Churches Built for Indians

A new epoch in the mission work among the Navajo Indians, who have the largest Indian Reservation in the United States, was marked with the dedication of two new churches at Naschitt and Shiprock, New Mexico, built through the assistance of the Marquette League. The photos show the Church of Christ the King, at Shiprock, and the Most Rev. Rudolph A. Gerken, Archbishop of Santa Fe, with a group of his beloved Indians, Franciscan clergy and Sisters who participated in the ceremonies.

TWO INDIAN TELLS TRUTH ABOUT OFFER CHURCHES ARE DEDICATED MADE DIONNES

Santa Fe, N. Mex. (NCWC)—What may easily mark the beginning of a new epoch in the mission work among the Navajo Indians was the dedication of two new churches by the Most Rev. Rudolph A. Gerken, Archbishop of Santa Fe. The churches were built with the assistance of the Marquette League, which donated $3,000 for the new church at Shiprock.

The church at Naschitt was dedicated with Mass celebrated by the Rev. Arnold Heinemann, O. F. M., Superior, Episcopio. The Archbishop preached the sermon with the aid of an interpreter.

After the dedicatory ceremonies the Archbishop, together with six priests, two Sisters of the Holy Sacrament from St. Michaels, Arizona, and two Franciscan Sisters, Missionaries of Mary from Holy Angels Convent, St. Michaels, Arizona, joined the Indians in their picnic dinner consisting of barbecued mutton, beans, and Indian bread or doughnuts. All spent the afternoon in the vicinity of the church to witness the games and Indian sports which formed a part of the great Feast Day. Horse races and foot races were participated in by the squaws and young women as well as by the men.

The party then drove with the Archbishop 80 miles north through the desert to Shiprock, where the commodious and substantial rock church was dedicated to Christ the King. The church at Naschitt was dedicated to St. Anthony.

Preached in English. The Archbishop dedicated the church at Shiprock amid great solemnity with 18 priests, 10 Sisters, and two Brothers present. After the dedication, the Archbishop celebrated a Solemn Pontifical Mass and preached a sermon in English. The Rev. Marcellus Tröster, O. F. M., preached in the Navajo language. The music of the Mass was sung by local talent of both Catholics and non-Catholics employed by the Government at the schools and Indian agencies.

After the services all the clergy, Sisters and visitors, 100 in number, were tendered a dinner at the Government Employees Clubhouse, while the Navajo Indians enjoyed another barbecue picnic dinner.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. William J. Flynn, director general of the Marquette League in New York, made several trips through the Navajo region and succeeded in finding two benefactors who donated the essential means for completing the two new churches.

"That the Government ought to make such arrangements and use its influence to bring about arrangements which will make possible peaceful settlements of controversies and relieve labor of the necessity of resorting to strikes in order to secure equitable conditions and the right to be heard;

"That the ideal government should be through legislation and through co-operation between employers and workers to make every job the best, that the human mind can devise as to physical conditions and the right to be heard;

Government Should Encourage
"That government should encourage such organization and development of wage earners as will give status and stability to labor as a recognized important group of citizens having a contribution to make to the economic, political, thought and to the cultural life of the community;

"That government ought to arrange that labor play its part in the study and development of any economic policy for the future of the United States; and

"That the Government should encourage mutually between labor and employers in the improvement of production and in the development of a program of self-government in the public interest. If labor's rights are defined by law and by government, then certain obligations will, of course, be imposed on labor which those obligations should be defined by labor itself and that such discipline as is necessary should be self-imposed and not imposed from without.

"That the Government should encourage professional codes of ethics in modern society."

A Story Corner For Children

THE TEST OF BRAVERY
HERE is a little story told about a farmer's son who came running in to his father crying, "Father, you know that vicious boy Robin who goes to our school?"

"Yes," said his father, "you have often told me how fearful of things he appears to be. That other boy don't worry over."

"And so he is!" cried the son, "and you should have seen him just now as I did! Talk about the shivery-shakes! Oh, my!"

"Why what was the cause of it?" asked the father.

"Well," said his son with a chuckle, "Robin and his sister were crossing our field where the young bull and I and he were what should the bull do but give a toad and make for them like a runaway to do? True, it was splendid!

Converted at Lourdes

Chicago (NCWC)—Mrs. Jean May, member of a socially prominent Chicago family who is convert to the faith, is preparing to return to Lourdes, France, the scene of her conversion. It will be the fifth time Mrs. May has made the trip, the fourth time as a Catholic. "I make this trip every year," said Mrs. May, "and every year is addressing a group of Catholic club women here. The same services as I did that summer five years ago are given by the same women at the famous shrine. Although my health was good it seems even better at Lourdes and the same strenuous duties are the same."

Mrs. May does not hesitate to say that her first visit to Lourdes was little more than that of an interested spectator. "But I was amazed and edified when I saw women who were suffering from various ailments in the same kind of ways as I because of their great love for the Blessed Lady," she said. "I am now looking forward to return to Lourdes as an act of thanksgiving."
