HOLY SEE CITES CONCORDAT PROMISES

The Concordat between the Holy See and Germany.
 A protest made by the Most Rev. Clement von Galen, Bishop of Munster, Westphalia, against a mass meeting at which Alfred Rosenberg was the speaker, was made the occasion for new and unscrupulous denunciations of the Church throughout the country. Rosenberg himself intimated that the Bishop should be arrested. He was upheld by Secretary of the Interior Frick, who said Catholic associations and Catholic newspapers no longer had a right to existence. The Church, he said, should be compelled to respect all laws, even those running counter to doctrine.

Dr. Goering, Prussian Premier, added that dogmas were superfluous and that the only "miracle" he recognized was that wrought by Hitler in bringing the German nation to new life.
 The most severe legislative blow was that definitely limiting all existing Catholic youth groups to what is termed "strictly religious activities," excluding all sports.
 All attempts to settle out of court the mock trials of religious accused of violating the currency laws have failed. The French Dominican, Father Julian Hall, residing in Berlin, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary; the Rev. Ernest Vossage, a Vincentian, received one and a half years; the Rev. Martin Utsch, a Missionary of the Sacred Heart, received one year, and his assistant, the Rev. Rudolph Wilmsen, three years. In every case heavy fines were assessed in an attempt to bring about financial ruin of the religious Orders and thus confiscate Church property.
 Forty thousand dollars on deposit in a Berlin bank to the account of the Cardinal of Berlin has been confiscated. It being alleged that the money was accumulated by illegal public collection.

Franciscan Gets 2 Years
 The Rev. Benignus Schropp, a Franciscan of Mainz, Rhineland, was sentenced to two years in jail because of an article he wrote which was claimed to be "damaging to the good name of the German Army." Father Friesenbacher, of Coblenz, was sentenced to six months in jail for alleged criticism of Nazi self-defense association.
 The Governor of Osnabrueck issued a statement assailing the "refractory clergy" for their failure to fly the Nazi flag on Church buildings, accusing them of "political Catholicism."
 The Catholics of Germany have reacted to these persecutory measures by responding enthusiastically to the appeals of the Bishops and by participating in Church services, pilgrimages and retreats in larger numbers than ever before. In Munster, Bishop von Galen was given an imposing tribute by 20,000 persons marching under the Nazi colors on a State holiday. The diocesan newspaper in Munster has been suppressed because it published the Bishops' grateful acknowledgment of the many encouraging letters he has received from all sections of Germany.

In view of the growing difficulties, a special church ministry has been created at Berlin and entrusted to Hans Kerrl, one of the most radical Nazi officials, while both Premier Goering and Secretary of Justice Franz Guertner have issued instructions to the police to deal relentlessly with members of the clergy "undermining the State."
 Simultaneously with the setting up of this new ministry came the confiscation of a pastoral letter of the Most Rev. Maximilian Kaller, Bishop of East Prussia. The pastoral was to have been read in all churches on Sunday, protesting against the suppression of the diocesan newspaper and the interference with the activities of Catholic youth groups.
 The Most Rev. Kofrad Groeber, Archbishop of Freiburg, issued a pastoral letter affirming that Catholic youth groups would not disband voluntarily. The right of Catholics to oppose sterilization laws and to maintain their own organizations was asserted in a declaration read on Sunday in all Catholic pulpits in Germany.
 That the Church will not compromise is evidenced by the appointment of the Most Rev. Conrad Freyding as Bishop of Berlin. He is a man known for his profound piety and at the same time for his courage and energy in the defense of the faith.

Speed Eucharist Congress Plans In Cleveland

Cleveland (NCWC)—With the dates for the Seventh National Eucharistic Congress just two months away, preparations are being speeded in the Diocese of Cleveland. Four radio programs this week dealt with features of the great demonstration of faith, all of the Cleveland stations having donated time.

The Eucharistic Congress hymnals, prepared under the direction of the Permanent Committee of Bishops for Eucharistic Congresses, has been printed and is now being distributed. Uniformed societies of men and women have been requested to have their officers communicate with the Rt. Rev. Magr. Maurice Griffin, chairman of the Procession Committee.
 Announcement was made today by Dr. Francis P. Johns, chairman of the Music Committee, that Station WHK is broadcasting hymns every Tuesday evening. Listeners have been requested to get their hymnals and tune in for rehearsals.
 "Cleveland has been host to many important conventions and congresses, but never in all its history has it seen a Eucharistic Congress. There have been scientific congresses, social congresses, political congresses, each worth while in its own sphere."
 On Monday evening at 8 o'clock there is to be a civic reception to His Eminence the Cardinal Legate and his suite as well as to the Archbishops and Bishops of the United States who will grace the occasion with the presence.
 "Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock will witness the formal and solemn opening of the Congress with the Pontifical Mass by the Papal Legate. At this Mass will be read the Papal letter of greeting and blessing to the congress.
 "Wednesday and Thursday mornings will witness a like Pontifical Mass for the children and the women of this diocese. The music at these Masses to be sung on Tuesday by a select choir and on Wednesday by 20,000 children and on Thursday by some 15,000 women, will in each case be the church's own music, the plain chant.

"A special feature will be the solemn Pontifical Mass according to the Greek rite by His Excellency Bishop Basil Takach with a sermon by His Excellency Bishop Constantine Bohachevsky, the music by the choir of the priests of the Ukrainian and Ruthenian churches.

HOME IMPROVEMENTS

by Paul T. Haagen, A.I.A.

MODERNIZE NOW!

TERACE
 A terrace is generally thick enough, but if wagons or heavy vehicles are likely to drive over the concrete, six inches is the minimum thickness.
 Usually two by four are used for side forms, being held in place by stakes driven along the outside. To make sure that water will drain off the walk, slope toward one side. A pitch of 1/4 inch to 1/2 inch is satisfactory for a walk 3 feet wide.
 For convenience in building and to provide for expansion and contraction of joints, walks should be divided at 4 to 6 foot intervals with partition strips placed at right angles to the side form.

THIS WEEK:
 The News from Europe: How we depend on sources with an anti-Catholic bias; High time for the "New York Times" office to clean up its foreign desk; Political parties in Spain: How Catholics are divided.

I suppose you read the daily papers. For our information on European affairs in general we depend on the daily press, on its news agencies and its special correspondents. Are these sources of information reliable wherever and whenever the Catholic Church and Catholic activities, social and political, are concerned? Don't believe it. For instance, the New York Times is supposed to be reliable. I mention it specially because it is the only daily that I read regularly, and, in my opinion, its information is correct. It is the favorite periodical of educated Catholics in the metropolitan district, although I am told the Herald has more readers. It is the "crowd that streams from yawning doors."
 Vienna Special Correspondent
 Now for 18 months past the New York Times has had a special correspondent who has constantly, and I believe deliberately, misrepresented the situation in Austria. In this country the Times would be the last periodical to espouse the cause of the Socialists.
 But this Mr. Gedy has consistently represented the Viennese Socialists as martyrs and the only people over there who have any concept of "liberty." And why? Simply because the Government, which put down the Socialist Revolution, was composed of Catholics. Whenever the Catholics appear in this correspondent's dispatches they are "reactionaries," "fascists," or of some other brand of hateful tyrants.
 I could give you many other examples of this kind of Catholic tendency. But don't believe that I see all the correspondents of the Times as tarred with the same brush. Of its correspondents in Spain I meet its regular correspondents who sign their articles two wish to be fair. William Carney and Lawrence Fernsworth. They make mistakes in matters of fact, but I think this is due to their not having lived long enough in the country to be able to trace current events to their historical causes.
 In giving an account of the Rebellion of last October, Mr. Carney set out the event and its causes with admirable clearness and impartiality.
 But that did not satisfy the gentleman who presides at the foreign desk in the office of the Times. The pretext for his revolt was that three Catholics had taken portfolios in the Leroux Cabinet. That fact threw a glow of red on the foreign desk. Its occupant had to correct the account given by William Carney and to put those "reactionary" Catholics in their true light. To this purpose he devoted nearly a column of fine print which he appended to the dispatch from Mr. Carney.
 In all calmness, after nine months, I have examined again this informative appendage. It contains at least a dozen statements that are not only false but notorious so, that are in glaring contradiction to facts known to the general public for 8 1/2 years previously, that are at manifest variance with the accounts given by the Times' own correspondents who were writing on the spot and should have been considered to be in possession of more correct information than the gentlemen behind a desk in Times Square.
