What About Your Will?
Is your last will and testament an evidence of your spiritual allegiance? When making your will you should not forget your soul nor that the goods of this earth are to be used and not abused, to be employed, among other things, for God's honor and glory and the welfare of your less fortunate brethren.
There is no better way of disposing of earthly possessions, after other obligations, personal, parochial, diocesan, have been fulfilled, than by making them serve the cause of the missions.
The Society for the Propagation of the Faith is the Holy See's main organization for the support of all missions.

Upholding the Highest Standards

The first parts of this series have stressed several general—but very important—points on choosing a funeral director in the proper way and at the proper time.
THUS IT has shown that one may most wisely select in advance the funeral director who is to render services when the need arises. Also, the factors that should be weighed in making that selection have been clearly indicated.
THE FUNERAL director worthy of your confidence and respect will be thoroughly trained in his profession, and duly licensed. He will combine the best attributes of the professional and business man. You will recognize his fitness by the character of his personnel and equipment.
FINALLY, the funeral director of your choice will adhere strictly to ethical practices in rendering his important services. His establishment must be dedicated to upholding the highest standards of the profession.
