Board of Clergy Urged to Lend Aid in Marital Cases

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—(NCWC)—The suggestion that there might be established here an informal board composed of a Catholic priest, a Protestant minister and a Jewish rabbi, to whom cases of "marital disruption" could be referred by judges before they are heard in court has been made by the Rev. John J. Moylan of St. Mary's church in this city. The suggestion, made in an address at the annual dinner of the Sanctuary Society of St. Mary's Church, has quickly won the approval of Supreme Court Justice Aldrich, Mayor Spratt and City Judge Corbally. "I have found," said Father Moylan in putting forth his suggestion "that many of the cases which reach the courts have had no contact with the clergy, and have not consulted their religious heads before taking steps to break the contract of matrimony. If such a board were established—a great deal of good could be accomplished. Separations and annulments are very often the result of trifles that have been magnified, and through religious guidance, these trifles could be eliminated. Turning such cases back into contact with religion might effect a solution of the problems."

When an Individual Wishes to Borrow Money

WHEN an individual desires to obtain a loan from his bank, it is customary for him to deposit collateral to secure the loan. The collateral offered must be sound securities, the current market value and salability of which are established. This is called a secured loan. However, when an individual has no such collateral to offer, loans are sometimes properly made on an unsecured basis. In such cases, the individual should be prepared to furnish full information as to his financial condition and earning power in the same manner that a firm or corporation does in obtaining a Commercial Loan. The borrower must clearly show an ability to repay the loan. And the amount borrowed should be in proper relation to the borrower's income or earning power. It is a good thing to know your banker, and for him to know you. Such personal contact leads to mutual understanding and the most satisfactory business relations. But no loan should be made purely on a friendly basis. Character, record, security and ability to repay are the important factors a bank must consider in making loans. Such loans meet sound credit requirements; and on such conditions we are always ready to meet the needs of our customers.

National Flower and Garden Show Plans Will Include School Children

Meetings of the National committee heads of the National Flower and Garden Show with the local committee chairman throughout the preparation of last week at the Seneca Hotel to consummate the final details for the show which is being held in Rochester this year. This year's show will be the 15th annual National Flower and Garden Show. Four buildings at Edgerton Park will house the exhibition which will be open nine days April 14 to 22, Sundays included. At the conclusion of the meetings, George Amus of Chicago, who holds the distinction of having managed every National Flower Show, said that plans were proceeding like clockwork. Mr. Amus expressed particular gratification with the interest and assistance being lent by the civic leaders and press of the city. The committee voted to extend an invitation through the Board of Education to the city's school children of grammar school age to attend the Flower and Garden Show without charge. Similar invitations will go to the parochial schools and to the schools in the Rochester territory. This is a custom in every city in which the National Flower and Garden Show is staged. The children are taken through the show in the morning by classes and schools, their teachers and the Boy Scout patrols acting as guides. It was stated that at the 1933 show in St. Louis over 100,000 school children attended the show as guests of the show management.
