Monument Unveiling Made Impressive By Indian Priest

The Rev. Msgr. John P. Schellhorn, pastor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, was present with the Rev. Henry B. Laudonbach, of Buffalo, supreme chaplain of the Albany...

Simple ceremonies marked the unveiling. A firing squad of the American Legion fired three volleys and taps was sounded. The tablet unveiled bears the following description:

1668-1709 NEAR THIS SITE CATHOLIC MISSIONARIES ERECTED HOUSES OF WORSHIP IN THE WESTERMOST SENECA VILLAGES OF THE IROQUOIS CONFEDERACY.

THE CHAPEL OF LA-CONCEPTION WAS BUILT IN 1668 AT TOTIAKTON (NEAR ROCHESTER JUNCTION). ST. JEAN CHAPEL WAS ERECTED IN 1669 AT GANDACHIRAGOU ON THE LIMA ROAD.

THE RESIDENT MISSIONARIES WERE: FR. JAMES FREMIN, S. J. (1668-1670) FR. JULIEN GARNIER, S. J. (1669-1673) FR. PETER RAFFEIX, S. J. (1672-1680)

NOTABLE VISITORS WERE: FR. CLAUDE ALLOQUEZ, S. J. (1669) FR. RENE GALINEE, S. J. (1669) LE SIEUR DE LA SALLE (1669) FR. JAMES BRUYAS, S. J. (1673) FR. LOUIS HENNEPIN, RECOLLECT (1679)

AFTER THE DESTRUCTION BY DENONVILLE'S ARMY IN 1687 A NEW VILLAGE WAS FOUNDED ON SPRING BROOK (NEAR BY).

THE MISSIONARIES WERE: FR. JULIEN GARNIER, S. J. (1701-1703) FR. VAILLANT DE GUELLES, S. J. (1702-1707) FR. JAMES D'HEU, S. J. (1707-1709)

WHEN POLITICAL CIRCUMSTANCES COMPELLED THE FRENCH TO WITHDRAWAL OF FRENCH MISSIONARIES FROM THIS REGION, THE MINISTRATIONS OF RELIGION TO THE CHRISTIAN INDIANS WERE CONTINUED THROUGH CONTACTS WITH CANADIAN MISSIONS WHERE MANY DESCENDANTS OF THE SENECA STILL PERSEVERE IN THE FAITH, BROUGHT TO THIS LOCALITY BY THE ABOVE NAMED MEN OF GOD.

ERECTED BY THE ORDER OF THE ALHAMBRA 1933

Deputy Commander Hetzler through whose five years of effort the erection of the monument became possible introduced Grand Commander Daniel J. O'Mara as presiding officer.

Speaks Native Tongue Father Jacobs in his address first spoke in the language of the Iroquois and then talked in English.

"Abnegation, self-control and true humility were the insignia of that valiant band who cast their lot among the Senecas from 1669 to 1709. Their field of labor was immense and fraught with suffering. They came to conquer with a conquest of peace and love as representatives of Christ the King. In behalf of my people, the Iroquois, I add my humble tribute to these first priests of the Jesuit Order to work among the Senecas. Their deeds should prove stimulating to patriotism and heroism."

After paying tribute to the learning, culture and training of the early missionaries, Father Thibbis asked: "Will anyone dare say that the work of these great apostles was all in vain?"

"You will find your answer," he said, "at Caughnawaga on the St. Lawrence with its 2,900 Catholic Indians. You will find your answer at the St. Regis Reservation, with its 3,000 Catholic Indians, at Brantford with its 8,000 Christian Indians. In all 14,000 descendants of the Iroquois confederacy still carry aloft the standard of Christ placed in the hands of their forefathers 264 years ago."

Moreover, the crimsoned black robe of the Jesuit martyrs of Auriesville has produced the royal purple that is the glory not only of Rochester, but of Albany, Syracuse, Ogdensburg and Buffalo. The tiny chapels of the missions are today vast cathedrals, while the scattered villages along the rivers are mighty cities with dioceses still mightier."

Answers Possible Objections Father Byrne who concluded the program after stating that Archbishop Mooney was particularly interested in the marking of Catholic historical places of civil as well as religious nature and expressing the Archbishop's regrets at not being able to attend, anticipated two objections that might arise to the work of the early Jesuit missionaries.

That the Jesuit missionaries were simply actuated by worldly motives and that there were no permanent effects of their labors, Father Byrne said may be answered by historians and by the writings of those missionaries which show that these priests were actuated purely by religious zeal, and for the matter of lasting effects he pointed to the Catholic Indian village wherein Mass is still celebrated in the language of the Mohawks.

"These Jesuit missionaries," he said, "have no need of monuments for their own sakes. Unknowingly they have raised a lasting monument in the conversion of a large part of the Iroquois nation. It is for our own sakes and for the instruction of future generations that such a monument is needed."

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Honoye Falls Military Band. During the ceremony a wreath was placed at the foot of the monument by Financial Secretary, Paul A. Predmore, in the name of Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus.

Following the exercises, Deputy Supreme Commander Hetzler was congratulated individually by the many prominent persons present for the occasion upon the success of the entire proceedings.

1831—Rochester's Oldest Financial Institution—1933 WHEN PORKOPOLIS MEANT CINCINNATI. In 1835 Cincinnati was the center of the pork packing industry in this country. The town was called "Porkopolis." At that time the products of the pork packing industry were "hand-made." There were no machines. Electricity had not yet come. Distribution was limited for refrigeration was an undeveloped science. Today the enormous packing plants of Omaha, Kansas City and Chicago supply the world. Machines utilize every part of the porker except the squeal. In those days—98 years ago when Cincinnati was "Porkopolis"—the Rochester Savings Bank was already four years old and serving a small but rapidly growing family of depositors. Through all our 102 years of service to this community, we have helped thousands to attain financial security. We are helping more than 99,000 today.
