

PERSONAL SANCTIFICATION NEEDED AMONG COLLEGE GIRLS, FR. LORD SAYS

"It is the work of the Sodality in the colleges to permeate the students with the realization that they must be saving themselves and being Catholic Philosophy to bear on their lives," said the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., National Sodality Director, in addressing approximately 200 students at Nazareth College, November 2.

"I am convinced," said Father Lord, "that Catholic college students consider their religion a burden instead of something with which to reconstruct a world."

"Everyone knows that the social order of today is rotten," he said, "yet there is dynamite in the Catholic Church which can blow up the rottenness in the world. Religion is the greatest of revolutions to reconstruct a world."

Pointing out that thinkers are swinging to Christianity, Father Lord compared English thinkers of today: Baring, Sheila Kaye-Smith, Ronald Knox and Boloc with the anti-religious, anti-social and anti-God: Wells, Shaw, Galsworthy and Sinclair Lewis, of ten years ago.

"Catholic college students of today must stop sleeping through their college courses," said Father Lord, "and by proving that outside of the Church there is no coherent thought, bring the world back to the happy times of their fathers."

Two Bishops Will Assist At Mission Mass In Cathedral

of the great quake which on January 15 rocked northern India, the Holy Father of his own initiative asked immediately for an inquiry regarding the mission losses.

He expressed special sympathy at the time for Bishop Sullivan, for while stations in half a dozen ecclesiastical divisions were injured, the epicenter of the quake was within the confines of the Diocese of Patna.

"In the midst of our many woes," states Bishop Sullivan, "it was wonderfully heartening to know that the Holy Father thought of us and prayed for us. Certainly he is the great leader of Christendom who is inspiring men on every continent to give of their best."

"I was travelling by train when the earthquake occurred," explained the Bishop. "I found myself in one of the regions most severely hit. For a time I had little opportunity to think of our general losses. I was in a sea of suffering, for the hospitals were unable to cope with the task of caring for the thousands of injured and dying men, women and children. We all had to lend a common hand to organize relief for the enormous population, beside itself with fear and apprehension, broken by the sight of the destruction of all that it possessed."

"Our missions gave what means they had, first to buy food, then to fight disease."

"Many of our churches and other buildings were reduced to a shambles. In one the Blessed Sacrament lay buried for 48 hours. When we counted our losses we found 18 buildings, including 10 churches, had been completely destroyed, while 17 buildings, including six churches, had been seriously damaged. Every school, rectory, convent had some injury to report, large or small. Our losses reckoned in money were 860,000 rupees, about $225,000.

"The gallant way our fellow Catholics in India hurried to our aid was enough to bring tears to our eyes. Even the lowly aborigines of the Chota Nagpore missions gathered together 500 rupees, all in pennies for the poor. Friends in Europe and America were likewise good and we were able to secure 30,000 rupees for temporary relief work."

"We have constructed temporary sheds for worship and the Government will help us replace our schools but now we must care definitely for our most urgent needs. We figure these at 300,000 rupees about $80,000."

"The Lord has sent us this cross but He has been very good to us during these first years in India of the Chicago province of the Society of Jesus. Since 1929, when I was consecrated, my priests have increased 300 Catholic population from 6,000 to 15,000, and there is a future before us which promises wonderful and exciting progress. We are not discouraged in our undertakings but we realize that we must work very hard to pull ourselves out of the mire."

Knights Reaffirm Allegiance To Church's Stand on Birth Control

Following an address given by the Rev. Benedict A. Ehmann of St. Andrew's Seminary on the subject, "Contraceptive Birth Control," before Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus, last Thursday evening, a resolution committee appointed by Grand Knight, Dr. Walter B. O'Neill met and issued the following resolution:

"Members of Rochester Council, No. 178, Knights of Columbus reaffirm their loyalty in the Catholic Church's unwavering stand in the matter of contraceptive birth control. The moral evil of contraception consists in the fact that it is a deliberate frustration and perversion of a natural function which the divine Creator has placed in human nature for the propagation of the race.

"The law against contraception is not a mere law of the Church, but a law of nature. The Church can never change it or make compromises against it; as the authorized spokesman of God on earth, the church has the solemn duty of asserting and emphasizing not only those truths which God has taught us in revelation but also those other truths which God has placed in human nature as the indispensable condition of its physical and moral well-being.

Let's See! PRIMITIVE man used his eyes almost entirely outdoors. When the sun went down he crawled into his cave to sleep. Most of his 'seeing' was long range. He did no reading and had little close-up work to do. Primitive eyes had it comparatively easy. Even up to our early pioneering days, very few persons studied, read or sewed as we often do today—far into the night. Today, however, we give our eyes tasks to do for which they are not completely adapted. We subject them to close-up seeing indoors under inadequate lighting; we make them work nights as well as days. It is little wonder that we are burdened with defective vision, quite generally. Have Your EYES EXAMINED Adequate lighting is a necessary aid to SEEING, but it is not a cure for defective vision.
