BRISBANE'S PURPOSE SEEN TO BE CLEAR
CHURCH'S PART IN REFORM OF CALENDAR
REFORMATION EFFECT ON GALILEO CASE

In various conferences I had with Julius Caesar instituted the Reform before Christmas, we had much of the Calendar calculated that the [illegible] Flower and the order of [illegible] Jesuited Carmelites, also about [illegible] Brisbane and I [illegible] that there was much more to be said on these subjects. Perhaps you [illegible] about that promise. But don't be [illegible] We will return to these matters often. They did not seem [illegible] just appropriate topics for the Christmastide.

In the meantime a friend of mine, for whose judgment I have great respect, has come to tell me that he thought I treated Arthur Brisbane with undue severity. But what am I to do? When a man, in the full light of the 20th century, with great pretensions to learning and a pride of intimate knowledge, comes forward to tell us that in the time of Copernicus and Galileo, "men" of the type of the Roman Ecclesiastics who condemned Galileo, or rather decreed him [illegible] believed that the Alexandrian [illegible] by Julius Caesar was [illegible] that with four [illegible] and the angle at each [illegible] what am I to do?

One of Two Things

This statement, and a score of others which he made in his two articles on Galileo, must be due either to ignorance of the history and especially of the history of the times about which he writes, or to deliberate misrepresentation. In either case I must treat them as such.

Finally, the Council of Trent took no action on Galileo, but only [illegible] The Pope appointed a commission, although he [illegible] and one of [illegible] XIII's successors [illegible] Hence it is clear enough that the Church as such had nothing to do with the Galileo controversy, but only with an explanation drawn from his theory which was [illegible]

Change Opposed

Now for the point I [illegible] Brisbane and [illegible] indicated that there was much more to be said on these subjects. Perhaps you [illegible] thought I had forgotten all about that promise. But don't be [illegible] We will return to these matters often. They did not seem [illegible] just appropriate topics for the [illegible]
