EXPLOITATION ON STAGE OF MURDER TRIAL FAILS AFTER PRIEST PROTEST

(By N.Y.W.C. News Service)

Somerset, Mass.—Attempts to exploit and commercialize Mrs. Jessie D. Costello's acquittal last week in Salem Superior Court on a charge of murdering her husband, received another setback here when her scheduled appearance at a local dance hall was cancelled at the behest of the Board of Selectmen.

The board's action followed closely similar bans in five other New England communities and taken as a result of a conference between Francis J. Hanson, chairman of the town's governing body, and the Rev. Thomas P. Doherty, pastor of St. Patrick's Church here. Father Doherty was commended today by the Most Rev. James K. Cassidy, Apostolic Administrator of the Diocese of Fall River, whose sanction he had in registering his successful protest.

The other communities where Mrs. Costello, mother of three children, has been refused permission to "tell her story" are Marlboro, Bourne, Cape Cod, Old Orchard Beach, Salisbury Beach, and Methuen, all in this State.
