1831—Rochester's Oldest Financial Institution—1934
THE FIRST BANK
Although the first settlers had arrived here in 1788, it was not until 1824 that the village of Rochester was privileged to have banking facilities of its own. Prior to that year, Rochester had been served by banks located in Geneva, Canandaigua and Batavia, all of whom looked upon this place as "their territory."
Finally, after three efforts, dating back to 1817, Colonel Rochester succeeded and the state legislature granted a charter to the Bank of Rochester, February 19, 1824. The capital of this bank was fixed at $250,000. Its place-of-business was on Exchange Street.
Seven years later (1831) the Rochester Savings Bank was organized (the first Mutual Savings Bank west of the Hudson River) and "opened for business" with nothing more than a small window and sign in the office of the Bank of Rochester. The first depositor was Harmon Taylor, who deposited $13.00 on July 2, 1831.
From such a beginning—before Rochester became a city—the Old Bank has grown to a great institution of more than 100,000 depositors, with total savings of over $58,000,000.

School Aid, Divorce Measures Discussed By Men Federation

Thorough discussion of Assembly Bill Int. 1184 introduced by Mr. Doyle of Brooklyn authorizing state aid for denominational schools was had at the monthly meeting of the Catholic Men's Federation in St. Joseph's Hall last Sunday afternoon. There was also consideration of Assembly Bill Int. 1295 authorizing remarriage of the guilty party after divorce. Assembly Bill Int. 824 and 825, which add an additional ground for divorce, namely, desertion for three years prior to the commencement of the action, were explained and discussed.
Reports of the various committees having in charge the arrangements for the coming National Convention of the Catholic Central Verein of America were made, and showed that the preparations are progressing satisfactorily. A complete report of the recent bazaar held by the Catholic Men's Federation and the Catholic Women's Federation indicated a substantial sum had been raised to defray the expenses incidental to the coming convention.
The discussion in connection with the bill of Mr. Doyle proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of New York to permit state aid to be given to denominational schools, was led by Former County Judge Philip H. Donnelly. "Heretofore, there was quite a divided opinion among Catholics," he said. "At the present time, however, there seems to be a practically unanimous sentiment in favor of state aid to denominational schools. It was formerly feared that state aid would be followed by undue and too absolute a regulation on the part of the state. Recent history, however, has to a great extent dispelled this fear."
The depression through which we have been passing for the past few years has weighed heavily on the schools that receive no state aid. There has in consequence been more discussion of this subject than formerly. The result of this discussion has made it clear that the average citizen of the state who gives the matter any thought at all realizes the injustice that has been done in the past to the schools that have been giving a secular education, equal at least to that of the public schools, and which have received no state aid.
"It seems to me that this bill should be favored by all fair minded citizens, and I am quite sure that it will be if its provisions are brought to their attention. It will be well for us then to acquaint ourselves with this measure and to do all we can to make clear its aims and objects. The bill should be reported out of committee and passed and the people of the state given the opportunity to express their views on this very important proposal. The proposed amendment would of course have to be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection."
Rev. Joseph H. Goffel, rector of Holy Family Church, also spoke on the subject. He thought that we had nothing to fear from state regulation, and that in many respects we had derived considerable benefit from the interest that the state and its officials have taken in our schools.
President Joseph T. Otto, Raymond Herml, Lorenz Weis and many others also discussed the proposition.

Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus at its regular meeting held Thursday evening of last week in the K. of C. room, Columbus Civic Center Building went on record in opposing the Bill introduced into the United States Senate by Senator Hastings of Delaware to remove restrictions against the dissemination of birth control device and information.
A resolution drafted by a committee appointed by Grand Knight Dr. Walter B. O'Neill and consisting of Chairman C. Vincent Wiser, Advocate Hamlet A. Smyth, Past Advocate Frederick J. Mix and Philip H. Donnelly was ordered sent to the two United States Senators from New York State.
The resolution stated "WHEREAS, a bill, known as Senate Bill number 1842, has been introduced in the Senate of the United States, proposing amendments to existing laws, which if enacted, would permit the importation of contraceptive devices and allow the transmission of the same with information relative thereto by United States mails, and, "WHEREAS, we believe that such legislation favoring the changes proposed in said bill, is a departure from the traditional Christian conception of morality as expressed in the laws sought to be amended; that it is subversive of the moral order in that it will injure the family as the unit of society, and encourage an individualism destructive of the social body of national life and economic life and that it is destructive of our country's peace, prosperity and well-being."
"NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that Rochester Council, No. 178, Knights of Columbus of Rochester, New York, voice its vigorous protest to the proposed legislation, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Senators of the State of New York and the Senate Committee conducting the hearing on said bill."
