MOONLIGHT MANOR
A Romantic Story
With Scenes Laid in the Genesee Valley
By AGNES HORSCHHOFF MASTER

Maryanna's cheek flushed brightly and she looked straight ahead. After all, she thought, it was a mean thing to do to Owen Kennedy. He'd find out, about her smoochy sooty 'nd maybe he'd put them out of the Manor (but he probably wouldn't). Would he? Why hadn't she read any of his letters to Andy? Was he so different, with her? Oh dear, O Blessed Mother. She turned impulsively.

"I don't want you to be lovelier than I am. Why do you do that? I know. But really - oh I can't tell you."

19--Do You Remember--31

On April 29th, 1931, President Hoover received in the White House to pay him honor a boy named Bryan Untied, aged 13, a hero of a school bus tragedy in Towner, Colorado.

In the winter of 1931, Bryan, with many other children, was a passenger on a school bus which was struck in a snow drift during a blinding blizzard. While the bus driver walked for help, Bryan awoke the others, helped to keep them warm, and made them stay awake many long hours until help came. Those who were frozen were frozen to death. It was only by the heroic efforts of this boy the President honored that the lives of most of the children were saved.

It was necessary for this young man to call upon his every last ounce of reserve and energy and courage to pull himself through. In the reaching of any goal, it is necessary to call upon reserve. A reserve in your savings account, built up by small regular weekly deposits, will help you in times of stress. Save every pay-day. Such a program pays big dividends in security and peace of mind.

Don Bosco Fraternity Attend Retreat Given By Rev. Joseph Vogt

The Rev. Joseph Vogt, assistant pastor of St. Boniface Church and widely known for work among boys, conducted a one-day retreat on Good Friday for members of the Don Bosco Fraternity. His subject was "The Religious Foundation of Christianity."

Following the retreat the members expressed their appreciation to Father Vogt for his timely advice and kindness in giving the retreat.

The drive for funds to enable the Fraternity to carry on its work is nearing the close. Leaders of the Fraternity report that donations are sent in. All donations large or small, may be sent to James J. Ehrmann, 50 Chestnut Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Apparitions of the Fraternity is extended to all who have thus far given in the campaign.

then Maryanna then'll come back and get you. If you'll come home with me.

"Well we'll not argue on that. Owen. Everybody knows a good man when he sees him. But there's many a girl before you quaff the joy cup. Recall that, me Brave. Look there now. A June sunset. All will be well. That's the old Indian ideal. All is well."

"Yes," agreed Owen, "the mystery is cleared up, beautifully, for I give you my word of honor, I am as decent a man as can be, Maryanna. Who hopes for a why what's he matter?"

"I was just thinking that, we'd better not spill the secret yet. It's of course not. But you will have to take care."

"Oh! I wasn't meaning anything like that."

"What were you meaning then?"

"I mean I wonder well (Owen) who is Peter Smith? And what's he to Andy? Both of them deny acquaintance. But he certainly asked for her. What's it all about? Who is this Peter?"

They rode into the heart of the sun thinking.

CHAPTER XXI
Owen Makes a Pledge
Wednesday was a marvelous day and had fair to produce fair weather for the dance tomorrow night. Everybody worth knowing in town, would come out for the affair. The men in overalls and the girls in sunbonnets and old-fashioned Mother Hubbard gowns. The mammoth barn rearing skyward, stood on property that formerly belonged to Moonlight Manor. At the edge of the pasture, in the where Weyburns' choicest mares were pastured. Most of these, too, were descendants of the Manor stock and one or two of the ancestors still survived. Like Old Lady Joy, who was the talk of the country.

"All day long the Weyburns prepared for the coming event, and Larry haunted Mom O'Doone's kitchen in search of this, that and the other. Elation of course was in school. But Maryanna and Andy and the three men guests were having the grandest time that ever happened to them in all their lives. Peter Smith was on the roof, the utmost pinnacle of the roof or die in the attempt he had a sack full of confetti streamers tied to his back as he scaled the ladders and beams like a monkey. Watch for the publicity we are giving you during the tournament.
The boxes on the front page and promotion ads in other parts of the paper will contain ideas and suggestions to help you in obtaining new orders.

The first round of the tournament ends this Saturday noon April 27. Be sure to turn in all orders you have obtained by that time. Your total number of orders determines your progress in the tournament so that there is no room for error in holding them back. Don't take chances on being eliminated.

Remember that order cards must be signed by the subscriber to have them count towards your standing. For your protection, we are making no exceptions to this rule.

A selling hint: By reading only secular papers and magazines, Catholics are missing very many and often entirely wrong impressions of Catholic events. To protect their own faith Catholics should read Catholic books and subscribe to a Catholic paper.
