Even the "Forgotten Man" Pays Taxes.

You want the proof? Well, here it is: Processing taxes on Pork Loins 4.86 cents per pound Processing taxes on Bacon 4.29 cents per pound Processing taxes on Fresh Ham 4.93 cents per pound Processing taxes on Smoked Ham 5.15 cents per pound Processing taxes on Pork Sausage 1.71 cents per pound Excise taxes on Cigarettes 6 cents per package

These taxes are, of course, reflected in the prices at which the items are sold. The foregoing is only a small part of the "hidden tax" story but it's enough to make the "Forgotten Man" realize that at least he has not been forgotten by the government tax collector.

As the average domestic electric bill is only a few cents per day it seems perfectly obvious that the forgotten man, and every other man for that matter, should be primarily concerned with the ever increasing burden of taxation.
