuns at Bruges; "Christ Nailing the Cross;" "The Adoration of the Christ Child;" "St. John;" "St. Jerome;" "The Marriage at Cana;" "The Baptism of Christ;" "The Annunciation;" "Rest on the Flight to Egypt;" "The Crucifixion;" "The Transfiguration;" "The Marriage of St. Catherine;" and "Christ's Farewell to the Holy Women."

David was born at Oudewater, South Holland, about 1460, and died at Bruges in 1523. He was buried there in the Church of Our Lady. (N.C.W.C. Features)

Italy Town Rejoices As Sick Girl Returns From Lourdes Cured

By MSGR. ENRICO PUCCI
 (Vatican City Correspondent, N. C. W. C. News Service)

Rome.—Recently two trains with 400 sick who made the journey to Lourdes to implore a cure from the Blessed Virgin, returned to Milan from Lourdes.

There was much rejoicing over a certain Josephine Negri, of Oggione, who was able to descend from the train without assistance. The young girl was suffering from tuberculosis and the attending doctor advised her not to go to Lourdes.

At Lourdes she suddenly declared herself well and asked permission to descend from her bed which she had not left for many months. Later she was visited by the doctors who verified a rapid regression of the malady. The right lung still shows some traces but in the left, according to the doctors, all traces have disappeared.

When using soap flakes for washing purposes beat them with an egg beater into a foam. Fewer flakes will be required and the suds will be better.

Rochester's First High School

Rochester's first High School was situated on Cortland Street, about where the Unitarian Church now stands. For years it was considered the greatest and most up-to-date school in all Western New York.

Founded in 1825, the school continued until 1852, when it burned to the ground. During these twenty-seven years, Dr. Dewey attended this school, which was presided over by Dr. Dewey, its principal.

One hundred and two years ago, only six years after the school opened, the Rochester Savings Bank was founded, and great numbers of students in the old school received their first lessons in thrift by having savings accounts in this Savings Bank.

Today, thousands of our present school generation, through their school savings accounts in this bank, are receiving their first lessons in thrift and learning early days.
