BOYS Their Interests

Jack bursting into the house: "Hello, Ma and Pa. You know the Indians were pretty smart people. The mother looked puzzled. Jack explained: 'I just came back from the Camp Stella Maris Pow-Wow. Boy! Did we have fun! First we skate and play, and then eat. Then we play some more and eat some more. Then stories and plans for next Summer. These Indians were the first real Americans.'"

The Camp wishes to thank two donors. Mr. William T. Nolan for bringing a deluge of letters to the Pow-Wow, thus helping to care for the carnival man; and Rev. Bernard DeWolf for donating a set of story books to the Camp Library, and caring for that other and higher part of the camper, the spiritual man.

What visions does this conjure up! A pirate lament: "He had his crew behind him, 'An' I had half a score, But we left 'em gaspin' on the sands, Of Madagascar shore!" (B.R.-r)

In an instruction class some time ago, a priest explained how God made all things good and wholesome, and that even in evil persons, we can see traces of virtue. He asked the class for an example. A boy raised his hand. "A pirate, Father!" The priest looked unconvinced. The boy explained: "A pirate is bad but he is no hypocrite. He dresses and looks the part. He does not pretend he is good like some had people do."

Troop 200 of St. Boniface Church is having a Father and Son Banquet. A capital idea to bring fathers and sons together. To the son comes a realization that Dad is not too busy to take an interest in his welfare, and to the father a sense of the importance of Scouting in aiding to develop his son's character.

But does the Catholic boy, reared in a Catholic home and parochial school, need such an aid as Scouting to develop his character? We answer in good old Yankee style by asking a question: Can you afford to neglect a means in developing that boy and bringing him to that goal of fine, clean manhood? We might phrase it thus: Can you afford to 'take a chance' in so important a matter?

There is another answer that grows more certain with the years. Religion, needs ever ally it can muster to safeguard the young from paganism and indifference, especially in those transition years between twelve and eighteen. Religious instructions are nullified by movies; careful home influence often ruined by bad companionship. And a boy spends only one-third of his waking hours in school. Where does he spend, and how does he spend the other two-thirds? And what good are Holy Name Societies, etc., if we lose our boys and young men? If you want to understand how important is the work for the young, watch Soviet Russia!

Some thirty candidates will constitute the charter members of the Columbian Squires of Circle 115. They will be initiated on Feb. 4, by the degree team of the Elmira Circle.

The Aquinas subdued St. Pat's of Elmira by one point. It was a fast game slowed up by the referee. Every lifting of the eyebrow was a foul; foul intention, probably, and yet, on one conspicuous occasion when a man deliberately took out an opponent 'a la football' the referee called a foul on the man taken out. An enthusiastic crowd followed the game to the last exciting minute.

What benefit is to be expected for the soul from papers which never mention God's Holy Name?

Installation of Bishop O'Hern Circle, Columbian Squires, Dated For Sunday

Bishop O'Hern Memorial Circle, No. 115, Columbian Squires, juvenile organization of Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus, will be instituted with appropriate ceremonies Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Columbus Civic Center Building, at which Archbishop Mooney will be guest of honor.

The Rochester circle of Columbian Squires received its charter from the Supreme Officers this week. The organization admits Catholic boys from 14 to 18 years of age, the period when they are too old for Boy Scout affiliation and too young to join the Knights of Columbus.

Edward J. Dunn Memorial Circle of Elmira will furnish the ritual of officers for the degree at which the Rochester candidates will be received into the order. District Deputies of Elmira, Auburn and Ithaca, where circles of the Squires are already established, are to come for the degree. The local committee in charge is arranging a comprehensive program for the entertainment of the visitors.

Following the degree work, an address will be given by Chancellor Charles A. Tucker of Rochester Council, headed by District Deputy John A. Doyle, and Grand Knight Dr. Walter B. O'Neill will attend the degree work.

A Communion Breakfast for the Columbian Squires will take place in

Knights of St. John Bowling League

Games in session last week were of a one-sided nature, due to the fact that the weaker teams, were up against those of stronger caliber, although Cathedral, chalked up one against St. Eustace, the tussle between those two teams were between Clem Schlueter of St. Eustace and Bill Ryan of Cathedral, Clems 194-212-199 for a 605 total proved too much for Bill's 200-222-125. The games between St. George and St. Peter Paul, were hard fought, St. Peter Paul losing three games, the last two by close margins, Holy Family, also fought hard games against St. Michael, also losing three and by close margins, which proves that the teams will have to bowl real games, to keep in the positions they now occupy. St. Boniface easily won all three games from St. Mauritius. F. Ritz, of St. Boniface rolling 216-216-168 for a 600 even, Cy Bartholomay, of St. Peter Paul also came in for a 612 total with 196-198-218.

Other two-century hitters were, J. Dick 204-200, W. Dick, 205; F. Dell, 235; O. Rimmel, 205; F. Kress, 201; G. Fischer, 236; R. Bleier, 254; J. McKeckney, 222; J. Braun, 201; Meyers, 248; Hetter, 201; Stoesser, 216-201; Collins, 212; Muehlisen, 212.

Teams representing St. Francis d'Assisi, St. Peter and Paul and St. Allynus Churches won their opening games in the newly organized basketball league of the Auburn Catholic Churches, Wednesday evening of last week on the St. Alphonsus Recreation Hall court in Water Street. Results were: St. Francis 16, St. Hyacinth's 14; St. Peter and Paul 10, St. Mary's 8. (overtime period); St. Allynus 28, St. Alphonsus 18. Games are being played each Wednesday evening.

Elmira Catholic High five, one of the leading contenders for championship honors in the New York-Pennsylvania Parochial Basketball League came to Rochester Saturday evening and received something of a shock when Aquinas Institute's strong five nosed 'em' the Elmira basketballers by 21 to 20 in a game slowed up by too much refereeing. Ray Gavigan's charges indicated that they had the stuff to win a basketball game, but the smaller Aquinas lads led by the attack of Joe Farrell and Jack Hannin, put Mort Leary's team out in front. The two teams will meet in Elmira at a later date.

Holy Family High of Auburn notched a victory in the N. Y.-Penn League Friday night by defeating Laurel Hill Academy of Susquehanna, 17 to 11. Two stiff games on the schedule this week for Joe Curtin's proteges as Auburn Senior High on Thursday and St. Patrick's High School of Hinghamton, Friday.
