MOONLIGHT MANOR

A Romantic Story
With Scenes Laid in the Genesee Valley
By AGNES HORSCH HOFFMASTER

CHAPTER I
Maryann Changes Her Name
Maryann had a small stone in her shoe. Right under the arch of her foot. She was running rather badly, because she was trying to save time and pain at the same moment for what was the use in sitting down, taking off one's pump and extracting the stone, when the Manor was but a stone's throw distant and there were strawberries for breakfast. It is there, would be strawberries if some one hadn't eaten them all up. Maryann bobbed along faster. She was starved after a long night at the switchboard and Mom always had something good to eat in the morning if she got there in time.

Why Experience Is Important in Registered Pharmacists
Your doctor will tell you that "in Pharmacy as in all other things, experience is the best teacher." Long experience with all of the numberless details of compounding prescriptions will make even a registered pharmacist better. LET'S GET DOWN TO "BRASS TACKS" ON THIS QUESTION
The following editorial appeared in the New York Herald Tribune on December 26, 1934:

Wanted: Less Fire and More Light
Whatever may be the basis of the controversy between the power industry in the one hand and those in and through the Administration on the other, one point has stood out clearly in the several clashes that have occurred: the controversy on its merits has come from between the two in the last few weeks. That is this: Every effort that has been made to see the controversy on its merits has come from the utilities while every effort to avoid a full discussion of the utilities' position on the utilities' part has been made by the Administration.
