BOYS Their Interests

Have you ever seen the St. Ambrose football field? It is next to the Church. To say the least it is very popular. In a field just large enough for one game, three or four are going on at the same time. Formations are rushing in all directions, footballs are soaring and falling; everybody having a glorious time. Of course, players get mixed up now and then and tackle men from the wrong teams; in fact, it is dangerous to run with the ball because some player will bring you down in a hurry—only to find too late that you are in a different game. One boy walked out of a scrimmage the other day, trying to rub two or three bruises at the same time. "I was having a swell time," he said, "just tackling anybody who came along and catching all the forward passes I could." From the looks of his eye he caught one too many.

In that same field last Friday, the St. John's Parochial team defeated that of St. Ambrose, 14-7. A large crowd of children cheered their teams and enjoyed themselves thoroughly. Christy of St. Ambrose played the best game of the day. His running and tackling were indicative of great talent.

Captain James Ehnman of the Columbus Civic Center Gym sends us word that he is forming a Boys' Club for the junior members of the Columbus Club. They have their own Club rooms, and are rapidly forming into a live party. Some of the activities of this Club at the present time are a checker tournament, a popular contest, a nature group, a harmonica band, and several basketball teams. Why not drop in, boys, and see the Club rooms?

The drive soon opens for membership in the Columbus Club. For a few dollars a boy may come up there during the week and on Saturday, take a swim, play ball and basketball, do some setting-up exercises under the direction of an athletic director, and then enjoy the Boys' Club.

Why not ask your dad or older brother who is thinking hard what to get you for Christmas, to buy you a membership in the Club for the winter season? You get your money back in fun, health and association with a fine group of boys.

Will there be a Parochial Junior Basketball League this winter? That depends upon you, boys. If your school would like to enter a League, whether you have a court or not, drop a letter to the Columbus Civic Center in care of Father Vogt. State clearly whether or not you have a basketball court in your own Parish Hall, and, if not, whether you can obtain one in your neighborhood for some afternoon during the week. Depending upon the responses, we shall, or shall not have a Basketball League.

The Knights of Columbus announce the formation of a unit of the Columbian Squares. What is that? It is a club of young men from the ages of about fifteen to eighteen banded together for good times. Good times? Athletic and social. They will have the use once a week of the gym and pool at the Columbus Civic Center, where under the supervision of counselors, they can play basketball, volleyball, etc. The Knights are offering the use of their own Club rooms with the pool tables, etc. There will also be social evenings, etc., of various kinds. All indications point to a live organization.

Rev. George Vogt has been chosen as chaplain of the new unit of the Columbian Squares and he is making a special appeal to the captains of C. S. M. who are of the requisite age to join the club. Father Vogt promises that they will have the same spirit as rules in old Stella Maris, an hilarious good time for all. Don't miss it. Send in your name at once.
