Fr. Eugene B. Hudson Eulogy

Delivered by the Rev. Walter A. Foery, S. T. L., Ph. D., pastor of Holy Rosary Church at the Pontifical Funeral Mass celebrated by Archbishop Mooney for Father Hudson in Holy Rosary Church, Saturday, May 25. Father Hudson who died May 21, was a former editor of the CATHOLIC COURIER.

"No man, no matter how great a power he wields, no matter how world-wide his influence, no matter how great the glory of his achievements, possesses greater dignity than a priest. On the day of his ordination when his soul is marked with the sacred character of Holy Orders, he carries away with him a dignity which is not human, but divine -not temporal, but eternal.

"If it is of great importance that God should be honored, if it is of great matter that man should know the way to eternal life and should have the means to follow that way then sublime is the dignity of him who is the instrument, throught which this is accomplished.

"If it is of great consequence that each generation of the Church should hear the voice of Christ teaching the way, the truth and the light, and that men whose souls have been touched by sin need the healing touch of the hand of Christ, and if it is of great matter that the sacrifice of Calvary should be offered from the rising to the setting of the sun, we cannot escape the conclusion that the excellence of the priest's office surpasses all human dignity.

Carries On

"The Priesthood is not of today nor yesterday, but it stretches back through the centuries to that ever memorable night when Christ on the eve of his passion and death ordained his Apostles (HIS FIRST PRIESTS). He had given them wondrous powers, powers that would change the face of the earth. He had made them as it were an extension of Himself. He was to leave the world, but they were to continue Him in it. He had redeemed man, but the Apostles were to apply the means of redemption to the soul of men. This was Our Lord's plan. With the coming of the Holy Ghost on Pentecost Sunday they began their sacred mission -a mission that was to last until the end of time. With the passage of the years the Apostles died, but their priesthood did not perish from the earth. The priest dies, but the priesthood never.

"The powers which our Blessed Lord gave to the first priest have been handed down and transmitted to other priests. Back through the centuries we can go and follow priest succeeding priest in constant order, and according to the design of the Divine Redeemer perpetuating his work and carrying salvation to all who would accept the Divine message. Hence, it is that each year new recruits are added to the priesthood to take the places of those who have finished their work.

Gallant Struggle

"Four years ago Eugene Hudson was making his immediate preparations for his ordination to this priesthood. He was coming to the end of a victorious struggle that he had gallantly made to attain the objective of his life. With a body that was never robust, with health that continually threatened his very life, but with a soul that desired with desire to give what he had to the service of the Church, he triumphantly reaches the goal.

"One ideal pushed him on. A great motivating force sustained him--the strength of an unwavering faith in the Christ of his heart gave power to his body that staggered his physicians, and courage to his soul that sent strong men away wondering about its source. He was ordained a priest. The hands of the consecrating Bishop, the successor of the Apostles, were laid upon his head the Holy Spirit was breathed into his soul. His hands were anointed with Holy Chrism, and he was given power to offer the Holy Sacrifice both for the living and the dead. The commission of Christ, to go forth and teach, was given him, and the power to forgive sin was conferred upon him. In his heart there was a desire to make use of these powers. In his soul there was the desire to so use them that he would achieve things for Christ. He understood that if his years were many or few, that his priesthood was the extension of priesthood of His Divine Master, and the success of it must be measured by his standards. What are those standards?

"The priest's life is successful when he toils for the extension of the Kingdom of God among men. When he propagates the faith, when he wears himself out to bring men to participate in the redemption when in obedience to the command of Our Lord he teaches men to 'observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you.' With these standards clear before his mind Father Hudson set out upon a glorious and fruitful career. To some this might seem to be a misstatement of facts to some it may appear that by reason of his protracted illness he possessed powers that he could not use within him there flamed the desire to do, but that desire was never translated into action that the zeal to accomplish hings was thwarted by physical handicap. This is not true.

Never Inactive

"Father Hudson was never inactive From out of a sick room there came an influence there came powerful effective preaching of the Christian Philosophy of Life. True it is his sermons which he preached from the pulpits of our churches were few in number, but the sermons that he preached from the pulpit of his sick room were far more persuasive and what is more important, they were effective. He had accepted Christ not on his own terms, but on Christ's terms. He had accepted the teaching of the Divine Teacher in its totality. In his acceptance of the Master he recognized his Royal Kingship, he acknowledged His Divinity. He saw in Him--His Saviour, His Redeemer, but he saw too in our Blessed Lord the man of Sorrows, the man of suffering. 'Take up Thy Cross,' said our Blessed Lord, 'and Follow Me.' Our Blessed Lord never asked his followers to lead the way. He never asks us to accept a cross the weight of which He Himself had not felt. He never invites us to suffer any pain, the intensity of which He Himself has not endured. He never exposes us to the crucifixion of body or spirit that does not find Him still leading the way to a Calvary of greater suffering. The Gospel is the priest's text book, and from it he may not deviate. In that text book we find the lesson of sickness and suffering. It must be told to Our Lord's followers. Easy enough it is to speak about it—easy enough to tell what Our Lord wants done in such circumstances and in such situations, but it is far more effective to teach by example. This is the sermon so effectively, so powerfully preached by Father Hudson. NO HE WAS NEVER INACTIVE.

"A few weeks ago when he told us about his desire to go to the hospital for a further examination, he preached to several of us a sermon on 'Death.' Do you realize, he said, that Christ never spoke about the terrors of death. How true this is -you may take your New Testament and from cover to cover you will search in vain for any reference of Christ to the bodily death that so often fills us with dread in our own case, and with sorrow at the time of the death of another. In fact Our Lord seemed totaly to ignore it. This dissolution of our vital forces this ending of physical life He seemed not even to call death. Death to Him was the eternal death that comes only to us who will not accept life at His hands. 'I have come that you may have life and have it more abundantly.' And this abundant life which he gives through His Church and Sacraments is not, according to his own words interrupted even by bodily death, but passes through it as through a door into a more perfect and completed state.

Taught How to Live

"Father Hudson had so thoroughly grasped this truth that death had lost its dreadful aspect. It was not the grim uninvited visitor who forces his way into the banquet hall of life and bids us be gone from the feast, but a messenger of light who whispers to us 'Rise' Take my hand and come.'

"No, he was never inactive He taught us how to live with suffering as a constant companion. He was now teaching us how to die. Our observation of him during his illness taught us that he had acquired a technique by which he was able to make what was apparently inactivity activity. Experience had taught him that he could not restrain his wish to make use of his priestly powers. That desire was so strong and so powerful within him that he came to the conclusion that he had to find some outlet for their use. To attempt to stifle that desire would add to his suffering. Therefore, he would make use of them He would transfer them into a field of action where priests win little applause, and acquire little popularity, but a field which is definitely a part of the Christian life. He would be resigned to the will of God, but with a resignation that gave no evidence of hopeless surrender, that had in it no evidence of defeat, of failure or despair. The restless, tireless spirit within him could only find rest by finding work. NO! FATHER HUDSON WAS NEVER INACTIVE.

Rich Heritage

"In the record of his short priestly life there will be written no account of the Churches he built or the schools constructed under his supervision, he leaves no material monuments to mark his passage through this life, but to the Diocese of Rochester he bequeathes a heritage that spiritually enriches us all. An active life spent in what appeared to be inactivity.

"Thirty-one years ago God gave Gene Hudson to his mother, as His Gift to Her, and on Tuesday evening she gave back Father Hudson, the priest, her son, as her gift to God. May God Bless her, may He bless the members of her family. She has been generous with Christ—She has given much. In her generosity with God she has not lost her gift. She has given him that He might have life, and have it more abundantly."

Business Women's Group To See Movies At Coming Meeting

On Monday evening, June 3, at 6:30, the Business Women's Group of the Catholic Women's Club will hold their last meeting of the year. It will be a supper meeting with Miss Rose T. Herlihy as chairman. The supper will be followed by a business meeting at which a nominating committee will be named to choose the officers of the group for next year. The social program will consist of showing motion pictures of local Catholic interest. There will be pictures of the activities of the late Bishop O'Hern, of the ceremonies of installation of Archbishop Mooney, of Camp Madonna and a Fox film.

The beginners' class in contract bridge will meet with Mrs. Bradford Noyes on Tuesday evening at 8 15 o'clock.

Wednesday evening at 8:30, the annual card party will be given by St Mary's Junior League for the benefit of St. Mary's Boys' Home The funds realized from this party defray the expenses of a picnic supper which will be held this year on June 20 at Seneca Park and which will be attended by the boys of the home, by the nuns and the spiritual director, the Rev Hubert J. Bisky. Mrs. Walter A. Knapp, chairman of the League, has named Miss Margaret E. Rosengreen as chairman of the card party. A short business meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

The last board meeting of the year will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock. It will be the first meeting to be attended by the new members of the board and chairmen of standing committees.

Sunday afternoon, June 9, at 3 30, the last meeting of the Poetry Group for this season will be conducted by Miss Edna Engelhardt. The leader wishes the members to submit original poems on "June."

Camp Madonna will open its summer season on Canandaigua Lake on June 30, and continue until August 18, under the direction of Miss Kathryn M. Gaffney.

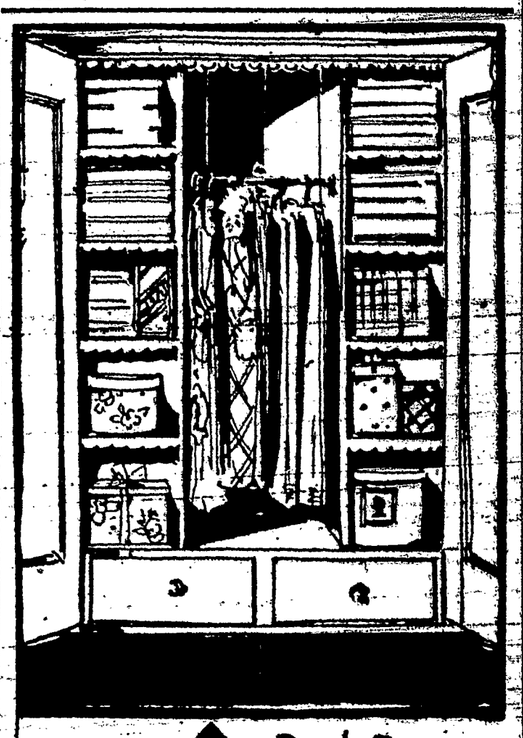
MODERNIZE NOW!



EXTRA BEDROOM CLOSET

MANY times, in modernizing an old house, we find limited room for a bedroom closet. I have found it convenient to build the closet in one corner of the room, making it a decorative feature of the room as well as a useful adjunct.

This closet, you will notice, has a pair of long doors which swing over the hanging space and shelves.

The interior is divided by two vertical boards between which a rod is hung and over which the clothes hangers fit.

The space on either side of the vertical boards, which varies in depth due to the angle of the wall, is used for shelves.

Below are two drawers.

Finish above the doors with wallboard and paper directly over it, matching the room paper.

Carefully consider the storage space you require for your household. Re-analyze your family's needs in terms of closets.

The children may now be grown up and require a varying set-up.

Think of the storage space for the winter's clothes and the arrangements for cleaning and housekeeping appliances.
