Extensive Dramatic Spectacle To Climax Centennial Celebration at Edgerton Park

One hundred years of progress will be celebrated with elaborate yet fitting ceremonies by the city of Rochester this summer. While features connected with the centennial have already taken place—the Inter-Faith dinner, the flower show and the music festival—the most important events are scheduled for the four weeks beginning August 11, at Edgerton Park.

A huge dramatic spectacle, written and produced by Edward Hungerford, whose tremendously successful Wings of a Century at Chicago and the great Fair of the Iron Horse at Baltimore attracted nation-wide attention, will be the culminating event of Rochester's CENTURY ON PARADE. It is entitled Pathways of Progress and will depict in a prologue and ten scenes upon a gigantic open-air stage and with the aid of a company of two hundred persons, forty horses, stage-coaches, automobiles and other highway vehicles, old and new, and locomotives working under their own steam, a series of dramatic episodes illustrating with much charm and in no little details, Rochester's growth and progress from a tiny hamlet at the Falls of the Genesee to an outstanding American city of today.

This brilliant spectacle will also enlist the services of a corps of dancers and a full symphony orchestra. It will show the folk of yesterday and their coming and goings in an intensely interesting fashion—Rochester watching Sam Bech jumping into the Falls of the Genesee—seeing the first canal boat and the first railroad train come to it—waving goodbye to the Boys in Blue marching off to war—the townfolk living their gay and colorful civic life for more than a century—history told in drama.

This thrilling spectacle will be presented in its own great outdoor theater, with four thousand seats. Triple stages will be used, and two famous actors, serving as narrators, will tell the story through loud speakers as the glamorous tale is visualized on the vast stages. The colorful and picturesque costumes of the early century, the quaint styles of the Civil War period, and the grotesque clothes that were the "smart thing" in 1900, will add much to the realistic picture of a people who journeyed by ox-cart and stage coach in the early years of the city's history. Canal boats, horse-drawn trolleys, bicycles with huge wheels, horseless carriages, as well as the DeWitt Clinton one of the first practical locomotives, with its train of primitive stage coaches, will all contribute to the glamorous effect.

TAKE STEPS TO GUARD AGAINST THE FIRE HAZARD

Fight Fire with Proper FIRE INSURANCE PROTECTION

THE FACTS:

FIRE THREATENS ---EVERYWHERE

THERE may appear to be something remote in precautions which have been taken against the danger of fire, by Governor Herbert H. Lehman in closing the Adirondacks to tourists because of the drought.

That danger also exists in Western New York.

Woodlands hereabouts in which the dead leaves of last Fall remain as tinder to feed destructive fires are a hazard which ought to be understood by anyone who visits them.

Fields that are burned brown from the roadside to far beyond are a menace which the scorching sun has brought to this region on few occasions in previous Junes.

It is a time for care in the use of fire.

A lighted match, cigar or cigaret butt thrown in the dry grass might furnish the embers for a fire which would bring greater losses to those now suffering much.

Be careful during the drought, at least.

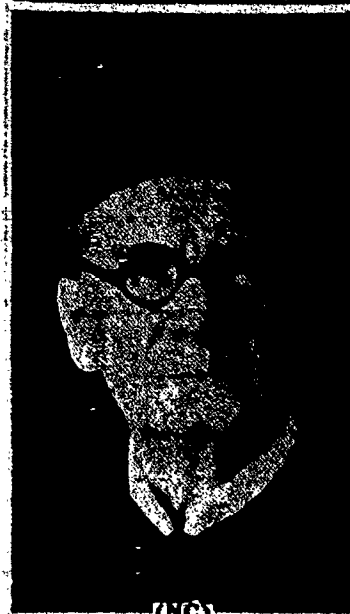

—Rochester Journal.

Fr. Quirk Speaker At Rosary Society Owasco Lake Dinner

Auburn.—More than 200 members of the Rosary and Scapular Society of St. Mary's Church attended its annual banquet Thursday evening at Springside Inn, west shore of Owasco Lake. Rev. Dr. William E. Cowen, pastor, acted as toastmaster.

Rev. Bartholomew L. Quirk, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Seneca Falls, a graduate of St. Mary's School, was the guest speaker. In his address Father Quirk recalled the days of his boyhood in Auburn and paid a glowing tribute to the zeal and priestly character of Father Mulhern who at that time was pastor of St. Mary's. Brief addresses were given by Dr. Cowen and Rev. Robert H. Fennessy, assistant at St. Mary's parish. Vocal selections were rendered by Miss Margaret Gaynor and Miss Lucy Dolister. Mrs. William P. Hollman, general chairman of the banquet, was assisted by a committee on reception with Mrs. Frances Foster as chairman; a committee on decorations, of which Mrs. James H. Brophy was chairman; an entertainment committee, headed by Miss Margaret Gaynor; and a reservation committee with Mrs. William Walsh as chairman.

The Rosary and Scapular Society is in a flourishing condition and active in promoting its program of spiritual and religious activity. Mrs. David D. Hulbert is president; Mrs. Frances Foster, vice-president; Mrs. John T. Doyle, treasurer; and Miss Mary Barry, secretary.

FORTY YOUNG WOMEN RECEIVE DEGREES AT NAZARETH COLLEGE

Nazareth College Alumnae Association, on the eve of their Commencement at Nazareth and Hamilton College, held at the campus. The forty members were presented with the diploma by Miss Marion Fay, the president, and Sister Teresa Marie, the college dean. Miss Mildred Durbin, president of the college faculty, who is a member of Kappa Gamma Pi and affiliated with the Rochester Chapter. The new members will be feted a tea in their honor to be given at the college Sunday afternoon by the local chapter of the Society.

Dr. Fenwick Speaks
In his address, Dr. Fenwick traced the gradual growth of law from simple rules of individual conduct to complex regulations of larger groups as civilization has progressed through the centuries. Referring to the United States, Dr. Fenwick said that after nearly a century and a half of experience no one would think of questioning the advantages of settling disputes through the Supreme Court rather than have each State of the Union resort to force when it has a claim against another State.

"The great question before the world today is whether we can persuade the nations to submit their disputes to the arbitration of the Permanent Court at the Hague rather than resort to war against one another," the speaker emphasized.

With a note of warning, Dr. Fenwick stated "If each nation is to continue to be the judge in its own case, as it has been in the past, then there is no hope of avoiding a succession of wars and the prospect of disarmament becomes more and more distant. At present we are witnessing a revival of nationalism and there is grave danger that a spark may kindle a great conflagration. It is therefore vitally important that every effort be made to bring the nations together on the basis of their common interests, rather than to stress their mutual differences."

"In this task of international cooperation Catholics, whose religious ideals cut across national boundary lines, should play a prominent part. It is a good omen for the future," the Commencement speaker concluded, "that so many students in our colleges and universities are concerned with the great problem of international law and justice."

Baccalaureate Address
On the Sunday preceding the Commencement Day, the entire student body and faculty marched in solemn procession into St. Patrick's Cathedral to hear the Baccalaureate Sermon delivered by the Rev. Michael J. Ready of Washington, D. C., Assistant general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference. Father Ready reviewed the religious situation of the world today and urged upon the young graduates a course of courageous self-sacrifice for their ideals and active intellectual charity towards their contemporaries. The sermon was followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament with the Rev. John Napier of the college faculty officiating and the Reverends Norbert Wagner and John O'Donnell of Aquinas Institute acting as deacons.
