Catholic Women In The News

The Mazon Mary Burke at Saint Michael, founded by the National Catholic War Council of the United States but since taken over by the Association of the Ruche Saint-Michelolais, showed steady and encouraging progress in its work again last year, according to its annual report. Mazon Mary Burke is named in honor of the mother of the Very Rev. Dr. John J. Burke, C.S.B., General Secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in the United States.

"There has been no standing still," Mme. B. Tallois, President of the Association, declares in describing the progress of the work last year. The Mazon Mary Burke trains girls and young women to be self-supporting through needlework and other forms of handicraft, combining instruction and practical work in the course. It also provides for the mothers of families, enabling them to contribute to the family income without going out of their homes. The Sisters attached to the Mazon Mary Burke also carry out a program for the protection of girls between the ages of 8 to 12 years from the many dangers of the streets on Sundays and holidays.

In the retreat house of the Sisters of Hope at Bordeaux, there has just died at the age of 71, and in the fifty-third year of her religious life, Jeanne Marie Leboese, in religion Sister Saint Andre, the last survivor of the four children to whom the Blessed Virgin appeared on the evening of January 17, 1871, in the village of Pontmain on the edge of Brittany.

The name of Mother Seton has been inscribed on a memorial erected in Jerusalem on the spot where Christ was scourged and crowned with thorns. The memorial is in the chapel of the Sisters of Our Lady of Slon and bears the names of prominent persons from all over the world. By means of this memorial it is intended that where Our Lord was surrounded by enemies on the first Good Friday, this year of Jubilee He will be surrounded by friends.

Catholic Publications' Value To Church in Her Apostolic Work Noted

Milwaukee.—(NCWC)—"The dependence of the apostolic work of the Church upon the Catholic Press is so intimate and close that it is almost inconceivable what results might ensue if all Catholic periodical publications were suddenly discontinued," it is declared in an editorial appearing in the February issue of Hospital Progress.

The editorial says that "for us as members of the Catholic Hospital Association the month will have special significance," and adds that "we have no right to accuse the public of ignorance concerning hospitals, but we have the duty to recognize our own shortcomings in making known to the public what our hospitals are attempting and achieving. The press is our best medium for this educative process."

"We hope that our members may actively concern themselves with the interests in their various localities which are focused in the Catholic Press."

Nothing is difficult unless we have clouded our mind with fear. If we face each new problem or situation bravely, and with faith work to solve it, we pass another grade in the school of self-mastery.

THIS SERIES of camera studies is presented exclusively by the CATHOLIC COURIER to familiarize our readers with various interesting personalities. Selection of subjects is based on their personal appeal rather than on any connection with special groups. Other portraits in the series will appear from time to time.

Swiss Priest Conducts One-Man Campaign For Catholic Publications

Vienna.—Going from town to town in Switzerland preaching the opportunity and duty of Catholics to support their own publications, Father Garrier, a pastor of Geneva, has conducted a highly interesting one-man campaign in the behalf of the Catholic Press.

Switzerland can boast a number of Catholic dailies and weeklies with good circulations; but even there there are some defects in facilities available and these are employed by some Catholics as pretexts for not subscribing to Catholic papers. Catholic papers, they say, do not meet their requirements.

"The Catholics of Switzerland," says Father Garrier in meeting this argument, "spend two million gold francs annually for non-Catholic papers. If they were to spend but one-half of that amount for Catholic papers they might have at their disposal a brilliantly developed journalism."

To the many people who have gathered about him for each of his lectures, Father Garrier has emphasized the fact that it is the Catholics' own sacred cause that is at stake. "Of the 300,000 inhabitants in the Canton of Geneva," he has pointed out, "120,000 are Catholics, about 40,000 of whom are reading Catholic papers and periodicals. If the money spent by the remaining 80,000 would reach Catholic papers as it is now reaching the so-called liberal papers, the Catholic papers would be in a position to invest more and to meet even the highest requirements of its subscribers. You who, being Catholics, read the so-called liberal papers are responsible yourselves for the defects for which you blame the Catholic papers."

Father Garrier laments the lack, in most countries, of an illustrated Catholic magazine prepared in the modern style. Pictures, the priest points out, make deep impressions upon the readers of publications, and in many cases, are being employed to promote only nonsense, or coarseness, and an uncleanness that is very detrimental to youth.

Little Theatre Players Observe Sixth Anniversary

Auburn.—The Little Theatre Players of Auburn, under the direction of Rev. Donald M. Cleary of Holy Family Church, celebrated their sixth anniversary this week with three successful presentations of A. W. Mason's three-act comedy, "Green Stockings." The play was presented Sunday afternoon and Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Holy Family Auditorium in North Street.

Winners of the Western New York amateur dramatic contest of last season in competition with similar organizations in Rochester and Buffalo, the local thespians plan to continue their dramatic activities on a wider scale this year. "The Upper Room," will be produced during Holy Week and "The Rosary" will be repeated at a later date. "May time in Erin" will be given on St. Patrick's night.

Members of the "Green Stockings" cast included: the Misses Jennie McLean, Helen Beardsley, Irene Kenny, Almeta Carroll, Mrs. Hannah Stapleton Currier, Paul Landers, Harold Brewster, Edward Hubbard, Delos Brown, J. Martin Hanlon, James Hart and Luke White.

Musically Inclined Go To Walker and Adams

Appreciation of the musical instruments and service offered to those musically inclined by Walker and Adams Music House, 97 South Clinton Street, may be best realized by a visit to their store.

The Walker and Adams firm in their dealings with the experienced musician and with those just beginning to practice has built up a reputation that brings music-lovers back again, well satisfied.

Exclusive distributors for Buescher instruments, widely known for their tonal qualities and fine workmanship, Walker and Adams enjoy consistent business from the outfitting of bands and orchestras, the sale of sheet music and from work done in repairing musical instruments.

Free instructions are offered with purchases. Every instrument, they declare is guaranteed and tested by factory men before leaving the store. Walker and Adams specialize in repair work of all description.

HURRICANE WRECKS MISSION Jamaica, B. W. I.—The Jamaica Mission, B. W. I., conducted by the Jesuit Fathers of the New England Province, and nobly strengthened by the heroic work of the Sisters, is in sad plight after the twelfth weather disturbance within the past twelve months. This last hurricane played havoc in the Westmoreland district of the Island.

SACRIFICE TESTS SOUL: The soul of the Christian develops best under the test of sacrifice. The follower of Christ may enjoy many blessings on this earth, but he should not look for freedom from all crosses. The Christian Scientist may seek to eliminate pain, but the true follower of Christ will embrace it when it comes and bear it with patience, knowing that the Cross is the hall mark of the follower of Christ. Lent comes and this season of grace should move us towards Calvary. If we are under trial, we can endure more patiently. If in God's goodness we are free from crosses, we can voluntarily make sacrifices to express our love for the Crucified.—The Field Ape.

BECOMER ESKIMO PUPIL: Fr. Francis Menager, S.J., former professor of Cosmology in the Jesuit Scholasticate of Mount St. Michael, Spokane, Wash., and recent Superior of the whole Alaskan mission, is now stationed at Kotzebue, a village above the Arctic Circle, the northernmost Catholic mission of Alaska.

He writes that he has a rather large plant: a church that will accommodate about two hundred, a good-sized parish hall and rectory, he does his own cooking, house-keeping and laundry work. In spite of the difficulty of learning a new Eskimo dialect, he is composing a prayer book, as well as a hymnal and catechism in the native tongue.

'I LOVE A PARADE': Yes, we all love a parade that leads people somewhere for a definite purpose. Help the Church in the parade of the peoples of the world toward the extension of Christ's Kingdom on earth. Make your contribution to the marching forward of Christianity through your membership in the Society for the Propagation of the Faith. A membership for every purse—ordinary, special or perpetual.

A HAPPY EXPERIENCE: A "working-out girl" called at one of the diocesan offices lately in another part of the country. We shall let the director tell the story in his own words: "She asked about a perpetual membership in the Society for the Propagation of the Faith. We described the enrollment and ended by saying that the offering was forty dollars. That is a lot of money for a maid and we were rather hesitant about naming the sum. What was our surprise when she answered: 'I want to enroll five members of my family, father, mother, two brothers and a sister.' We could only refer her charity to the Master. The enrollments were entered on the re-
