New Agreement Signed In order to eliminate all possibility of misunderstanding in the interpretation of the Treaty of Mytilene, a new agreement was signed in 1913 in which the rights and privileges of the Catholics in the Holy Land were set forth.

1. Acknowledgment on the part of the Ottoman Government of the legal existence of all the institutes under the French protectorate. 2. Exemption of these institutes from all land taxes and from all municipal and custom duties.

These privileges, granted by the Ottoman Government to the Catholic institutions in appreciation of the educational and charitable work done by the Religious Congregations to the benefit of the local population, could not but be recognized also by the Mandatory Power which succeeded Turkey in the administration of Palestine, the Catholics here insist.

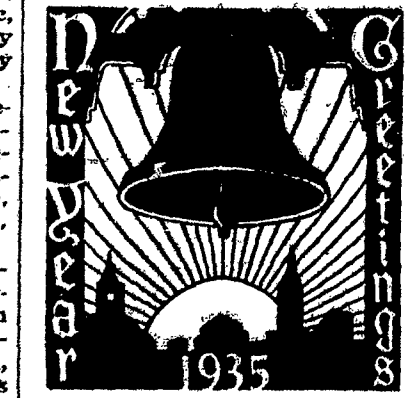

Moreover, it is pointed out, the English Government, itself an officially confirmed several times the privileged situation of the Catholic shall be done against the civil and religious rights of the non-Jewish communities.
